Chestertown Transcript.

THURSDAY, NOV. 3, 1881.

The dry spell has broken with a seeming determination to keep broke.

Democratic Mass Meeting To-night at the court house, beginning at seven o'clock.

Fish are in market in small quantities. Oysters are prime.

There is a fair outlook for a matrimonial boom in Kent this winter.

Come to the Court House this evening. Open at seven. No reserve seats. Tickets free.

Angling from the Chester river bridge, is yielding better sport. A few large rock have been caught.

The George Law now leaves Baltimore at nine o'clock in the morning, instead of at ten as she has been doing.

The Blind Staggers is afflicting the horses in parts of Kent county. A number of horses in and around Chestertown have died with the disease.

Real Poetry.—I've traveled East, I've traveled West, through many a weary day, but the one thing that gets me best, is why the hens don't lay.

A Live Democratic Meeting at the court house this evening. The political situation will be discussed by eloquent speakers. Doors open at seven.

Next Tuesday is election day. The campaign has been a serene one, and the election will doubtless pass without a ripple of excitement. Let every Democrat turn out.

Vessel Raised.—The schooner Virginia, of Lankford's Bay, Chester river, which sunk in Chesapeake bay, off Swan Point, on the night of October 6th, was raised this week and towed to Baltimore.

Personal Property to be sold.—Mr. Josias Ringgold, will sell at public sale, at his farm near Chestertown, on next Wednesday, the 9th instant, a large lot of valuable personal property. See advertisement of sale elsewhere.

Grand Rally of the Democracy of the fourth election district, at the court house in Chestertown this evening, beginning at seven o'clock. Speeches by Hon. Barnes Compton, Hon. J. A. L. McClure, and J. Upshur Dennis, Esq.

Remodeled.—Mr. W. Joseph Vannort has so completely remodeled his house on the corner of Front and Bridge streets, that when finished it cannot be told from a new house. He has changed the style of the front of the main building, put in two bay windows, and added a large back building.

Democratic District Meetings.—The following district meetings are announced to be held next Saturday, the 5th of November:

At Betterton there will be an oyster scald, and an address by B. Howard Haman, Esq.

There will be an oyster scald at Quaker Neck.

There will be an oyster roast at Ashley's shops.

Blew out the Gas.—William T. Craddock stopped at the Maltby House, Baltimore, last Saturday night, and when he retired, blew out the gas. He was suffocated, and found dead next morning. Mr. Craddock is said to have formerly lived in this county. He was a native of St. Mary's county, and at the time of his death, hailed from Warwick, Cecil county.

The Transcript has a new carrier, who has not yet thoroughly learned the route. A number of our town subscribers have reported recently that their papers have not been delivered. We will be obliged if any others who have failed to receive their paper will report at the office. If there are any who are receiving the paper who are not subscribers, we shall also be obliged to them if they will notify us.

Baltimore Grain Market—TUESDAY'S QUOTATIONS.—Southern Wheat is dull and lower, with the demand largely confined to the best grades. Fultz ranges from 1 35 to $1 40 and long-berry at 1 40a$1 48, the outside prices for choice and fancy samples. No. 1 Maryland red sold at $1 49. Southern Corn is quiet and about steady for white, with sales at 73a74 cents for old and 72 cents for new; yellow is dull and nominal.

Insane.—Officer Calvin E. Allen, of Worton, on last Thursday evening, arrested James Pleasant, (colored) and brought him before Justice Wheatley of Chestertown. Jim was perfectly crazy, and the Justice had him sent to the almshouse. Jim, for a year or two past, had lived in Chestertown, as the servant of Father Bradford and also of his successor, Father Carey. For several days he had been roaming about Worton, and fearing that he might do injury to life or property, some of the citizens had him arrested. After being handcuffed he suddenly became very violent and almost made carpet rags of officer Allen's suit of clothes. It required the combined efforts of three strong men to put him in the vehicle, but he became perfectly quiet before reaching town.

The Constitutional Amendment.—As will be seen by the proclamation of Gov. Hamilton, advertised throughout the State, a constitutional amendment, relative to the election of Judges, is to be voted upon next Tuesday. On each ticket will be printed, "For or against the Constitutional Amendment." The reason for passing the amendment is that under the constitution as it now stands, the terms of the Judges elected in 1867 expire in 1882. In that year there is no general election, and if the constitution is not amended, there can be no elective judges until after the general election in 1883. To prevent this embarrassment a constitutional amendment has been proposed, which, if adopted, will enable the people to elect judges at the Congressional election in 1882. Those favoring the change will vote "For the Constitutional Amendment;" and those opposed—"Against the Constitutional Amendment."

Removal of Remains.—Geo. W. T. Perkins, Esq., had workmen engaged last week in the removal of remains of members of the Chambers family interred in the old graveyard in Chestertown, just back of the court house. The bodies removed number some thirteen or more, and include those of the late Judge E. F. Chambers, his father and mother, and two daughters; also several children of Mr. Perkins. None of the coffins were opened so far as we know. The caskets of both the father and mother of Judge C., which have been under ground for sixty-four years, were in a remarkably good state of preservation, and the Judge's own casket, which has been buried about fourteen years, was perfectly intact. Mr. Perkins recently, upon the death of his wife, (who was a daughter of Judge Chambers,) purchased a large double lot in Chester Cemetery, and there all the above have been interred. We understand that it is his intention to have erected a handsome monument to the memory of the good and lamented Judge.—Kent News.

Why some Towns are Unhealthful.—Dr. C. W. Chancellor, Secretary to the State Board of Health, in a letter written to the local board of health of Frederick county, concerning an outbreak of typho malarial fever, at Emmittsburg, gives reasons for the unhealthfulness of the town that will apply to other towns than Emmittsburg. Dr. C. writes:

"Foremost among the evils which affect the health of your village is uncleanliness. You have no system of drainage; no arrangement for the removal of excrement and refuse which accumulate in back yards and cellars; your privies are badly constructed and neglected; your back-yards abound in filthy pig-sties; your water supply is insufficient, the water bad, and in many instances the wells are, without doubt, polluted by soakage from piggeries and privies. In a word, there is a general pollution of earth, air and water by foul accumulations of all kinds.

But the most conspicuous nuisance in the infected district is an ill-devised cesspool connected with the hotel in the western section of the town. The overflow from this cesspit, which gathers the sewage of the house, flows into an open ditch directly in front of the residences where the malignant fever first made its appearance. This ditch is used as a sewer, and is usually filled with a large deposit of sewage mud, which at times is said to exhale an insufferable stench. The positive dangers of this filthy drain cannot be over-estimated, and the public mind cannot be too soon aroused to the fact that any one living in the neighborhood of it may be the next victim to the effects of its poisonous emanations. It is not only a possible, but a very probable source of danger which should be removed without delay."

Orphans' Court, TUESDAY, Nov. 1, 1881.—Present, Judges Nicholson, Shallcross and Willson.

Garey H. Leaverton, administrator of Chas. S. Leaverton, filed his release from William T. Slagle and Sarah Jane Leaverton, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

James T. Dixon, administrator of Thomas P. Dixon, returned his account of sales of the personal estate of said deceased, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

J. Frank Wheatley, administrator of J. Willmer VanLear, returned the inventory and appraisement of the personal estate of said dec'd, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

THE GROWING WHEAT—CORN HUSKING—PRESERVATION OF FRUITS—SICKNESS, ETC.

All nature is clothed in Autumnal beauty. The green wheat fields, brown meadows and golden tinted forests give to the landscape a charm that cannot be surpassed.

Wheat is growing finely. A good fall growth almost always insures an abundant harvest.

Some farmers are done husking corn. The crop is larger than was anticipated. Early planting has done the best.

The preservation of green fruits by means of carbonized bran has proven a success. The bran keeps the fruit as perfect as when it was taken from the tree. We can ship our peaches, pears and grapes to Europe, as easily as California can ship the same to New York.

The arrival of wild geese in our waters, leads us to believe that colder weather is near at hand.

Rev. Messrs. Martin and Valiant have been constant visitors upon the sick in their neighborhoods this season. Their kindness will not be forgotten soon.

L. C. Justis is in Delaware City, recruiting his health.

Dr. Jacobs has been lying dangerously ill for the past five weeks. His symptoms at present are more favorable.

Mr. George W. Crossley is slowly recovering from injuries received, several weeks ago, by a fall from a wagon.

There is no political excitement in this section. J. R. Beck is quite sick.

Elkton's gas works are soon to be sold at public sale.

Sussex County, Delaware, still has some cases of small pox.

An independent cavalry company has been organized at Milford.

A Caroline man lost a $300 Jersey cow last week. Gored by a $25 brindle.

Partridges are scarce in Queen Anne's county, but the sportsmen are killing them up.

Enough money has been subscribed to put Cecil county's creamery in operation.

The Editor of the Snow Hill Messenger, found a Snow Hill J. P. bossing a dog fight.

Agular & Miller of Baltimore, will open a large canning factory at Seaford, Delaware, next season.

Owing to the enterprize of a few of its leading citizens, Harrington, Del., is growing very rapidly.

The Wilmington News will in the course of a few days, publish a joke. The entire staff is on the track of one.—Greensboro Free Press.

It is rumored that Christian of the Greensboro Free Press is to be married soon to a pretty Ingle Side girl.—Caroline Democrat,

Do tell! Wonder who the pretty Ingle Side girl is? Is it lawful to guess?

The Wilmington militia who attended the Yorktown Celebration are said to have been very much disappointed because they were not furnished with feather beds to sleep on and rations of quail on toast.

A Worcester county man, while riding home from Pocomoke City, was thrown into a ditch by the stumbling of his horse. His leg was broken. He brought suit for damages against the county, and recovered $755.

Mr. Richard Feddeman has resigned as cashier of the Centreville National bank and Josiah J. Hall has been elected to fill the vacancy. J. Fletcher Rolph has been promoted from bookkeeper to teller, and W. L. Holton has been made book keeper.

The political campaign in Wicomico county is the dullest known for years. An able bodied voter down in that land of sand burrs, sweet potatoes fat oysters, and Colonel Malone, recently exclaimed,—"No money, no whisky, no nothing! It's the tamest time we ever had!"

The boys of Delaware College, at New Ark, have a strong propensity for stealing apples. One youth who hails from Milford, on the borders of Sussex, managed to steal an even bushel, by taking off his trousers, tying the legs at the bottoms, filling them with apples, and making his way in this undress rig to the college. It is to be supposed it was night time.

The Circuit Court of Cecil county reconvened on Monday, and the trial of W. J. Arraun, indicted for the murder of Nicholas Veloker was begun. Both sides have been actively engaged in working up the case and the proceedings promise to be most interesting. The prosecution will be conducted by State's Attorney Crothers, assisted by W. T. Warbutton, Esq., while Hon. Alexander Evans, W. S. Evans and John E. Wilson, Esqs., will defend the prisoner.

The Middletown Transcript will shortly move into new and luxurious quarters. The new office will be fitted up with all modern improvements, save a velocipede and a brass band. The editor as soon as he gets into his new quarters, will endeavor to harmonize himself with his surroundings by wearing a seven by nine smile and a button hole bouquet. He also proposes to aspire to the æsthetic, by hanging his walls with chromos by the old masters, and by instantly bouncing his devil, whenever he appears without a conspicuously clean face and his hair parted as straight as a column rule. One of the most praise worthy of the conveniences with which the new office of the Transcript will be accompanied, is a commodious graveyard, in which the bald-headed editor hopes in time to sumptuously plant tree agents, map pedlars, lightning rod lecturers and agents for patent medicines.

At the democratic mass-meeting at Centreville, Md., last week the following letter was read from S. Teacle Wallis, Esq., of Baltimore:

Baltimore, Oct. 20, 1881—B. Palmer Keating, Esq.—My Dear Sir: I am exceedingly annoyed at having had to decline the invitation of the campaign committee endorsed so kindly by yourself and other friends, to address the mass-meeting next Tuesday. But it is an absolute impossibility for me to make a speech, and I am even required by my physician to abstain as far as possible from ordinary conversation. I took a wretched cold on Wednesday en route from New York, which resulted in an aggravated inflammation of the larynx, from which I shall be fortunate if I am relieved in a fortnight. I should have liked exceedingly the opportunity of meeting the people of Queen Anne's personally, but especially to promote, if I could, your brother's majority, which I see there is a set effort to reduce, at his home. * * * * * I write in haste, and with the best wishes for your brother's triumph over adversaries, I am very truly yours, S. T. WALLIS.

A BROTHER and sister, aged 15 and 17, went for the first time to a circus in Little Rock, and were so dazzled by the glories of the show that they resolved to go off with it. The girl put on male attire, and in that garb introduced herself and brother to the circus manager as twins. They could sing fairly, were a remarkably handsome pair, and the manager hired them at $2 a week and expenses to perform in the concerts after the regular ring exhibitions. On reaching New Orleans they had seen all they desired of circus life, and were glad to be sent back by a benevolent clown to their anxious parents.

THE late Gov. Wiltz of Louisiana left his widow and five children in poverty, and a committee of leading citizens has appealed to the people of the State to provide a fund for them.

A CRANK IN THE WHITE HOUSE.

A DESPERATE STRUGGLE WITH A LUNATIC AT THE EXECUTIVE MANSION.

WASHINGTON, October 31.

A well dressed and powerfully-built man appeared at the White House this afternoon and demanded to see the "accounts of the President." Mr. Dinsmore, the door-keeper on duty, at once recognized the visitor as a "crank," who had called there in May last and was sent home to his friends in Pennsylvania, and with a view to delivering him into the custody of the police suggested that the "accounts" could be seen down the street and that he would accompany him. The man, who gave the name of John Waling, of Pennsylvania, then produced a letter, which he insisted gave him the right to enter the mansion, and endeavored to force his way in. Mr. Dinsmore seized him and a desperate struggle ensued. Waling attempted to draw a revolver, but Dinsmore, who had grasped him by the throat, choked so vigorously that he was unable to use it. Steward Crump and another employe of the House hurried to Dinswore's assistance, and the lunatic was, with some difficulty, overpowered and his revolver taken from him. The police were notified and Waling, or Doctor Noetling, was taken to the station and locked up. The letter which he presented reads as follows:

"John Waling: You are hereby informed that Doctor John Noetling is lawfully elected President of the United States and occupies the White House every day.

NEW YORK STOCKHOLDERS AFTER KEELY.—Having for a long time pinned their faith to the mechanical genius of Keely, the motor man, and gone down into their pockets to aid him in the work of developing his unexplainable mechanism, a number of the New York stockholders in the company have taken a bold stand for satisfaction. They have resolved to pay no more money into the company until Keely patents some of his alleged inventions, and that if he did not patent some part of his machine within ten days they would proceed against him legally. Mr. Keely feels very much aggrieved, but declares he will not yield. He claims that the real purpose of the movement is to force him to tell the secret.—Philadelphia Times.

THE superintendent of the experimental tea farm at Summerville, S. C., sent 3,000 tea plants to the Atlanta Exposition, on Oct. 21. The average height of these specimens, which were selected as a fair sample of the crop, is about nineteen inches, and they look healthy and hardy.
