Chestertown Transcript.

THURSDAY, MAY 19, 1881.

If there should happen to be in your paper this week, a little bill, don't get mad about it. Likewise don't forget to call in right soon and settle it. Some of our friends, like the little boy we have read about, have a very weak memory, but a powerful strong forgetfulness.

The Transcript enters its twentieth year with this issue.

Wanamaker & Brown have in this issue a large new advertisement of their Oak Hall clothing house.

Tolchester opened for the season yesterday. The Chestertown hacks expected to commence running on same day.

The Potato Bug has come out of winter quarters, and is diligently inquiring into the prospect for a crop this season.

Festival.—The ladies of Shrewsbury parish will hold a festival at Locust Grove, on the evenings of June 7th, 8th and 9th.

Hyland & Co., Galena's enterprising machinists, advertise in this issue their celebrated iron frame cultivators, and cultivator teeth.

Baseball Clubs are beginning to shoot up in Peninsula towns. In Chestertown, and in the other towns of Kent, baseball seems to be a dead issue.

The Heliotrope, a United States buoy steamer, came up to Chestertown Tuesday, for the purpose of placing buoys along the channel of Chester river.

The Thanks of the TRANSCRIPT are due Judge T. J. Shallcross for two very fine bunches of asparagus. Blessed are they who remember the newspaper.

Personal.—Insurance Commissioner Hines was in Chestertown the latter part of last week.

Mr. H. H. Barroll, formerly of Kent, is now in Boston, Mass.

The Temperature flops up and down without regard to spring clothes or winter flannels. The thermometer thinks nothing of skipping from 40 to 90 or vice versa, from 90 to 40.

The Kent Guards leave by the B. S. Ford at seven o'clock next Monday morning to attend the anniversary dinner of the 5th Maryland regiment. The company will engage in dress parade to-morrow evening.

A Source of Revenue.—The Commissioners of Chestertown have sold the privilege of removing night soil for $50 per annum. The removals are to be made between the hours of 11 o'clock P. M. and 3 o'clock A. M.

Soon be Here.—Sunday school picnics, ice-cream festivals, Cape May excursions, agricultural fairs, flies, mosquitos, sun-stroke and bilious, together with other joys and sorrows of the summer season, too numerous to mention.

Lightning, during the thunder storm of last Sunday night, struck the plank fence around the barnyard of Constable Jacoby, in Galena, and shivered it to the ground. The fence was not further than five feet from the stable, where his horse was feeding, and yet no damage was done except to the fence.

The B. S. Ford came over last Tuesday, newly painted and looking fresh and handsome. Both the Law and Ford will be on the course on and after next Monday, and there will be a steamer leaving Chestertown every morning at seven o'clock and touching at the various wharves on the river. See time schedule elsewhere.

Sale of Two Desirable Tracts of Land.—Elsewhere will be found advertised by Messrs. Hynson, Pearce and Bannon, as trustees, a very desirable tract of land, containing 500 acres, and located between Massey's and Sassafras.

Messrs. C. H. Baker and R. Hynson, as trustees, also advertise a valuable farm, only four miles from Chestertown, and containing 310 acres.

Baltimore Grain Market.—Tuesday's quotations are as follows: Southern Wheat finds a ready demand and the market is firm, with sales of Fultz at 1 20a$1 22 for common and $1 28 for prime, and of long-berry at $1 30. No. 1 red Maryland sold at 1 31½ and $1 32.

Southern Corn was in active demand, and the market was firm, especially for white, which sold at 60a61 cts. for No. 2 and 62 cts. for No. 1; small lots yellow sold at 61 cts.

In Trouble Again.—William Hill, a colored gentleman of the forest region, was lodged in jail by Constable Jacoby on last Tuesday. Hill is becoming somewhat of a noted character. About two years ago, he waded into a fight with another colored man, and came out of the encounter with his ear chewed off. Last summer he got into another fight, for which he stood trial before the court last fall, and was acquitted of any wrong doing.

On last Monday Hill visited the house of Mr. James E. Davis, living near Galena, to see his wife, who lives with Mr. Davis. His wife didn't particularly want to see him, and as Mr. Davis suspected him of being responsible for the disappearance of a set of harness some week or so ago, he ordered Hill away. Hill refused to go, and on Mr. Davis insisting that he should go, became very abusive. Mr. Davis threatened to shoot him, whereupon he left. Mr. Davis fearing that Hill might do him some secret injury, went before 'Squire Miller and swore to that effect. 'Squire Miller bound over Hill to keep the peace, and failing to give bail, Hill was lodged in jail on Tuesday.

The M. E. Church of Snow Hill has refused to accept the Rev. Mr. Blackiston sent them in place of Rev. E. B. Newnam, who declined the appointment. The Snow Hill Shield says of the matter:

The Revered gentleman has the sympathy of not only a majority of the M. E. congregation but the entire community for the very peculiar position in which he has been placed. While here he made many friends, and had he been acceptable to that branch of the church known as the "Official Board," he would have remained and doubtless have accomplished much good in this part of the "Moral Vineyard,"—but he was compelled to seek another field of labor, for what reason we know not. He had moved his family and furniture several hundred miles at his own expense. There has been a great deal said of the Rev. Mr. Newnam, because he refused the pastorate assigned him by the Conference,—but we think there is room for more being said of the M. E. Church in Snow Hill, for not receiving the pastor assigned them by their Bishop.

Orphans' Court, TUESDAY, May 17, 1881.—present, Judges Nicholson, Shallcross and Willson.

Wm. D. Burchinal, guardian to Arthur M. Brown, returned his final guardian account for said ward, which was examined, passed as stated, and ordered to be recorded.

Wm. D. Burchinal, guardian to Arthur M. Brown, filed his release from said ward, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

Benjamin D. Quimby filed the last will and testament of Moses Crossley, which was admitted to probate and ordered to be recorded.

Letters testamentary on the estate of Moses Crossley, were granted and committed unto Benjamin D. Quimby, (the executor named in the will) who filed his bond in the sum of $300 which was approved and ordered to be recorded, and Richard F. Moffett and John Schwatka were appointed to appraise the estate.

R. Hynson and G. W. Jacoby, administrators of James T. Pennington, filed an additional account of sales of the personal estate of said deceased, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

John F. Beeks, administrator of Emeline Rolph, returned his first and final administration account, which was examined, passed as stated and ordered to be recorded.

James H. Plummer, guardian to Kate Plummer, returned his guardian account for said ward, which was examined, passed and ordered to be recorded.

James B. Willson, executor of Henrietta E. Willson, filed his release from S. A. Camp and E. H. Camp, T. A. Wallis and Mary G. Wallis, which were received and ordered to be recorded.

Augustus L. Vannort, guardian to Joseph A. Vannort, resigned his guardianship of said ward, and Calvin E. Allen was appointed guardian by request of the said Joseph A Vannort, who filed his bond in the sum of $1000, which was approved and ordered to be recorded.

Harrison W. Vickers, guardian to Joseph S. Flowers, returned his guardian account for the year 1880, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

John F. Whittington, executor of John Whittington, returned his second administration account which was examined, passed as stated and ordered to be recorded.

Queen Anne's Items.—A coal oil lamp was exploded on Thursday evening last, in the house of a Centreville colored man. Several children were playing around, but none of them suffered injury. A bed in the room was burned before the flames were extinguished.

George T. Parvis, tried for forgery at the recent session of court in Queen Anne's, was found guilty, and sentenced to five years imprisonment in the State penitentiary.

Wye camp is to commence on or about August the 3d.

Four prisoners were sent to penitentiary from Queen Anne's county this spring.

"NOTES BY THE WAY."

BUILDING IMPROVEMENTS—THE PEACH PROSPECT—SELF-BINDING REAPERS IN DEMAND—COLORED LABORERS GOING NORTH—SHAD FISHING—INSTALLATION OF A PASTOR, ETC., ETC.

A spirit of improvement is prevailing throughout this section of the county. A number of new buildings are being erected. The demand for carpenters cannot be supplied at present. This is the result of last year's abundant crops and good prices.

W. D. Pennington, one of our largest and most successful peach growers, thinks the crop will be light this year. They are falling off now and have yet to stand the ravages of the curculio. There may be a fair crop along the water, and there may be none. The crop cannot be estimated until after the middle of June.

Many of our farmers are purchasing self-binding reapers. The scarcity of labor compels large wheat growers to have them.

A number of the best colored laborers around Still Pond have gone North to work during the season. Higher wages is the incentive.

The shad caught in the bay this season have been unusually large. The fish commission have certainly improved the size of this fish.

The "drifters" have had fair weather and have caught large quantities of fish.

More turtles have been caught lately in Lloyd's creek than for many years. Some have weighed thirty pounds.

James S. Harris is having a fine dwelling erected near Stanley post-office. H. L. Crew is doing the work.

Miss Mollie Taylor will give a concert at Betterton, Friday evening, May 27th. The proceeds are to go to the church.

Rev. W. Reese will be installed Pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, Georgetown, next Thursday evening. The services will be of a very interesting character.

The rain last night was fine on vegetation. It came just in time to do the wheat crop a great deal of good.

Corn is coming up well.

Potato bugs are as abundant as ever.

RAPID REDUCTION OF THE PUBLIC DEBT.

It is generally known that we live under a Republican administration, and it may be equally well known that this administration announces from its Treasury Department a reduction of the public debt every month, and from the silence of the press, it would seem that these monthly statements are substantial truths, and a tax-burdened, long-suffering public acquiesce. An examination of the official figures will, I think, clearly show that there has been no such reduction.

For instance, it is alleged that the reduction in the month of March was slightly over six millions of dollars. The interest on the national debt on the first day of March was $15,077,462, and on the first day of April it was $18,138,230, or $3,060,738 more. How long will it require to pay in full at this rate the entire national debt? In addition to this the statement shows that there was $2,393,484 less money in the treasury on the first day of April than there was on the first day of March. To put it plain, and this is called a reduction of the public debt! Republicans believe it of course, it is their duty to do so. To do otherwise would subject their party loyalty to suspicion. The press permits such statements to pass unquestioned because a subsidy might be forfeited or the patronage of bankers, brokers and bond-holders might be lost. The great mass of the people acquiesce because they have not the disposition nor the time to investigate the matter; the popular mind is averse to long calculations and a formidable array of figures. Why the great Democratic party should endorse the Republicans in this policy has always been a mystery to thoughtful people. The people may be consoled by the anouncement that there are $196,398,600 in six per cents and $463,590,850 in five per cents now about due, and the department is at a loss what to do about it. It is also stated that there is in the treasury $230,814,692, of which amount $151,987,273 is above all liabilities. Why not apply this amount at once, and save the interest to be paid on it? This money is lying idle in the treasury, while the interest to be paid from the labor and resources of the people keeps on. National bonds have absorbed a large amount of the capital of the nation, which should and would be invested in agricultural and mechanical industry, and other wealth-producing interprises if the interest-bearing, non-taxable bonds were paid.

Interest greater 1st April,		$3,060,738
Cash less	" "	2,393,484
		5,454,222

The payment of the bonds would enhance the value of every farm in the nation, and at the same time furnish means to increase their continuous improvement. Let us think.

Yours, PATRON.

DON'T BE AN EDITOR.

"I am thinking about becoming an editor, but I have not fully made up my mind. I am not sure I would like the business. I don't know anything about it, which makes it hard for me to make up my mind whether I would like it or not. Can you advise me what to do, and have you an opening on your paper? Thus wrote an ambitious young man to an editor, and the editor replied thusly: "My son, before you fully decide to become an editor pause and give the subject the fullest possible consideration. As you see the manly form of the journalist going into a circus on a complimentary ticket, given him for $2 50 worth of local reading notice, you may, without looking at the matter in all its varied aspects, think his lot an unusually happy one, but just wait awhile and look over on the dark side of the fence. All that glitters is not gold-plated, by sixty per cent. Some things that shine on one side are as dark on the other as a request to a postmaster to resign. Don't think because the editor blacked his shoes day-before-yesterday, and, to-day, has on a fresh collar just from the washerwoman, and with brand new saw teeth ironed on the edge, that he is rolling in wealth. He may smile (if you insist on it) and yet his heart may be heavy. His pocket book may contain nothing but an order from an advertiser for three dozen boxes of liver pills, and as an article of steady diet liver pills may be out of season. We freely acknowledge, my son, that the editorial chair has its allurements, and once you get well seated in it, it is almost as hard to shake off as a man who has an old bill against you, but there are other walks of life that are far less laborious and much more remunerative. For instance, you might start out as a tanner, like Jay Gould, and become a great monopolist. There is no business that pays better than that of a monopolist. The next best thing to being a monopolist, perhaps, is being the son-in-law of a monopolist, and in this great and glorious country of ours, you know, a young man can marry any woman he pleases: "The only difficulty being," as John Phœnix used to say, "to find one he can please." Again, you might engage as a mule driver on a tow-path and become President of our country, a position with a fair salary and no docking when you're off duty; or you can drive an ox team across the plains, jump a gold mine and buy a seat in the U. S. Senate. The time is past when you could have secured a Star route contract under Second Assistant P. M. G. Brady, but you can still marry a rich widow, with a farm, and become an agriculturist. In this great and glorious country of ours there are any number of openings for a man of enterprise, without his embarking as a journalist and writing ten hours a day for glory and a complimentary ticket to an amateur minstrel show. Be careful, my son. You don't know anything about an editor's trials. You never saw him writing a leader on the "situation," while three printers were yelling for "copy," and a book agent waiting to trade him "Baxter's Saints' Rest" for a column reading notice. You never saw a seven foot man with a bull dog and a club call on him for a retraction, and get it in less than two minutes by the town clock. You never saw a female canvasser corner him up and hold him spell bound, with her tongue, until he promised to publish a fifty-line notice free gratis, and you never observed him trying to get every patent medicine advertisement in his paper at the top of a column and next to reading matter. You would doubtless think this was all fun, after you got used to it, but it might take you a long, long time to get used to it. Then there are other worriments, incident to the life of a journalist, that you, in your inexperienced innocence, have perhaps never thought of. "They come not singly, but in battalions." Why a house never burns down or a horse never runs away and kills a lightning-rod agent until the day after the paper is out, and before another publication day some detested contemporary has written up and published the thing in two columns of leaded pica. Then the public has lost faith in the editors. Once their utterances were set down as the cast-iron truth, but articles about eggs with other eggs inside of them; children exercising a motherly care over a nest of snakes and ministering to their wants with a cup of milk and a spoon, and of cats hatching out and rearing broods of chickens, have brought them, (not the cats, we mean, but the editors), into doubtful repute. Then some of them have gone to the Legislature and gotten into bad company, had their morals all undermined until they won't go to church more than half a dozen times a year, and when they do go they forget the text before they get home and try to palm off some other text on an unsuspecting public. My son, we cannot advise you to be an editor, and yet, after all is said, there is a bright side to it—a side that glistens like the bottom of a new milk pan, but it is not as big a side as the other side. Do you see that handsome bouquet of early spring flowers on the sanctum table, and into which ever and anon the editor sticks four inches of his Roman nose and sniffs the sweet incense, and smiles with a loving tenderness that drives the crow-feet from the corners of his eyes, round under his ears, to the back of his neck? Well, those flowers were culled by fair hands. If the editor is single you will read his acknowledgments in his next paper; but if he is married you probably will not. That's all.—Middletown Transcript.

Lippincott's Magazine for June opens with a well illustrated article on "The Lower St. Lawrence and the Saguenay," which is full of fine touches in the way of description, and will no doubt have the effect of sending many summer tourists over a line which presents so many noble features different from those of more familiar routes. The third chapter of Dr. Oswald's "Zoological Curiosities" treats amusingly of "our four-handed relatives," and has some capital illustrations. "Among the Cowboys," by Louis C. Bradford, is an excellent sketch of the life of the Texan herdsman and of the career of King and other great cattle-owners. Mr. Dorman B. Eaton discusses the subject of "Tenure of Office," which, as our readers know, is not only an important one, but likely before long to lead to practical issues. Rowland Connor writes critically but genially of the "Moral Reformrs" who blossom out annually at Boston during "anniversary week." "An American Salon in Rome," by C. R. Corson, introduces Miss Brewster and her circle, regarding whom Miss Tincker's new novel, "By the Tiber," has just been piquing the interest of a good many readers. There are several capital short stories and sketches in the number. "What Sooz'n Did," by Margaret Bertha Wright, "A Russian Petruchio," by Vera Papoukhyn, "His Brother Philip," by Frank Lewees, "Taking the Train," etc. The serial, "Craque-o'-Doom," reaches a dramatic climax in this number and shows varied power on the part of the writer. The poetry is by Maurice Thompson and Louise Chandler Moulton. The editorial departments are well sustained, and the varied character of the number is popular and entertaining.

Cut This Out.—It is presumed that barely one-fourth of the purchasers of clothing are fair judges of their purchases; and it is therefore important to know where you can buy with confidence, that you may get your money's worth. C. N. OEHM & SON, 230 W. Pratt St., through to 55 Hanover St., have been in the business in Baltimore for over a quarter of a century; they manufacture every garment sold by them. Their experience enables them to give satisfaction in quality, price, material and workmanship, and no one in want of clothing should neglect to call upon them. It will pay you.

Marriages have increased 40 per cent. since young men have learned of the soothing effect of SINES' TAR, WILD CHERRY and HOARHOUND, upon babies. Young men if you keep a bottle on hand for an emergency, you are safe in bringing things to a climax.

"A horse! a horse! my kingdom for a horse!" when King Richard spoke these words of Bosworth field, he undoubedly meant a horse which had been using ROBERT'S CELEBRATED HORSE POWDERS, as no other animal would have conveyed him to a safe place in the quickest possible time. Price 25 cts.—sold everywhere.
