, and Household.

Orchard Grass.—Sow the seed while the snow is on the ground, if possible. Harrow and roll it in the spring, after it has started to grow. This will prevent its forming tussocks or clumps. It is better than timothy for mixing with clover, as it ripens more nearly at the same time. Sow from fifteen to twenty five pounds of seed to the acre.—Fourteen pounds is a bushel of seed.

A writer in the Farmer's Review gives the following remedy as a sure preventive against the ravages of the cabbage worm. Place the suds used in washing in sunshine until soured. When the worm appears give the plants two or three sprinklings. This has proved a success. Several persons have tried this simple remedy and raised the best cabbage they ever raised, and consider it a success.

A London live stock journal, speaking of horseshoeing, pertinently remarks: If the farmers or blacksmiths are anxious to do something useful at a small expense, let them publish an illustrated broadside fit for hanging in blacksmith shops, telling smiths and their masters what not to do. Don't carve the frog; don't open the heels; don't rasp the outside of the hoof; after shortening the toe, if needed, fit the shoe to the foot, and so on, as common sense dictates.

The Best Layers.—Every chicken fancier has a big story to tell about the great laying qualities of his hens. This seems to be true whatever breed he keeps. He thinks they are the best layers. This is a part of the so-called "poultry fever," and happens quite regularly as a symptom in ever new case of the disease.

A. claims that his Hamburgs "just beat the world for laying." B. says, "my Leghorns will outlay any other chickens that grow." C. says, "my Houdans are remarkable layers, and the eggs are so fine and large." D. says, "Our Plymouth Rocks beat any hens to lay we ever had." E. declares "the Brahmas are the best layers of all because their eggs are so large and rich," and so on to the end of the chapter.

Most people who wish to get some new breed want the best layers. If they don't know anything about the different breeds but what they are told by A. B. C. &c., how are they to make their choice? If they listen to each fancier or breeder, and believe all he tells them, they will certainly be at a loss to know what to do.

The so-called non-sitters, as Hamburgs, Leghorns, Houdons and Polish breed will lay more eggs a year than the sitters and P. Rock, Brahmas, Cochins, &c. Of the larger fowls the P. Rock is probably the best layers, and are to be preferred for general "business" purposes. If one wishes to make a specialty of egg-production he should select some one of the smaller breeds, whichever he likes best.

Lamp-shades of ground glass should be washed with soda and water, which will not discolor them.

Potato water, in which potatoes have been scraped, the water being allowed to settle, and afterward strained is good for sponging dirt out of silk.

Use white oil cloth, bound with red, for wall protectors; back of the kitchen table, and under the hooks where pans, etc., are hung.

Furniture needs cleaning as much as other woodwork. It may be washed with warm soap suds, quickly wiped dry, and then rubbed with an only cloth.

If any one desires a plant which will bloom through the winter, with no cessation, nothing will give greater satisfaction than the double pink petunia.

If troubled with wakefulness on retiring to bed, eat three or four small onions; they will act as a gentle and soothing narcotic. Onions are also excellent to eat when a person is much exposed to the cold.

The best known preventive for falling hair is American petroleum. It should be rubbed on the head quickly with the palm of the hand. In all it should be used six or seven times, at an interval of three days.

Rich Griddle Cakes.—Into twelve ounces of flour rub one large spoonful of butter, and three eggs, with as much milk as will make the dough the consistency of paste. Roll it out thin. Make into cakes and bake them on a griddle.

Stuffed Cabbage.—Select a fine large cabbage, strip the outer leaves off, cut off the stalk, scoop out the heart, and fill with mince, bread crumbs, onions and seasoning. Tie in a cloth and boil for one hour.

Beefsteak.—A beefsteak chopped up fine, and baked with flour and yeast in the form of a meat bread-loaf, is the latest dietetic sensation. It is asserted that meat thus treated entirely disappears during the process of baking, the nutritive principles becoming incorporated with the bread.

To Prevent Buff or Grey Linen From Spotting when Washing.—Stir into the first water one teaspoonful of black pepper.—This will also prevent colored cambrics from running.

Blue on Cotton.—Take two ounces oxalic acid, two ounces of Prussian blue and dissolve in separate pails of hot water. Dip the goods first in the acid, then in the blue. Wring dry and repeat until the color suits.

Pillets of White Fish.—Cut the fish into neat pieces about as large as the palm of your hand.—Dip them into a batter of egg, milk and flour; roll in hot lard. Serve with a tomato sauce, directions for which have been given in this column.

Furniture Polish.—One and one half ounce of alcohol, half an ounce of muriatic acid, eight ounces of lin-seed oil, one and one-half ounces of butter of antimony, half pint of vinegar; mix cold. I paid ten dollars for this recipe and have used it for twelve years.

MARK ANTHONY'S ORATION OVER CÆSAR.

The Text From Which Shakespeare Wrote His Version.

Friends, Romans, countrymen! lend me your ears!
I will return them next Saturday. I come
To bury Cæsar, because the times are hard,
And his folks can't afford to hire an undertaker.
The evils that men do live after them,
In the shape of progeny, who reap the
Benefit of their life insurance;
So let it be with the deceased.
Brutus hath told you Cæsar was ambitious!
What does Brutus know about it?
It is none of his funeral. Would that it were!
Here, under leave of you, I come to
Make a speech at Cæsar's funeral.
He was my friend, faithful and just to me;
He loaned me $5 once when I was in a pinch,
And signed my petition for a postoffice,
But Brutus said he was ambitious.
Brutus should wipe off his chin;
Cæsar has brought many captives home to Rome,
Who broke rocks on the streets until their ransoms
Did the general coffers fill.
When that the poor hath cried, Cæsar hath wept,
Because it didn't cost anything, and
Made him solid with the masses. [Cheers.]
Ambition should be made of sterner stuff,
Yet Brutus says he was ambitious—
Brutus is a liar, and I can prove it.
You all did see that upon the Lupercal
I thrice presented him with a kingly crown,
Which he did thrice refuse, besause it did not fit him quite.
Was this ambitious? Yet Brutus says he was ambitious;
Brutus is not only the biggest liar in the country,
But he is a horse thief of the deepest dye! [Applause.]
If you have tears, prepare to shed them now.
You all know this ulster!
I remember the first time Cæsar ever put it on;
It was a summer's evening in his tent,
And the thermometer registered ninety degrees in the shade;
But it was an ulster to be proud of,
And cost him $7 at Marcaius Swartzmyer's;
Old Swartz wanted $40 for it,
But finally came down to $7, because it was Cæsar!
Was this ambitious? If Brutus says it was,
He is even a greater liar than Mrs. Tilton.
Look! in this place ran Cassius' dagger through;
Through this the son-of-a-gun of a Brutus stabbed,
And when he plucked his cursed steel away,
Mark Anthony, how the blood of Cæsar followed!
[Cheers, and cries of
"Give us something on the silver bill!—Hit him again!" etc.]
I come not, friends, to steal away your hearts;
I am no thief as Brutus is!
Brutus has a monopoly in that business,
And if he had his deserts, he would be
In the penitentiary, and don't you forget it.
Kind friends, sweet friends, I do not wish to stir you up
To such a sudden flood of mutiny,
And it looks like rain,
The pall-bearers will proceed to take the coffin in the hearse,
And we will proceed to bury Cæsar,
Not to praise him.

FASHIONABLE CALLS.

(Callers seated in the parlors of an up-town mansion.)

"I've heard she gave three hundred dollars for that group, I'd just as soon have a chromo, wouldn't you?"

"H-u-s-h!"

"And just look at that centre-table—looks like a fancy fair for all the world; one would think"—

"H-u-s-h," she's coming."

(Enter lady of the house.)

"Oh you dear, darling creatures! What an age since I've seen you. Where have you been? enjoying the holidays, no doubt. I'm so glad to see you both?"

(Together.) "And we are so glad to see you! how perfectly sweet you do look! What have you been doing to yourself? Oh, it's that lovely new dress! so becoming! but then you look well in everything!"

"Oh! oh! Who's got a new seal skin cloak? Dear Mrs. Smith, I just envy you; it's a b-e-a-u-ti-ful thing!"

Mrs. Smith—"Well, it ought to be; James gave four hundred and twenty-five dollars for it."

"Yes! but that's nothing for Col. Smith, you know? How is he? I do admire the Colonel so much! But then he never looks at any one but you."

"Oh! yes! make me believe that! He's a regular old flirt! but I forgive him for everything since he's got me this cloak. Well, we really must go; ever so many calls to make. Now, return this soon there's a darling. By-by, sweetness."

(Lady of the house to next caller.)

"Yes, that Mrs. Col. Smith and her sister—what a dowdy that sister is!—did call here, and, do you believe, she had the impudence to tell me—me—that her husband gave four hundred and twenty-five dollars for that shabby old sealskin, as if I didn't know exactly what it was worth! He'd much better pay his debts," etc., ad infinitum.—Detroit Post.

Sudden Checking of Perspiration.

A Boston merchant, in "lending a hand" on board one of his ships on a windy day, found himself at the end of an hour and a half pretty well exhausted and perspiring freely. He sat down to rest, and engaging in conversation, time passed faster than he was aware of. In attempting to rise, he found he was unable to do so without assistance. He was taken home and put to bed, where he remained two years; and for a long time afterward could only hobble about with the aid of a crutch. Less exposures than this have in constitutions not so vigorous resulted in inflammation of the lungs—pneumonia—ending in death in less than a week, or causing tedious rheumatisms, to be a source of torture for a life time. Multitudes of lives would be saved every year, and an incalculable amount of human suffering would be prevented, if parents would begin to explain to their children, at the age of three or four years, the danger which attends cooling off too quickly after exercise, and the the importance of not standing still after exercise, or work, or play, or of remaining exposed to the wind, even for a few minutes. Many lose their lives by becoming chilled after skating.

[New Albany Ledger-Standard.]

Speaking of Governors suggests the mention of an item we received from Mr. Henry A. Knight, Foreman at Chas. Waters & Co.'s Governor and Valve Works, Boston, Mass.:—I have used St. Jacobs Oil among our employees and find that it never fails to cure. The men are delighted with the wonderful effects of the Oil, as it has cured them of bruises, burns, etc.

Old-fashioned mittens are in style again, and it is once more possible to be comfortable without appearing eccentric.

RAMBO LIME.

Last year I purchased from Nathan Rambo the Blue Quarry upon the lands devised to him by his father, the elder Nathan Rambo. It was out of this Quarry that the Limestone came which gave this Lime its high reputation.

This, and this only, is the GENUINE RAMBO LIME.

I own all of the land on which this stone lies. This Quarry was discontinued only because a vein of earth cut off the face. I have cut through this and re-opened these Quarries upon the original stone which old Nathan Rambo quarried as long as he could find it.

WE CHALLENGE ALL TESTS.

Robert McCoy bought of me my Blue Quarry—I have seen it since he re-opened it, and am satisfied that he works on the blue stone worked by my father in his lifetime.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 Volumes, over 16,000 Pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for 10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

The Library of Universal Knowledge is a reprint of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chamber's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent. of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readars, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE:

I—Publish only books of real value

II—Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.

III.—Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent. commission commonly allowed to dealers.

IV.—The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.

V.—Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.

VI.—To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.
