More of the Mulligan Letters.

The New York and Boston dailies of Tuesday, except only such journals as are endeavoring to conceal James G. Blaine's record from the public, published eleven letters written by him while speaker of the House of Representatives, which should damn him in the eyes of all right thinking people, as a man utterly unworthy to occupy any position of trust, not to say the highest position of trust in the gift of the American people. These letters belong to the batch of which what are known as the "Mulligan Letters" form a part. They have never before been published. They show Mr. Blaine to have been not only willing but anxious to barter his power as a member of Congress and as speaker of the House of Representatives to secure stocks and bonds from a rich corporation. These letters more clearly demonstrate why the most intelligent and most honorable element in the Republican party has turned from its party, sick at heart at the thought that the party's nominee was not an honest man. We shall publish these letters next week. We have in Kent county a number of as high minded citizens, who have always voted with the Republican party, as are to be found anywhere. Men who love justice, fairness and honesty, We can understand how the politicians who have a personal axe to grind will shut their eyes and work and vote for James G. Blaine. But we cannot understand why this better element of the party should vote for a man whose record is notoriously corrupt. But next week we shall publish the letters, and these will speak for themselves.

Maryland and the New Orleans Exhibition.

Senator George W. Bishop, of Worcester county, has been appointed commissioner for Maryland to the World's Industrial and Cotton Exhibition, to be held at New Orleans, commencing the 1st of next December and continuing six months. This New Orleans exhibition will be second in magnitude and importance only to the Philadelphia exhibition among the world's fairs that have been held on this side the ocean. In a number of respects it will surpass the Centennial. The main exhibition building is much larger than the main building at the Centennial. One very interesting feature of the fair will be the large exhibit made by Mexico. The Mexican Government has appropriated $200,000, and it is to be presumed that the exhibit will contain interesting products of the ancient as well as of the present civilization of Mexico. Commissioner Bishop desires that Maryland shall make a creditable showing. Exhibits of the following, or of any other interesting or instructive nature, will be received:—

"Geological specimens, fossils, petrifications, shells and prepared specimens of animals, birds, insects, &c.; agriculture and horticulture; raw and manufactured products; ores, minerals, specimens of soils, grasses, fibres, mosses, clays, sands, mineral waters, with analysis, and native woods; agricultural products not used for food; chemical and pharmaceutical products; textile fabrics—cotton, hemp, linen, worsted, silk, jute, hair, &c. Alimentary products—cereals, farinaceous products, fish, vegetables and fruit—natural, dried or preserved; also condiments, confectionery and domestic stimulants. Archæological and historical collections, and relics and curiosities of all kinds will prove very interesting features of the State exhibit. Everything illustrating Indian life, colonial life and the history of our people will be in place.

The following information is also given:

All specimens furnished by you for exhibition should have upon them the scientific name, common name, locality, owner, operator or producer, description or analysis, a statement whether the property or article which the specimen represents is for sale or not, with the price and such other information as may be interesting.

The transportation, receiving, unpacking and arrangement of articles for exhibition will be at the expense of the Commissioner. When collections are made, advise the Commissioner, and means will be provided for transportation to Baltimore and from thence to New Orleans.

Every precaution will be taken for the safe preservation of all objects, and if requested the Commissioner will return the same to the owners free of expense at the close of the Exposition. He will also, if requested, insure the specimens from lose or damage by fire or water.

In advance of forwarding to New Orleans the collective State exhibit, the Commissioner has secured a warehouse for the accommodation of those who desire to transfer exhibits from the various County Fairs, or who may find it necessary or desirable to forward their exhibits at any time.

Any further information can be had by addressing the Commissioner at Barnum's hotel, Baltimore, Md.

A MEETING of executive members of the Democratic State Central Committee was held Monday at the Democratic headquarters in Barnum's Hotel. Senator Gorman was in the chair, Mr. James A. L. McClure, secretary.

The Democratic campaign will not open fully in Maryland before October in the agricultural sections, which include four of the Congressional districts. The farmers are busy with pressing work in September. A number of meetings have been held in the fifth and sixth as well as other districts by the Cleveland and Hendricks clubs, and more of the same sort are to come off.—The canvass has been arranged by congressional districts, and mainly in accordance with the wishes of the congressional candidates. The executive committee members from the different counties reported favorably upon the outlook for the party in the coming political contest.

Puck's Tribute to Mr. Blaine.

Puck, the great American cartoon paper, which in previous campaigns has directed its biting pictorial sarcasms against the Democratic party, is one among the papers that were too honest to support Blaine. In reply to a letter from a Republican who will support Blaine and Logan, Puck takes occasion to put in print its estimate of Mr. Blaine. We give below the letter and the answer:

We have received the following letter:

TO THE EDITOR OF PUCK—SIR:—Notwithstanding your opposition to James G. Blaine don't you really believe he will be elected next President of the U. S.? Come now, give us an honest opinion of thoughts, as they occur to you during your moments of sober second thoughts, and you will greatly oblige who will vote for Blaine and Logan.

A REPUBLICAN READER OF PUCK

No. We do not believe that the American nation will disgrace itself by electing Mr. Blaine President.

And if he was elected—what then? Would he be any the less a tricky and dishonorable politician? Would John A. Logan be anything but a turn-coat slave-catcher? Would dishonesty be honesty; would unprincipled smartness be wise integrity; would a demagogue's tricks be statesmanship? Would a lie be the truth?

We publish the above communication because it is a fair example of the desperate tactics of Mr. Blaine's followers. They have had from the beginning but this one argument: He will be elected. Yes, he is a dishonorable man; he has proved himself unfaithful to his public trust; he is not a statesman—at the best but a smart and showy demagogue; he is utterly unfit to be President of the United States—but—he will be elected: therefore, let us support him. This has been their one solitary plea. And at the first, we will admit, we thought it might be to some extent effective among the people. We saw that it was possible that sustained effort of brilliant impudence might carry the delirium known as the "Blaine boom" through to a successful conclusion. But now two months have passed since Mr. Blaine's nomination, and the sustained effort of brilliant impudence, which the Blaine managers would call an "agressive campaign" is not seen.

Impudence enough there has been in all the conduct of the Blaine campaign; but it has been stupid impudence. We have had the dull and futile lying of the Tribune; the fatuous misrepresentation of the country press—such part of it as still clings to the disgraced party; the blatant extravagance of the campaign orator; the contemptible Republicans who have been whipped in to support the man they denounced ten weeks ago, and we have had the base and brutal slander of Mr. Cleveland for which the Boston Journal and an unnamable paper in this State must bear the responsibility. Here and there excited office-holders have gathered together the unwilling citizens and hung across the highways the flag of their country, and marred its sacred stripes with the portrait of a man whose greedy heart never knew one patriotic throb. And the hired brass bands play, and the hungry politicians yell, and the Tribune misquotes the Post, and the Honorable Mr. Hoar's "defense" of Blaine is carefully hidden from the eyes of Mr. Blaine's supporters, and Mr. William Walter Phelps declines to earn $10,000 for Yale College by proving his candidate to be an honorable man, and Vermont, the stronghold of the party, gives a reduced Republican majority in the local election.

* * *

There is impudence here; but where is the brilliancy? We were to have an "aggressive campaign" Blaine was to sweep the country like a whirlwind. He was to go in t[o] White House on a great billow of popular unthusiasm. His opponents were to be "kept on the run." And what do we find after two months Mr. Blaine, cast off and condemned by the best men and the best papers of his own party, conducting a halting, hesitating campaign of trickery, evasion, shifts and lies, the only "aggressiveness" of which is seen in infamous and indecent methods of unmanly warfare. Why is this?

Because the man is a coward at bottom. He always has been a blusterer and a braggart; a swashing fellow, of great material promise and no performance. When it comes to the crucial moment, when the point of trial is reached, he turns weakly; he runs; he pleads for safety. He is the loudest to bid defiance to danger; in the face of danger he slips away. Such he was when he all but went on his knees to Mulligan to get back the letters that damned his fair fame before all the world. Such he was when he pleaded with Lot M. Morrill, "with tears and entreaties," to use influence in his behalf. Such he was when he took refuge in a sudden and mysterious illness, as he saw the hour of condemnation close at hand. Such he was when, unvindicated, his name tainted with dishonor he slipped into the United States Senate, to escape being branded by the House of Representatives.

No one would suppose from the general appearance of things that President Arthur had any idea that a Presidential election is coming on soon.

Political Notes.

At all events, Blaine has carried Maine.

Butler is out West, earning his living by the sweat of his cheek.

Ben Butler while kissing one baby appears to be looking at another.

General Butler gets twenty-four thousand dollars a year for the rent of his Washington house. This is what it is to be a working man of the Butler kind.

The Republican managers declare that Ohio is safe for the ticket. But they are appealing to everybody, both in the State and out, to get off their coats to save it.

About the only people in Illinois who are cordially supporting Logan for Vice President are those who want to succeed him in the Senate. They are thoroughly aroused in behalf of Logan's election.

General Butler, in his talks out West, is expressing a purpose to defeat Cleveland. Doubtless he is expressing the truth, but his frankness will be regarded by his Blaine friends as horribly indiscreet. Gen. Butler should not be allowed to stray so far away from Republican headquarters.

Hon. Carl Schurz addressed an audience numbering fully 16,000, at Scheltz Park, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Saturday night. He spoke in German and was very severe on Blaine. He will speak in La Crosse this evening; and to-morrow evening will again speak in Milwaukee, in English, under the auspices of the English independent Republicans. This meeting will be presided over by John P. McGregor, one of the most prominent republicans in Wisconsin, who recently bolted Mr. Blaine and is now working for Mr. Cleveland's election.

The New York Sun described Grover Cleveland, when he was nominated as a candidate for Governor, in the following fitting terms. Personal disappointment has changed the tone of that paper, but the man has not changed: "No one can study the record of his career since he has held office in Buffalo without being convinced that he possesses those highest qualifications of a public man, sound principles of administrative duty, luminous intelligence and courage to do what was right, no matter who may be pleased or displeased thereby."

The New York Herald says: "Gen. Butler, in an interview at Minneapolis, virtually confessed that he was in the field to help defeat the democratic candidate. He said that if Cleveland could get twenty thousand independent votes in Massachusetts he would carry that State, but that he could not get them and that Blaine would win, because Butler would get more of the democratic vote than Cleveland. If, therefore, Butler was not in the field, and Cleveland got all the democratic vote in Massachusetts, and the independent vote, whatever it may be, he would carry that State. Butler runs mainly to prevent that."

RARE OLD BEN.

Rare old Ben with the bias eye,
Rare and tough and extremely sly;
Busy all day and up all night,
Free of speech and quick in flight;
Up to snuff with your guileless tricks,
The hold of your high hat full of bricks,
Scoffed and hated and feared of men
Rare old Ben!
Rare, and no gravy.

Rare old Ben of the bunting mill,
Running for office, time to kill;
Indepe-Democrat-Republican-
Anti-monopoly-workingman-
Labor Reformer-Communist-
High License-Prohibitionist-
Greenbacker—All things to all men
Rare old Ben!
Rare, and turned over.

Rare old Ben of the sandy craw,
General, Governor, man of law;
Red in his button-hole blooms the rose,
Red the blood in his bad eye glows,
When he is ready to fight or talk,
Some man is going to "holler" or walk,
B for Bunting, Butler and Ben—
Rare old Ben!
Rare, but not too rare.

TO THE FARMERS

—OF—

KENT, QUEEN ANNE'S & CECIL

IT is universally acknowledged by the most practical farmers that the Ohio Chilled Plow is the best plow in the world for neatness of work, and lightness of draft to the team. As I have ordered a large number of these plows both two and three-horse, farmers will do well to give me an early call.

We also keep on hand, the Old Reliable Concave Nos. 9, 10 and 11, Polished Minor and Horton, Wiley Nos. 3 and 4, and Two-Furrowed Plows, and Harrows, Twin, Single A, and Double A A, Cultivators and Cultivator Teeth unsurpassed by any manufacture. Single, Double, 3 and 4 Horse-Trees and Hames.

As there have been a great many Chilled Plows sold in these counties, and as farmers have been put to a great deal of trouble to get Castings for them, if they will only give the name and number of the Plow, I will endeavor to keep them on hand at my shops in Galena and Chestertown. I always have on hand Plain and Slip Shares for the Ohio, Oliver, Roland, Advance and Syracuse.

If any of you are in need of anything in my line, please give me a call, as I intend to sell them low for the cash.

Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a continuance of the same.
