Who Reads an Advertisement?

The advertising columns of a live newspaper are always interesting. Who reads the advertisements? The question should be changed, in this day, to Who does not read the advertisements? The advertisements in the newspapers mirror the business energy and vitality that exists in a community. Every man who desires to keep posted in home affairs undoubtedly reads the advertising columns of his home paper. It is not necessary to discuss in the local columns matter that appears in the advertising columns, because the advertising columns tell their own tale more accurately and more fully than it can be, or should be, told elsewhere. It frequently is the case, that the advertisements are the most interesting part of a newspaper,—not alone to the publisher, but to the general reader. They catch and portray the spirit of the time, as no labored pen effort could. A copy of the present issue of the Transcript that should turn up one hundred years from now would give, in its advertising columns, a very striking and accurate conception of the date on which it was published. What inferences could be drawn in that age, when civilization will probably have reached an astonishing point of advancement, from the phosphate ads., the reaper ads., the merchants' ads., the agricultural machinery ads., the steamboat ads., the lime ads. and the various other advertisements in which the business and enterprise of the day are portrayed. It is possible that the people of a hundred years to come might smile at us, as we smile at the records of the people of a hundred years ago, but they could not at the same time but recognize that, if we did not know as much as they, we at the same time were no slow-going generation, but were active, energetic, wide-awake and pushing.

The advertisements in the Transcript, however, are published not to reach the eye of a generation that may live a hundred years hence, but to reach the eye of the people living and acting during this year 1884.

NEXT Tuesday, the Republican presidential convention meets in Chicago. Arthur and Blaine will be the leading candidates on the first ballot. There are any number of dark horses, whose backers are hoping they may come to the front on the finish. The principal among these are Edmunds, Lincoln, Hawley and John Sherman.

NATIONAL politics must necessarily remain in a quiescent state, until one or both the parties have indicated their choice as to candidates and the manner of platform upon which the contest will be waged. One thing is already pretty clearly indicated and that is that the Republicans must make the fight for a high tariff and the Democrats for tariff reform. T..e vote upon the Morrison bill, if it did nothing else, defined the position of each party upon the tariff question.

NOW the question is, What are we going to do with our peaches? The crop of 1875 on the Peninsula is estimated to have been between five and six millions of baskets. The calculators are already figuring the Peninsula crop for the present year at from six to eight millions of baskets. Prices were very flat in 1875. One reason of this was that there was a break in the Delaware Road that shut back the crop of a greater part of the Peninsula from reaching the northern markets. However, the year 1875 is a fair enough criterion to make peach growers consider ways and means of disposing of the prospectively enormous crop of the present year, without breaking down the market.

WHAT a pair of innocents Gen. Grant and James D. Fish appear to have been. There is only one of two theories regarding them to be accepted,—either that they were an immense pair of fools, or else they were an immense pair of knaves. The latest piece of humor that has come to light in the Grant-Ward-Fish combination is a letter written July 6, 1882, by Fish to Gen. Grant, in which the former refers to the fact that he had endorsed notes to extent of $200,000, the money to be used in buying grain to fill Government contracts. Gen. Grant replies to this letter, and, though he avoids any reference to Government contracts, he gives Mr. Fish to understand that he—Gen. Grant—holds the same views as are expressed in the letter of Mr. Fish. On the same day, however, Gen. Grant sigued the following letter, which he now claims to have no recollection of:—

"NEW YORK, July 6, 1882.—My Dear Mr. Fish: In relation to the matter of discounts kindly made by you for accounts of Grant & Ward, I would say that I think the investments are safe, and I am willing that Mr. Ward should derive what profit he can for the firm that the use of my name and influence may bring.

Yours, very truly, U. S. GRANT."

The last sentence of this letter, though it does not directly refer to Government contracts, yet clearly is meant to convey the impression of some sort of paying jobbery that "the use of his name and influence may bring."

Privileges, Puts and Calls.

From Correspondence of the Easton Ledger.

It may be neither uninteresting or unprofitable to a portion of your readers to have explained the Wall street terms Privileges, Puts and Calls.

The privilege meant is the privilege of putting so many shares of stock on an individual within a certain period after a certain notice at a certain price, or of calling on an individual for stock previously contracted for at a certain price, &c. The first of these privileges is a put; the latter a call.

To illustrate; Say Lake Shore on the first of May was quoted at 95. A broker who believed that Lake Shore would fall would go to, say Russell Sage, the most noted seller of privileges on the street, and say "Mr. Sage, I will give you $300 for the privilege of delivering you 100 shares of Lake Shore anytime within the next 60 days at its price today, which is 95."

If Mr. Sage accepted this offer he would take a blank "put" and fill it up so as to read as follows:

NEW YORK, May 1, 1884.

For value received the bearer may deliver me, on one day's notice, 100 shares of the capital stock of the Lake Shore Railroad Company at ninety-five (95) per cent. any time in sixty (60) days from date. The undersigned is entitled to all dividends or extra dividends declared during the time.

Expires June 30, 1884, quarter past 2, p. m. RUSSELL SAGE.

Now the broker who had made such a contract with Mr. Sage would most likely the other day when Lake Shore touched 80, have brought 100 shares of it and put it on Mr. Sage at the contract price 95, and made $1200 net by the transaction. The broker would have been a bear, that is one who wanted to pull the market down. But if he had been a bull, and believed the price of Lake Shore was going to rise, he would have proposed to Mr. Sage, for a consideration, say $300, to buy from him 100 shares of Lake Shore at its then price, 95, to be delivered in 60 days.

This is a call,—where the operator has the privilege to call for the fulfillment of a certain stock delivering contract. In this case Mr. Sage would have filled up a blank "call" as follows, and given it to the broker:

NEW YORK, May 1, 1884.

For value received the bearer may call on me for 100 shares of the capital stock of the Lake Shore Railroad Company at ninety-five (95) per cent. any time in sixty days from date.

The bearer is entitled to all dividends or extra dividends declared during the time.

Expires June 30, 1884, 2.15 p. m. RUSSELL SAGE.

Now, if Lake Shore had gone up to 1.10 the broker could have called on Mr. Sage for 100 shares at 95 and sold it in the market at 1.10 netting a profit of $1200.

The one day's notice must however be given, and this is what caused the trouble at Mr. Sage's office last week. Ordinarily the dealer in privileges will waive the notice; but in such a time as there was last week he is likely to take all the delay possible. And here is how he got the delay; yesterday, for instance he began to refuse the stock delivered to him on his 'puts,' and claimed one day's notice, as stated in the 'puts,' in order to show that he had received the one day's notice he compelled every one to pass in their 'puts' with a written notice that the holder intended to deliver the stock to him to-day. He then stamped the 'put' and returned it to the owner who if he had been able to get in to day could perhaps have gotten his money. But of the five hundred who applied yesterday not one in ten succeeded in getting his 'put' stamped, and a still smaller number succeeded in doing so to day. So Mr. Sage succeed so far, by these decidedly peculiar methods, in not accepting one twentieth of the stock which, if he had been dealing in the fair and regular way, would have been put to him.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., MAY 23, 1884.

The results of the meeting of the New York Democratic State Committee at Albany, New York, this week, are being discussed very freely at the Capital and it is generally agreed that the seeming endorsement by the committee of the nomination of the "old ticket," was occasioned by the desire on the part of both the Cleveland and Flower men to make it appear that they were the special friends and advocates of Governor Tilden. Both factions believe that Mr. Tilden will not be a candidate and each desires to fall heir to the votes he can transfer. It may be clearly stated that while the fraud of 1876 can never be forgotten, and thousands think it but just that Mr. Tilden should be placed in the Presidential chair, each day now reduces the number of those who ask for a renomination of the old ticket, as it becomes more and more apparent, that even if elected, Mr. Tilden could not perform the duties of the office, and the election of the "old ticket" would really mean the election of Hendricks to the Presidency. Prominent Democrats taking this view of the case favor the nomination by the convention of some younger, more active and progressive man. In fact leading men in the party here are outspoken against the nomination of the old ticket and assert that the statements made at the New York convention, that the south called for or demanded the nomination of Tilden and Hendricks is entirely erroneous. The shrewdest men in the party here, assert that with Roswell P. Flower, a live, vigorous, energetic representative of true Democracy, an aggressive canvass could be waged and some enthusiasm aroused.

Said a prominent Democrat from South Carolina, "It is too late to attempt to run a campaign on sympathy or to right the wrongs of individuals. The campaign must be run on principle and with men as standard bearers who have blood enough in them to carry out the great reforms necessary to bring the government back to its original purity. The rings, the cliques, the cormorants, and monopolists must be put down and the rights of the people restored."

It is likely that Mr. Hewitt's tariff bill or at least a part thereof will be brought before the House this session for consideration. The Ways and Means Committee have under consideration that portion of the bill which explains the present tariff law, and members of the committee state that they will go no farther; that is, that no consideration will be given to that part of Mr. Hewitt's bill, which relates to the reduction of the tariff. Members who had prepared speeches on the tariff question and who could not get an opportunity to deliver them or obtain "leave to print" them in the Congressional Record will yet have an opportunity to spread their wisdom on this branch of the science of political economy before their constituents.

Washington has had its sensation this week in the disappearance of Geo. H. Levis, an alleged oil broker, who has been doing business in the building 629 F street, just below the office of the Correspondents' Union and Statistical Bureau. Levis came from New York about a year since and being of good appearance, a plausible talker, in fact an F. Ward kind of fellow, he impressed nearly all with whom he met and opened up his oil speculations. He claimed to be with one Harris of the Standard Oil Company who unerringly gave him 'tips' on the market, that he controlled 500,000 barrels on margins, and if oil went up he won and if it went down he just raked in the dollars, and so plausable was he, that Senators, Members of the House, Heads of Bureaus, Divisions and Clerks, male and female, almost ran after him to get him to invest their earnings. For a year he carried on his game unsuspected, but suddenly he disappeared from the city, and now it is learned that all his dealings in oil existed only in his fertile imagination. It is estimated that the losses of his dupes will amount to about $300,000.

The boat running to Mt. Vernon has scarcely been able to accommodate the people who, during the past week or ten days have desired to visit the tomb and, when he was alive, home of Washington. Visitors to the National Capital usually make a trip to Mt. Vernon the last thing on their programme of 'doing' Washington, and thus leave the best of the wine for the last of the feast. The banks of the Potomac are quite as beautiful as those of any river in the United States, and Mt. Vernon is one of the loveliest spots on the shores of this historic stream. Hundreds of visiting bicyclists and attendants upon the ceremonies connected with the unveiling of the Luther statue in Washington, made a pilgrimage to the tomb of the father of his country, during their visit here.

The House Committee on Civil Service reform yesterday unanimously directed a favorable report on the bill introduced by Mr. Long to repeal the tenure of office act. S. B.

Public Local Law

Operative in Kent County.

Passed at the Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, 1884.

To Regulate the Catching of Fish in Chester River.

CHAPTER 466.

AN ACT to repeal chapter four hundred and eleven and chapter three hundred and thirty-three of the acts of the Genera Assembly of Maryland, passed at the January session, eighteen hundred and eighty-two, and hapter one hundred and fourteen of the acts of the Genera Assembly of Maryland, passed at the January session, eighteen hundred and eighty, entitled "An act to better regulate the time and manner of taking and catching fish in the waters of Chester river and its tributaries lying within the counties of Kent and Queen Anne's, in this State, and to re-enact the following in lieu thereof:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That it shall not be lawful for any person or persons to take, capture or destroy fish in the waters of Chester river or its tributaries in Kent or Queen Anne's counties by seines, drag-nets, set-nets, fish-baskets, fish-pots, weirs, pound-nets, fykes or any other means or contrivance whatsoever which is now known or used in the capturing or destroying fish, or which may hereafter be invented for that purpose from the twentieth day of May to the tenth day of September, except with hook and line; provided, however, that seines or nets may be used for the taking of taylors and mackerel fish, provided the meshes of such nets or seines are in the bar not less than one and seven-eighth inches, or in the mesh less than three and three-quarters inches.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any person or persons who use stakes or poles in setting nets of whatever class or description in the waters mentioned in the first section of this act to leave such stakes or poles in the waters where they were used, but shall remove such stakes or poles from the waters where they were used on or before the first day of June in each year, nor shall they again be put down in said waters prior to the first day of September following.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any person or persons in said waters mentioned in the first section of this act, to employ their seines upon the beach or shore at any times whilst engaged in fishing, so as to leave the smaller fish to perish, but to empty the same in water of sufficient depth to enable the smaller fish to return to the waters for growth and maturation; and any person using seines, pound-nets, fish-baskets, fykes, traps, or nets of any class or description that catch the fish alive shall immediately cull them and return the small fish to the waters at the place where they were taken.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That no person or persons other than the bona fide residents of Kent and Queen Anne's counties shall use any boat or trap of any kind or description used in catching fish in the said waters of Chester river and its tributaries in said counties; provided, however, that persons owning or occupying lands in said counties on said river and its tributaries shall have the right to rent or otherwise grant to non-residents the privilege of fishing on or opposite their shores during the fishing season hereinbefore limited and fixed; and, further provided, that the right to take fish with hook and line shall be allowed to all persons at all times.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That upon the information of any citizen of either of said counties, that he knows or verily believes that any person or persons have violated any of the provisions of this act, before any justice of the peace of either or said counties, the justice of the peace of said counties shall docket a case in the name of the State of Maryland against such person or persons so charged by oath as offending, and issue a warrant at once to some one of the constables or the sheriff of such county for the arrest of the party or parties so charged in said oath with such violations of this act, to be brought before such justice for trial, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than ten nor more than sixty dollars for each and every offense, in the discretion of said justice of the peace, one-half of which fine shall be paid to the informer, the other half to the school fund of the county where such conviction was rendered; and in default of payment of such fine such person or persons so convicted shall be sent to the county jail where such act was committed for not less than ten nor more than thirty days, at the discretion of the justice of the peace.

SEC. 6. And be it enacted, That if any person or persons convicted of offending against any of the provisions of this act, shall think himself aggrieved by such conviction, he or they may appeal from the judgment of the justice of the peace before whom such conviction is had, at any time within ten days from the rendition thereof, to the circuit court of the county in which the trial was had. If any resistance be made to the officer directed to execute this act by any person or persons offending against the same, the said officer shall summon the posse comitatus and proceed therewith without delay to execute his duty under such warrant. The justice before whom such offender or offenders shall be taken, shall have full power to issue summons for all witnesses that be named to him to compel their appearance and examine them under oath.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act be and the same are hereby repealed, and that this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 8, 1884.

WE HEREBY CERTIFY that the aforegoing is a correct copy of an Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed January session, 1884.

Harvest is Coming

FARMERS WANTING

Binders or Reapers

will do well to look at

THE WOOD!

Cuts, Binds & Carries to the Sheck

She is in advance of them all. She cuts her cord with a chisel, and does it with ease. Makes no noise like a cart tipping over stones. Mr. Wood invented it himself, and had seven companies try to buy the right. He won't sell. Mr. Appleby sells shop-right, and twenty different Reapers use his Binder, and all trying to improve on it.

The WOOD has but Two Springs in her Binder, some of them have ten. When they get weak they will miss sheaves certain. Every person buying the Wood will get a book with every piece numbered, and the pieces will be kept at Mr. Sol Startt's shop, handy for the farmers.

WE HAVE A MOWER

SECOND TO NONE.

It has steel plates, and when the guards wear out can be repaired at a cost of ten cents, and then she is as good as new. She runs light, don't choke in heavy grass, has patent oil boxes, no dirt nor grit can get in. Driver sets on and oils, runs easy and has durabiliity. If they do not work we want no pay.
