Farm and Household.

HANDLING SHEEP.

Tag your sheep before the grass starts. The tags are comparatively clean, and quite a proportion of them can be used at shearing time or otherwise disposed of. It is a good plan to take some two by two-inch scantling, four feet in length, and cross them so as to form a tall saw-buck, making the crossing fifteen inches from the upper end.—Nail a fence board on the top of the cross on both pair and one on the inside of the cross pieces at the top. This forms a trough in which the sheep can be placed on its back, and while a boy holds its feet the tag locks can be easily and quickly cut off. It is no way to grab a sheep by the wool with both hands and hold the sheep in that way. It causes the blood to settle, and in some causes inflammation. When one has no crook with which to grasp the hind leg move carefully up to the side of the sheep wanted, seize it by the neck with both hands, pass one hand around the body, grasp the brisket and lift the sheep clear from the ground. In no case pull the wool. In handling fattened sheep or ewes in lamb put the hand and wrist about the neck and press the other hand against the rump and lift the animal in that way.—Farm and Fireside.

FRENCH BREAD.—As a rule the French bread is always sweet and good, and two things contribute in a great degree to this—that is the manner or form of baking. They never make a thick loaf; no matter what the size or shape, it is always thin, and more than two-thirds crust. They bake their bread until it is perfectly cooked. The loaves being so thin, the heat strikes through very soon after they are placed in the oven; hence all fermentation is stopped, while in the case of large loaves fermentation goes on after the bread has been in the oven for some time, and of course much of the sweetness is lost. Then in baking so long, and having so much crust, there is a peculiar sweetness given which can be obtained in no other way.

GOOSEBERRY JELLY.—Take the berries when ripe, mash them, and put them into a kettle with a very little water, allow them just to come to a boil, to make them tender, so that the juice will flow. Then hang them up in a jelly bag and let the juice drip through into an earthern dish. Do not squeeze them much, as the small seeds will come through. To every pint of juice allow a pound of white sugar, and boil rapidly for twenty minutes.

THE Fultz wheat, now so generally cultivated in many portions of the United States, was named after its discoverer, Abram Fultz, of Allenville, Pa., and originated from 3 stalks which he found in a neighboring field and attracted his attention by their erect position, being different also in appearance from the fallen wheat which surrounded them. This is the way that so many valuable grains, seeds, plants, &c., originate. Of course only the single stalk or plant must be taken.

THERE is quite as much necessity for barn cleaning on the farm as for house-cleaning, and if farmers were as punctilious about the renovation and purification of out-buildings as farmerines are about the dwellings, there would speedily be an improvement in the appearance of things; and of convenience too. Lost, or misplaced tools are brought to light, barn, shed and shop furnishings put in order, space gained and a revival of cheerfulness everywhere. Find time for barn cleaning.

A Chicago Times correspondent writes: For killing lice on cattle or horses take sassafras roots, boil them to a strong tea; take some old cloth and wash the animal so as to wet the hair and hide thoroughly, and I will guarantee it to destroy the lice. Either warm or cold when applied will do this. I have use this on cattle and colts with the best of success, and no danger of any bad effect or injury to the animals.

JUMBLES.—One cup butter, two cups sugar, one cup milk, four eggs, one teaspoon soda, six cups flour, a little nutmeg. Roll them out, cut them with a tumbler and a wine-glass to form a ring; dust over with the white of an egg, and sift on a little sugar before baking.

TOMATO SOUP.—Put two-thirds of a two-pound can of tomatoes on the stove and let it boil. Put one teaspoonful soda into the tomatoes; after it is done foaming put the tomatoes into two quarts of boiling milk, season with salt, pepper and a liberal lump of good butter.

WHIPPED POTATOES.—Whip boiled potatoes to creamy lightness with a fork; beat in butter, milk, pepper and salt; at last the frothed white of an egg; toss irregularly upon a dish, set in the oven two minutes to re-heat, but do not let it color.

BROILING MEAT.—It is a mistaken idea held by many who call themselves good cooks, that the outer rim of fat should be removed before broiling chops or steak. The more fat you leave on the more tender and juicy your steak will be.

CIDER JELLY.—Get cider right from the press before it is the least fermented. Boil it in porcelain or brass; do not add any fresh cider after it once begins to boil. Therein lies the secret if there is any. It does not require any sugar.

DAIRYMEN should bear in mind that poor butter or cheese is always the first to feel the effects of a dull market. The best products are always inquired for even on the poorest market.

Crude unfermented manure and much moisture tends to produce a soft rapid growth in the young trees that continues the season, rendering them liable to injury from severe cold.

THERE is true economy in kind treatment to domestic animals. The motto of all who have property in or care over them should ever be, "Humanity is the best policy.

TRUE MAGIC.

FROM BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE.

There dwelt of late by Tiber's flow
A Sage of aspect to inspire
Weird thoughts in those who marked the glow
Of eyes where Rosicrucian fire
Gleamed hollow, and whose look remote
Some far-off mystery seemed to note.

'Twas rumored those who sought the tower
Where lone and vigil-worn he sat
All darkling at the midnight hour,
Consorting with the owl and bat,
Came forth with pallid lips to tell
Of ghostly things that there befell.

For he could bid a slumberer's thought
Through time and space its passage wing,
With news by docile spirits brought
Could make the smitten table ring,
And e'en (dread thought!) from dust could raise
Like life the folk of other days.

Much of these feats did he impart
To one, a fellow-sojourner
For Art's sake in this realm of Art,
As once they left the city's stir
And passed beyond the ancient wall
Along the broad browed Viminal.

Replied this last, "Faith, too, have I
In arts which may the dead restore;
Dost ask example!—see, hard by,
The studio of my friend:—its door
To us (though absent he, of late)
Is free,"—and so they entered straight.

The Wizard, rapt, paced dreamily
The studio round; with absent glance
Passed all the noble statues by,
Preferring to recall, perchance,
What yesternight's long seance gave
Of tidings from beyond the grave.

"Mark," said the other, "how my friend
Makes his unbodied thoughts our own,
Persuades the plastic forms to blend,
Then turns them into breathing stone;
Almost with awe I look around,
And half believe 'tis holy ground.

"See where yon block of Parian stone
Awaits his hand:—within it lie
Love, hate, joy, anguish;—he alone
The shrouded passion can descry;
His chisel is the wand of might
Will bring the latent soul to light.

"What Art divine, to rend the veil
That wraps the beings of the past!
Nay, more, the spirit's husk and shale,
Its accidents, aside to cast,
Till in these forms around we view
The master-motive shining through.

"The soft Egyptian musing here
Forgets her queenly pomp and sway;
Love's vassal she; in thought she's near
Her amorous Roman far away;
Creeps in her ear the plash of Nile,
By Tiber strays her soul the while.

"Now mark the Queen whose pomp of soul
Made Babylon a dwelling fit
For gods:—here will that scorns control,
And pride, and lust of empire, sit
Enthroned:—if Love may venture nigh
'Tis with trailed wing and abject eye.

"Wouldst view the god in fairer guise?
See here in Sappho's form he beams,
All thrilling in a soft surprise
She harks to tones late heard in dreams,
With lips that murmur, eyes that long—
The spirit of a Paphian song.

"Canst show, with all thy magic power,
How, 'neath an evil spirit's wing,
A soul is darkened? In his hour
Of rayless gloom see Saul the King,
Majestic still though sore oppress,
Clutching the beard that hides his breast."

The Wizard paused before reply,
As one whose thoughts are otherwhere,—
"These forms are born of fantasy,
And wrought by other hands would bear
Another aspect—I evoke
The people as they walked and spoke.

"No fancies:—those we call the dead
Are close to hearing and to sight;
To lure them from the world we dread
Needs but a nature tuned aright,
A magic known to witch and sage
In every clime and every age.

"If, of this necromantic power
You ask for proof, come visit me
In private and propitious hour,
When, duly reverent, you shall see
The forms of those yourself shall name,
King, poet, warrior, winsome dame.

"At my command, the self-same face
That Antony upturned to kiss
Shall smile on you—your eye shall trace
The features of Semiramis;
And, as dead Samuel rose for Saul,
The Hebrew King, obey my call.

"Sappho in lyric utterance
Herself shall manifest—you'll hear
What held all Lesbos listening once."
Observed the sculptor's friend: "I fear
'Twill show, if her authentic verse,
How death has changed her for the worse.

"But not alone live here again
Those who once were;—the shadows vast
Whose birthplace was a poet's brain
Take substance; or a people past,
Or vanished faith, compact is brought
Before our eyes, in marble wrought.

"I know not if Medea stood
One moment to inflame her heart
With thoughts of Glauce, that the flood
Of jealoue rage might force impart
To flash aloft yon dagger bare—
But, if she did—behold her there!

"Grief veils, as twilight veils the sky,
The beauty of this maiden's face,
Touches the features tenderly,
Transmutes, not hides, the charm and grace;
Lone Princess, all her glories fled,
Jerusalem mourns, uncomforted.

"That listening Sibyl, rapt and awed,
Hears through the stillness of the shrine
Dread tokens of the coming God;
From those sad lips the will divine,
Dim prescience, wisdom veiled, would come
Ere yet the oracles were dumb.

"Here are no fading ghosts, mere things
Of air. As in the Pharoah's land
The giant forms of ancient Kings
Rise vast above the desert sand,
So, o'er the flats of every day,
The larger life that these portray.

"This, the true magic, can compel
True homage, both of mind and heart:
And he who wields such potent spell,
Endowed by nature, nursed by art,
May claim inheritance through these
With Phidias and Paxiteles."

A Troy lawyer asked a woman on the witness stand her age, and she promptly replied:
"I sold milk for you to drink when a baby, and I haven't got my pay yet."

The Graphic's farm editor says: "Soak cats well in a bag tied at the mouth and plant them deep to prevent their scratching up the seed."

A PROMINENT LAWYER'S OPINION.

In one of our New England exchanges we observe that William T. Filley, Esq., of Pittsfield, Attorney-at-Law and Assistant Judge Police Court, and late County Commissioner, was restored to perfect health and activity, by the use of St. Jacobs Oil. He had suffered with rheumatism for years intensely; but by the recent use of the remedy he was, as stated, completely cured, and says the Oil deserves the highest praise.

THE

Capitol of American Clothing

Oak Hall,

S. E. Cor. Sixth and Market Streets, Philadelphia.

1861------20th SPRING------1881

Twenty years of lessons in how to make and sell the best clothing. We have begun the twenty-first. All that we have found out about it, we have put into practice in making up the 2½ acres of clothing that you will look at for our trade; it is the very largest retail clothing stock in the country; worth every cent we ask for it; and we guarantee every article.

More and Better Materials in
More and Better Clothing in Oak Hall
Lower and Fairer Prices in

Than in any other retail clothing house anywhere within reach of American money.

The secret of our great business is only this: Doing our level best to make up the right kind of clothing, and having made it right, then counting the cost, and

SELLING AT THE RIGHT PRICES.

This we have been doing for twenty years; and have clothed over hundred of thousands,—old and young.

This Spring We Overtop every Past Spring.

This spring has been so backward that we have had ample getting-ready time, and the extraordinary stock of clothing that every man and boy may choose from is without equal in America. The stock is something wonderful.

SOUND AS HONEST WORK CAN MAKE IT.

The best sewing on the best cloths, the best trimmings, the best styles, and the best money's worth that can be put into clothing anywhere. It is a great thing to say, that not another house in the land can do so much in clothing you so well. The cloths come direct to us; we buy them largely; we make up the clothing in our own well-ordered ways,—knowing all the things that belong to making clothing well,—and they will go direct from us,—the makers,—to you,—the wearers,—not a profit between. That's why OAK HALL has the lowest prices, as well as the best clothing.

During the past ninety days we have, in making up this new spring stock, so improved the patterns, our ways of making, and minor details that this spring's exhibition of ready-made clothing might be fairly called

Ready Custom-Made Clothing.

Being far in advance of any hitherto offered for immediate wear. This applies alike to Men's and Boys' Clothing.

Our Custom Clothing Department improves every year. We make to order from the finest fabrics, and believe we do the best work that can be done.

Orders by mail are filled with the same promptness and care that would be given to serving you in person.

Extending the compliments of the house, and a cordial invitation to everybody to come and see, and make trial of the 1881 Spring clothing.

W. Registers MARBLE WORKS,

Chestertown, Md.

ALLOW ME to tender my sincere thanks for the past patronage of the public, and hope to receive their approval and patronage this present year. I am prepared to cut and finish every design in the marble business.

I have a very handsome assortment of my own finished

TOMBSTONES.

Some of the Latest Designs,

HANDSOMELY FINISHED,

COPIED FROM THE LATE PARIS EXHIBITION.

A large assortment for children, different patterns, some as low as $6.00, lettering included. Some fifty different patterns for grown persons, handsomely finished, some of them as low as $15.00, lettering included. Also, a fine line of different patterns, expressly for the very thick and heavy and handsomely finished of the best marble.

Marble Posts, marble Vases with Pedestal, Marble Coping, Tombstones and Monuments, of all sizes and styles.

Marble or Sandstone worked to order. I warrant all my work not to color or blister—time has no effect on it. I set up all of my work, thus relieving the purchaser of all trouble or risk.

Come one, come all, that are in want, and examine my work and learn my prices. I will be thankful. Don't send the money out of your own neighborhood.

Call and see me. I do not like to canvass for work, for I think it too sad a business to barter with relatives or friends.

My work can be seen in all the cemeteries of Kent and the adjoining counties.

HELP Yourselves by making money when a golden chance is offered, thereby always keeping poverty from your door. Those who always take advantage of the good chances for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances remain in poverty. We want many men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. The business will pay more than ten time ordinary wages. We furnish an expensive outfit and all that you need free. No one who engages fails to make money very rapidly. You can devote your whole time to the work, or only your spare moments. Full information and all that is needed sent free. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine. Oct. 14, 1880.
