Oct. 35—5t.

Controller-elect Dechert tasted the bitter before the sweet of office yesterday. 'His 'workers' came to congratulate him. He knew very few of them by sight. They had not all advocated the election of St. John.

'Colonel,' said a Twenty-ninth ward division commander, who was at noon the sixty-third visitor of the day by the office boy's tally, 'Didn't my brother go to the war with you?'

'Certainly,' said the controller.

'Wasn't I a Republican?'

'Of course,' said the Controller-elect.

'Didn't I own my division?'

'Why yes,' said the Colonel.

'Well I handed it over to you,' said the Twenty-ninth ward man, with a sweeping gesture, in the manner of a king conferring knighthood, He was ushered out.

'Bin up for—hic—three nights, Kurnel,' said the next caller, as he reeled gracefully across the carpet.

'Yes,' said the Colonel as he arose and lent a hand to steady the invader.

'I c'nverted fif-three Rep—hic—ublicans. Saw 'em paste the stickers. Whoop!'

'Yes,' said Mr. Dechert, apprehensively.

'I'm comin' (hic) up to see you when you get there.'

'Thanks, very much,' said the Colonel. After this thing had been kept up at intervals throughout the afternoon Colonel Dechert's legal neighbors at 615 Walnut street sent a polite note of congratulation and a petition, drawn in due legal form, requesting him not to get elected again before the 1st of January.—Philadelphia Times.

If people troubled with colds would take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral before going to church or places of entertainment, they would avoid coughing, greatly to the comfort of both speakers and singers find that the Pectoral wonderfully increases the power and flexibility of the voice.

Mrs. Brownstone encountered her friend, Mrs. Spoonbill, in one of the great marts of trade yesterday.

'Aren't you glad the election is over?'

'But it isn't.'

'The suspense can't last many days, anyhow. I shall rejoice when it's all settled, for I haven't been able to get a sensible answer from my husband for a week.'

'My brother said your husband ought to see a doctor,' was the petulant exclamation.

'Only yesterday I had a lot of samples to show him. Imagine his answer! "Yes, my dear, it will certainly be Blaine." Well, I'm just too happy for anything this morning.'

'I'm so glad. Why?'

'My husband promised me a new dress if Cleveland is elected; not that I care so much for the dress, you understand, but I'm so pleased on Mr. Cleveland's account; the dear old man has been so abused and slandered. And, then, you see—'

'But I think he's a horrid man—'

'You do! You ought to know something about horrid men.'

Don't be personal, Mrs. Brownstone. I might—'

The floor-walker was about to interfere, when Miss Bulldozer, an interesting maiden lady, touched Mrs. Spoonbill on the shoulder and exclaimed:

'Isn't it too bad? I believe Belva Lockwood is beaten.'

'If there is anything idiotic, it is to hear a woman express an opinion on an undecided election,' snarled Mrs. Brownstone.

'Oh, you, re real mean,' answered Miss Bulldozer, pathetically. 'I should have loved to have seen Belva in the White House. She worked so heroically. Many votes were cast for her, but they were not counted by the jealous men.'

'Do you want to vote?' asked Mrs. Brownstone, abruptly.

'I'd like to,' was the meek response. 'If the women could vote, we would't put the ballot-boxes in back yards and rum-shops, as the men do. We'd meet in our parlors and behave like ladies, we would.'—Phila. Times.

All in the Line of Nature.

There is nothing in the line of magic or mystery about that wonderful and popular medicine, Parker's Tonic. It is simply the best and most scientific combination possible of the essential principles of those vegetable curatives which act powerfully and directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. But there neither is nor will be any successful imitation of it. It is all the time curing those who had despaired of ever getting well. For yourself, your wife and children. Nov 6,—4t.

FOR THE YOUNG FOLKS.

Our Joke on the Deacon

'I'm proof against you this year, boys. Every door and every gate on the place is locked up tight.'

Deacon Dump stood at the gate, with a good-humored smile, as we boys went along in the early evening, intent on playing Hallowe'en jokes upon such neighbors as might have left us any opportunity.

'That isn't fair, deacon. You ought to have left us a little chance.'

'Couldn't do it. I'm getting too old, you see, to be trotting all over town after my traps. Go 'long with you all. You won't find anything loose here.'

We went on and had the usual amount of sport playing the same old tricks.

Passing the deacon's on our way back, we stopped on perceiving that his lights were out.

'It would be jolly to play the good old soul some sort of a joke after all his care—wouldn't it?' said Harry Grant.

'Tip-top. Can't we?' said another.

'It was a regular dare to us. We ought to do something.'

We consulted.

On the other side of the quiet village street stood a wagon, loaded with cord wood, large and heavy.

'I'll tell you,' said Jim Hart. 'Let's pile that wood—the whole load—in the deacon's wood shed. It would be the best thing out. He'd be sure to get in to a first-class scrimmage with that cross-grained Pat Malony. Both of 'em would be completely dumfounded as to how it should be got out, there would be no end of fun.

It was soon agreed.

As we expected, we found the deacon's gate as well as his wood-shed door locked; but we were out for a lark, and never thought of stopping for the difficulties in our way.

A load of brick lay inside the fence, exactly in our path, making it necessary to take an unpleasant round among some thorny wild gooseberries.

At it we went. Two boys climbed in the window of the wood-shed; two lifted the wood from the wagon, and passed it over the fence, while the remainder of the force stumbled with it among the bricks and bushes, and hoisted it into the small window.

Oh, what a task that was! We worked like beavers, like horses, like galley slaves; or, if there is anything else in the world which works harder, we worked like that. Lifting, stretching, carrying, with lacerated hands and torn clothes, if ever boys were made to work for any useful end as we worked that night for fun, they would surely be considered proper objects for consideration of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Boys.

'Hist!' said Jim, holding up a warning hand, when we were about half done.

We all held our breaths, and listened in dismay.

'I thought I heard something like that jolly little chuckle the deacon always gives when he's amused,' whispered Jim, 'but it couldn't have been.'

'It isn't laughing we'd be likely to hear from the deacon just now,' said another.

'No. He can scold, though, when he takes a notion to.'

At last it was all in, piled snug and close, with careful reference to making it as difficult as possible to get it out, and then we went home to our beds, the lamest, achingest set of boys ever seen.

Most of us managed to be hanging about the street at the time when Pat came with his horses next morning to hitch on to his load, but we missed the excitement we had hoped for. He went into the deacon's house for a few moments then came out, and drove away his empty wagon in the most matter-of-course way imaginable. We boys were the puzzled ones.

How we did worry our brains with guesses and surmises as to how the matter could have been settled. We said nothing about it, however, to anybody, and would have been glad to forget it ourselves; but there was a merry twinkle in the deacon's eye every time he met us which kept it in our minds.

At last we resolved to get at the secret.

'How was it about that wood, anyhow, deacon?'

The old gentleman laughed all over.

'Why, bless your hearts, boys! I'm glad you've given me a chance to thank you for that piece of work. You've all been so modest concerning it, I hated to speak. Good thing to see boys modest when they've been doing a kindness. Found it a mighty tough job, 'didn't you? I could see that when I took a peep out that night, and felt just like taking hold and giving a lift; but I knew you were doing it to surprise me, and I didn't want to spoil it. Quiet as mice, too, you were—didn't want to disturb nobody. Yes; toughest kind of a job! Why, boys, when I bought that load of Pat, that evening, we both said it would be a tug to get it in, and we'd need good daylight for it; so we left it standing over night—'

'Deacon,' said Harry Grant, 'if you'll agree never to speak of that wood again, we boys'll agree to come over, and saw and split and pile the next load you buy.'

And we did.

THE famous frigate Constitution, or 'Old Ironsides,' once escaped from a fleet of British men-of-war by a very curious bit of strategy. One calm morning, the commander of the Constitution came on deck to discover that several of the enemy's ships had approached during the night, and he saw at once that it would be folly to give battle to the whole fleet. But how to get out of the scrape was the problem that vexed him. There was not a breath of air stirring, and so Captain Hull decided to put strong crews of oarsmen in the small boats to tow the frigate ahead as speedily as they could. But before the small boats had been lowered, the smart Yankees hit upon a device which, as could be seen later in the day, saved them all from capture. The carpenters were set to work to make a huge frame, and the sailmakers covered it in a jiffy, the result of their labor being a big umbrella. The umbrella was about twenty four feet across and thirteen feet long. It was dropped into the water, with a line fast to the butt or after-stick. Then came the word, 'Give way boys!' In pulling from the ship, the umbrella would shut up, and when those on board would haul in, it would open. The lines were a hundred fathoms in length. Soon the Constitution was being towed, or warped, through the water at the rate of five or six miles an hour. The British captains sent their small boats to pull the British man-of-war Shannon after the fleeing American; but the Constitution was soon out of reach and out of sight.

43. A, B and C traded in company. A put in $1 as often as B put in $3 and B put in $2 as often as C put in $5. B's money was in twice as long as C's and A's twice as long as B's.—They gained $50.50. How much was each man's share of the gain?

43. If the sun passes over one degree in four minutes and the longitude of Boston is 71 deg. 4 min. west, what will be the time at Boston when it is 11.16 A. M. at London?

4. A greyhound makes two leaps while a hare makes three, but one leap of the greyhound equals two of the hare's in length. The hare has eighty of her own leaps start. How many leaps will the greyhound and hare take respectively?

'Who was the first man?' asked her mother, recently.

'Adam.'

'Yes, that's right. Who was the first woman?'

'Mrs. Adam.'

KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among the earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Glandular Affections, Mesenteric Disease, Tabes, Mesenteric Collapse, etc. It also originates Pulmonary Consumption, Spinal Disease, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Inflammations, Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

SCROFULA

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is so effectual an alterative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. This great

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians constantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as an

Absolute Cure

For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest, as well as the best blood purifying medicine, in the world.

ALABASTINE
A Superior Substitute for Kalsomine, etc.

Alabastine is the first and only preparation made from calcined gypsum rock, for application to walls with a brush, and is fully covered by patents and perfected by many years of experiments. It is the only permanent wall finish, and admits of applying as many coats as desired, one over another, to any hard surface, without danger of scaling, or noticeably adding to the thickness of the wall, which is strengthened and improved by each additional coat, from time to time. It is the only material for the purpose not dependent upon glue for its adhesiveness. Alabastine is hardened on the wall by age, moisture, etc., while all kalsomines or whitening preparations have inert soft chalks and glue for their base, which are rendered soft or scaled in a very short time.

In addition to the above advantages, Alabastine is less expensive, as it requires but one-half the number of pounds to cover the same amount of surface with two coats, is ready for use by adding water, and easily applied by any one.

For sale by your Paint Dealer. Ask for Circular containing Samples of 12 tints, manufactured only by the ALABASTINE Co., M. B. CHURCH, Manager, Grand Rapids, Mich.
