GROVER CLEVELAND,

OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT:

THOS. A. HENDRICKS.

OF INDIANA.

ELECTORS AT LARGE:

THOMAS J. KEATING,
BRADLEY T. JOHNSON.

DISTRICT ELECTORS:

Second " —PATRICK H. WALKER.
Third " —HARRY E. MANN, Fourth " —SKIPWITH WILMER.
Fifth " —HENRY F. SPALDING.
Sixth " —HENRY H. KEEDY.

As a straw that indicates which way the wind blows, it is stated that the betting in New York city is largely in favor of Cleveland.

ST. JOHN and Daniel head the Prohibition presidential ticket.—St. John is from Kansas and Daniel is from Maryland. Beside taking a stand for temperance, the platform makes a stand for woman suffrage.

THE Democratic convention for this Congressional district meets in Cambridge next Wednesday. It is understood that the following gentlemen are yet in the contest,—J. B. Brown, of Queen Anne's; P. H. Downes, of Caroline; C. H. Gibson, of Talbot; Levin L. Waters, of Somerset and J. A. Parsons, of Wicomico. Kent, Dorchester and Worcester will present no candidates. There will be thirty delegates at the convention, casting one vote each, and it will take sixteen votes to nominate. The three counties having no candidate aggregate eleven votes. The Choptank, which has hitherto figured as a political dividing line, divides the district into four counties above and four below, with fourteen votes above and sixteen below.

NOTIFYING CLEVELAND.

HIS REPLY TO THE ADDRESS OF CHAIRMAN VILAS—PROMINENT PERSONS PRESENT.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 29.—The committee appointed by the national Democratic convention to notify the Democratic nominees for the Presidency and Vice Presidency of their nomination waited upon Governor Cleveland this afternoon. They were escorted to the executive mansion by a local committee. An immense concourse thronged the streets and assembled about the Governor's residence. The ceremony of notification took place in the large main parlor of the executive mansion in the presence of the members of the national committee and a large number of invited guests.

When Gov. Cleveland entered be was greeted with applause, and when it had subsided Col. W. F. Vilas, of Wisconsin, chairman of the late Democratic national convention and chairman of the notification committee, addressed the Governor, and, after formally notifying him of his nomination for the Presidency, said: 'This choice carries with it profound personal respect and admiration, but it has been in no manner the fruit of these sentiments. The national Democracy seek a President not in compliment for what the man is, or reward for what he has done, but in a just expectation of what he will accomplish as the true servant of a free people fit for their lofty trust, always of momentous consequence; they conceive the public exigency to be now of transcendent importance; that a laborious reform in administration as well as legislation is imperatively necessary to the prosperity and honor of the republic, and a competent Chief Magistrate must be of unusual temper and power.

"They have observed with attention your execution of the public trusts you have held, especially that with which you are now so honorably invested. They place their reliance for the usefulness of the services they expect to exact for the benefit of the nation upon the evidence derived from the services you have performed for the State of New York.

'Invoking the benediction of the Divine Creator of men, we challenge from the sovereignty of the nation His words in commendation and ratification of our choice, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things."'

Gov. Cleveland, who had stood meanwhile as an intent listener, replied as follows:

'Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee: Your formal announcement does not, of course, convey to me the first information of the result of the convention lately held by the Democracy of the nation, and yet when as I listen to your message I see about me representatives from all parts of the land of the great party which, claiming to be the party of the people, asks them to entrust to it the administration of their government, and when I consider under the influence of the stern reality which the present surroundings create that I have been chosen to represent the plans, purposes and the policy of the Democratic party, I am profoundly impressed by the solemnity of the occasion and by the responsibility of my position.

'Though I gratefully appreciate it, I do not at this moment congratulate myself upon the distinguished honor which has been conferred upon me, because my mind is full of an anxious desire to perform well the part which has been assigned to me. Nor do I at this moment forget that the rights and interests of more than fifty millions of my fellow-citizens are involved in our efforts to gain democratic supremacy. This reflection presents to my mind the consideration which more than all others gives to the action of my party in convention assembled its most sober and serious aspect. The party and its representatives which ask to be entrusted at the hands of the people with the keeping of all that concerns their welfare and their safety, should only ask it with the full appreciation of the sacredness of the trust and with a firm resolve to administer it faithfully and well.

'I am a democrat because I believe that this truth lies at the foundation of true democracy. I have kept the faith because I believe, if rightly and fairly administered and applied, democratic doctrines and measures will insure the happiness, contentment and prosperity of the people. If in the contest upon which we now enter we steadfastly hold to the underlying principles of our party creed, and at all times keep in view the people's good, we shall be strong, because we are true to ourselves and because the plain and independent voters of the land will seek by their suffrages to compass their release from party tyranny where there should be submission to the popular will, and their protection from party corruption where there should be devotion to the people's interests.

'These thoughts lend a consecration to our cause, and we go forth not merely to gain a partisan advantage, but pledged to give to those who trust us the utmost benefits and honest administration of national affairs. No higher purpose or motive can stimulate us to supreme effort or urge us to continuous and earnest labor and effective party organization. Let us not fail in this, and we may confidently hope to reap the full reward of patriotic services well performed. I have thus called to mind some simple truths, and trite though they are, it seems to me we do well to dwell upon them at this time. I shall soon, I hope, signify in the usual formal manner my acceptance of the nomination which has been tendered to me. In the meantime I gladly greet you all as co-workers in a noble cause.'

The secretary of the committee then read the committees formal address of notification.

An Interesting Letter from the only Survivor of Lincoln's Cabinet.

NEW YORK, July 23.—James Speed, of Kentucy, who was Lincoln's Attorney General, is the only surviving member of that Cabinet. He was a republican at a time and in a section when it cost much to be a Republican. He is one of the most esteemed men in his city and State, ranks at the head of the Kentucky bar, and, although not in active politics for some years, his influence is great with his party in the Southwest. Prior to the meeting of the National Democratic Convention the following letter from Mr. Speed, which will appear in to-morrow's Herald, was received by a friend of his in this city:

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 19.

MY DEAR SIR: I received your esteemed letter by due course of mail. The action of the Chicago Republican Convention has greatly distressed me. I am not at all puzzled as to voting, but grieved to be under the necessity of failing to vote for the nominee of the Republican party. It is shocking to think such a party could put forth such a platform. No more of that. But I cannot vote for Blaine and could not vote for him on any platform.

The foreign relations of this country are pretty much in the hands of the President. During the short time Mr. Blaine acted as Secretary of State he exhibited such a view of international law as makes me believe that, should he be elected President, if he would not plunge us into needless foreign difficulties he would bring our diplomacy into disrepute and make us the laughing stock of the civilized world. No personal magnetism or brilliant sentences can compensate for such a blunder. To vote for him would be like voting against the peace and honor of my country. I cannot do that at the bidding of the Republican party.

Then his letter about the surplus revenue is monstrous. It shows him to be as unsafe in his view of the framework of our government as he is in regard to the international law. It is charitable to say the letter is the child of ignorance, for if not it is the child of demagoguery.

Now what can I do? May I fold my arms and let the world wag? Must I vote the Democratic ticket? Must I join a third party? As for a third party it is too late to organize one for putting out an independent ticket. The purpose of a third party organized now would be to defeat Blaine. It would necessarily perish whether Blaine is elected or defeated, and its members be like loose cogs in a machine, able to do no good, but capable of doing great evil.

Should the Democrats give the country a statesman and a gentleman as their candidate I think we had better vote for him. So you see, my dear sir, I cannot say what I may do, but am positive as to what I will not do. I am most truly your friend, JAMES SPEED.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 25, 1884.

Headquarters are closed this week, a large majority of the Committee having gone to New York to attend the meeting of the National Democratic Committee, and to visit Albany to officially notify Governor Cleveland of his nomination. The action of the Independent Republican Conference Committee in New York has had a very depressing effect upon the Republicans here, while the Democrats are elated thereat.

Much amusement is created at the expedients planned by the Republican Committee to secure a little money from the poor clerks and civil service employees of the various Departments. These employees just now are loud for a strict construction of the civil service rules; they roll their eyes in holy horror at the idea of being called upon to help the g. o. p. in this its time of need. Some would like to give but fear that it would work against them when Cleveland comes in as President, while the great majority prefer not to give at all. It is said the screws will be applied indirectly, but if indications are correct very little juice will be extracted this year; the boys will hold on to all they have and get all they can for fear of a cyclone after March next. S. B.

Ben Butler on a summer's day,
Stood in a convention making hay:
The hay was sweet and the hay was dry,
But it wasn't as cocked as old Ben's eye,
For old Ben saw on a gelding gay
Judge Nomination ride that way.

When the Judge saw Ben in the hay at work
He stopped his horse with a sudden jerk,
And he rolled his eyes on the winsome face
And the buxom form and the airy grace
And the wealth of cheek and the mesh of hair
Of sweet Ben Butler a-working there.

"Oh," sighed the Judge, "that the fate were mine
To wed with a creature so divine!
With Ben for a mate, my life would seem
Like a poet's song or an artist's dream;
But when they heard of my marital pick
How like a steer my folks would kick!"

So, fearful of what his folks might say,
Judge Nomination rode away,
And left Ben Butler standing there
With her wealth of cheek and mesh of hair;
And of all sad words of tongue and pen
The saddest are these—"He wouldn't have Ben."

The Blaine Organ on Cleveland.

From the N. Y. Tribune, March 3, 1883.

Governor Cleveland vetoes the five cent fare bill. The message containing his reasons for so doing is straightforward and forcible and we beleive will be pronounced sound by most of those who have been strenuous in their demands for a reduction of fares on the elevated roads. * * * Mr. Roosevelt, of this city, one of the most influential members of the House, whose probity is as generally recognized as his ability, doubtless voiced the sentiment of many like himself who supported the bill when, after the veto was read yesterday, he confessed with characteristic manliness that he had voted for it in answer to a popular clamor and against his best judgement, and that he now thought it should not become a law. Popular clamor passed the bill. But Governor Cleveland did not have respect to pupular clamor. He had respect for the mandates of the law.

The Ways of the Wild West.

We clip the following letter from the "Tribune," of Chesterton, Indiana. It is written by a Chesterton citizen, who has gone still further west, and will give an interesting glimpse to Eastern readers into the ways of Western politics:—

PIERRE, DAKOTA, July 10, 1884.
EDITORS TRIBUNE:

This is Thursday. For news the people depend in the main upon Chicago papers. These come the day after publication; not, however, as early upon that day as the people of Chesterton receive them the day before, but in the afternoon, at 7 o'clock. No earlier regular news can be obtained. This is rather late, you think. Well, we don't feel it. The succession of events is the same in rate and regularity of movement to us as to you; we read one day of occurrence; the results, further accounts, etc., follow after, the same as though we were where the papers arrived a day and a half earlier. We take our pabulum of news, digest it the same as you do, and as train time approaches next day, begin again to feel hungry. The younger of two men does not feel that he is behind in eating because he did not begin as soon; so with us in reading.

I said to-day is Thursday. It is. The National Democratic Convention met Tuesday; yet the people of Pierre have not at this time, 6:40 P. M., seen a report of the proceedings of the first day. However, we know something of what has been done. The bulletin board in front of the post office says that Ben Butler has withdrawn, and that he will support the nominee. He is in rather an awkward position after having accepted nominations by two other parties; yet awkwardness of position was inevitable, whatever he chose to do, after presenting his name to the Democratic Convention. But I'll break right off here, and leave discoursing on politics to the editors.

Here is some Dakota politics; it illustrates the "status" that the noble red man will occupy when he is granted franchise to an extent that will make him a factor. May be, however, that Uncle Sam, after his lamentable experience with Sambo and his mule, will not be hurried to take in Lo and his pony; anyhow, one would naturally suppose so. Here is the Dakota politics: There was a county election pending, and it was known that it would be close. Up the river 10 miles are Peoria Bottoms. Lo lived up there to the extent of 18 or 20 votes, for he was civilized. His civilization was to a degree that the missionary who dwelt among him was thankfully happy therefor. The shepherd was seen by the Republicans, and he gave his word that he would deliver Lo in toto at the poles, and vote him loyal to his country. Election day approached; in the early morning of the day the Republicans lay dreaming as only the righteous can dream. The Democrats, however, were alert; they crawled out in the early hours and engaged in corraling dogs. They took in two; they proceeded up the river, and bivouacked on the shore opposite the Bottoms; at sunrise a messenger was dispatched to invite Lo to the banquet. When the missionary summoned Lo that morning, Lo didn't respond; the good shepherd called loud and long, but no Lo was to be found; he was engaged at what was more in accord with his taste than voting—Lo was eating dog! And the picnic resulted in the defeat of the Republicans. The principal fight was for Sheriff, and Pat Comford "got there," and makes, everybody says, an excellent officer.—M. L. PHARES, in Chesterton (Indiana) Tribune.

VICTIMS OF CHOLERA.

1,146 DEATHS FROM THE DISEASE IN MARSEILLES SINCE THE OUTBREAK BEGAN.

MARSEILLES, July 29.—The classification of the deaths from cholera, according to the nationality of the victims, gives these results: French, 798; Italian 322; Spanish 13; Greek 9; English 1; Austrian 1; German 1; American 1.

There were nine deaths from cholera here last night, and thirteen in Toulon. Nine deaths have occurred here to-day. The situation in the infected districts continues to improve.

PARIS, July 29.—The train for Nice on Sunday was empty for the first time since the railroad was opened. A panic exists at a village near Beziers. The population, headed by the Mayor and members of the Council, drove off and stoned refugees from Marseilles.

In the Chamber of Deputies to-night the deputation appointed to visit the places afflicted with the cholera reported that the people of Arles are fleeing to the farms in the vicinity, where they huddle together in hovels and sleep pell-mell as best they can. The sick are entirely neglected. Cases of cholera are secreted from the authorities and no surveillance is observed. The deputation inspected a madhouse at Marseilles, and found numerous cases of cholera there. The lunatic asylum is a centre of infection.

There were six deaths from cholera at Arles during the past twenty four hours and two deaths at Aix since noon. Seventeen cases have appeared at Pancalieri, a village of Italy. The patients are workmen from Marseilles and Toulon. Measures have been taken to isolate the district.

Dr. Dutrieux arrived at Toulon two days ago from Alexandria to study the cholera epidemic. A renewal of the epidemic is feared there, owing to the return of a number of fugitives.

LONDON, July 29.—The Duke of Cambridge, Commander in Chief of the British army, has ordered the barracks throughout England to be placed in the best sanitary condition possible. He has also given orders for the creation of a system of medical relief and for the removal of the troops into camps in case the cholera app[ears] among the soldiers.

The [ch]olera scare has taken possession of [t]he Dutch, and the Government of Holland has issued a characteristic edict. This forbids the introduction into the country, or the transport across it, of any unwashed linen.

The prohibition is especially directed at pleasure travelers, and notifies tourists and tourist agents that all travelers desiring to enter Holland must submit at the border to having their wearing apparel scrutinized by the Government inspectors, and will not be allowed to enter the kingdom with unwashed underwear of any kind, and that even an unclean pocket handkerchief in the possession of the invader will be taken as sufficient cause to detain him in quarantine until it shall be cleansed to the satisfaction of the officials.

CHOLERA continues to be the all-absorbing topic in Europe. Even the complaints about the general depression of business have ceased and, in the South of France, all trade and industry have been practically brought to a standstill. At this season of the year the Continent of Europe usually lives upon the traveling foreigner, who does not turn up this year, or runs away if he happens to have turned up before the cholera made its appearance. It is well known that a large number of Americans have already cancelled their engagements for ocean passages, and a still larger number have left France for England. A few cases of cholera in the British capital will probably bring them all home.

REALESTATE
—AT—PUBLIC SALE.
UNDER the power and authority vested in me by the last will and testament, which has been duly probated, of Colonel George W. Spencer, late of Kent county, State of Maryland, deceased, I will offer at Public Sale, on THURSDAY,
the 7th of August, 1884,
IN THE VILLAGE OF GALENA, AT PENNINGTON'S HOTEL,
AT 11 O'CLOCK A. M.,
the whole of his Real Estate, consisting of Three Farms,
two of which are in the First Election District, and the other in the Second, and are herein distinguished by the Nos. 1, 2 and 3.
NO. 1 IS
THE 'HOME FARM.'
It lies directly on the public road from Chestertown to Galena, and is not more than a mile from the latter; being within two miles of the steamboat landing at Georgetown and Lambson's Station on the Kent County Railroad. It probably contains over 600 Acres,
every acre arable save about thirty-five or forty, and is divided into convenient tillages.
In view of its situation, the natural fertility of its soil and high state of cultivation, its valuable and beautiful improvements, this estate is justly considered equal, if not superior, to any in this county.
The Improvements
are a commodious and Conveniently arranged
THREE STORY
Frame Dwelling
with a Dry Cellar, Pantry and Kitchen. It is on the south side of the public road, from which there is a shelled carriage-way through a magnificent lawn, highly improved and embellished with beautiful evergreens and shade trees.
THE OUT-BUILDINGS are Large and Ample for all farming purposes, and are admirably located and arranged in reference to their utility. There is also an Overseer's House
within convenient distance of the dwelling, and on the east side of the farm a number of small TENEMENTS intended for the accommodation of the farm hands. All the buildings are in good order.
It has a small PEAR ORCHARD and an APPLE ORCHARD of seventy-five or a hundred trees.
No. 2
Is generally known as
"The Todd Farm"
It adjoins No. 1 on the north side of the Chestertown and Galena public road, and contains Between 350 & 400 ACRES.
all arable but thirty-five or forty acres. It is divided into five fields and
A PEACH ORCHARD
of about thirty Acres.
One of its boundaries is a tributary of the Sassafras River, on which it has a lime and grain landing. Its distance from the Steamboat Landing at Georgetown, the village of Galena, and Lambson's Station is about the same as that of No. 1.
ARE A
Frame Dwelling
and the necessary OUT-BUILDINGS, all in good order, and a PEACH ORCHARD IN BEARING.
No. 3
Lies in the Second Election District on the public road from Galena to Black's Station, very near the station and not far from the landings on Sassafras and Chester Rivers, and less than a mile from the village of Locust Grove.
It contains
288 Acres,
of which two hundred and forty-four acres are arable, the residue is in a detached Wood Lot.
The Farm proper contains two hundred and forty-four acres, which are divided into fields and lots, conveniently arranged for purposes of cultivation and pasture.
It has the reputation of being one of the most productive farms in its thrifty and highly improved neighborhood.
The Improvements
are a Commodious
Frame Dwelling,
with a Cellar, Pantry and Kitchen; a fine lawn handsomely improved with evergreens, shade trees and flowers.
There is also an OVERSEER'S HOUSE and the usual Out-buildings, all in fair order.
These Farms are well fenced, on the lines along the the public roads are strong, compact, and thrifty hedges, which show intelligent culture and attention, and being in a central location are convenient to Churches, Schools, Post Offices, &c., and have easy and frequent communication by water and rail with our large cities. They are preeminently distinguished for their natural fertility and high state of improvement; being well adapted to cereals, peaches and other fruits.
THE HOME FARM
possesses rare advantages for stock raising, being nearly surrounded by running water, and No. 2 possesses like advantages. The contents of Nos. 1 and 2 may be increased or diminished by the survey to be made by C. J. Scott, Esq., plots of which will be exhibited at the sale.
NO. 1 is now under the charge of Mr S. Walker, NO. 2 is occupied by Mr. Samuel Todd and NO. 3 by Mr. Jervis Spencer. Each of these gentlemen will be pleased to show his premises to any one desiring to view them. The following are desired, but may be modified to suit the convenience of the purchasers: One-third of the whole purchase money cash on the day of sale or on its final ratification, at the option of the seller; residue in equal instalments of six, twelve, eighteen and twenty-four months from the day of sale, the deferred payments to be secured by bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing interest from Jan. 1st, 1885, when absolute possession will be given.
TERMS OF SALE
