A PROTECTIVE tariff is a tax levied upon one class of people to sustain another class of people. This fact is not denied by protectionists or by anybody else. How any sensible man, who is not benefitted by protective taxation can admit this as being true, and yet believe in protection, is a mystery. He had as well stand on the theory that the man who receives an income of $2,000 should be compelled to hand over $500 to the man whose income is $1,000. From an abstract view, this latter tenet would be the more just of the two. Such a system would only tend to the equalization of wealth. But the system known as protective tariff collects a revenue out of rich and poor, to fill the coffers of those who are for the most part rich. The present system by which American manufactures are sustained is as unjust as if every man, woman and child in the nation were taxed $20 per head directly, and this sum were collected by a tax collector, and the whole paid into a fund to sustain American manufactures. Who would think of sustaining American manufactures by any such system. And yet there is a tax not collected directly, but indirectly, of more than $20 per capita on every man, woman and child in the land, that goes into the fund for sustaining American manufactures.

IT IS interesting to note the varied reasons set forth by Republican organs, great and small, as to why Blaine was beaten. A westean paper beautifully explains the sad situation as follows,—

The G. O. P. fought a Conglomerated mass of Mugwumps, Pharisees, Dudes, Independents, Stalwarts, the Democratic party, People's party, Belva Lockwood, Beecher, Rum, Romanism, Rebellion, and all the remainder of the fools, cranks and kickers this side of the North Pole.

Maryland Honors the Marylander who Led the Campaign.

Hon Arthur P. Gorman was given an overwhelmingly warm public reception on his return to Baltimore last week, after the New York count was settled:

At the hotel, in response to loud calls, Mr. Gorman made his appearance on one of the balconies and spoke as follows:

"Fellow-Citizens of Maryland: I confess to you that this is the first time in my life that I ever desired to be an orator. I wish to-day I had a silver tongue to thank you for this reception. I would like to be able to picture to you in words fit for the occasion the glorious result the people of this land have achieved by the election of Cleveland and Hendricks. For the first time in twenty four years are the Democrats emancipated in America. This is the victory of the people. It is your victory. It was a fight against organized capital and the idea of consolidation that has been ruling this government for twenty years. But now the government comes back into your hands, and you will keep it if you are true Americans, as I know you are.

"For the part I have taken in this contest your generous words and splendid cheer are all that I have desired. Going forth from you to do my duty as a Democrat, I never looked for any reward except that my own people of Maryland might say 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'

"The National Democratic Committee, who organized the great masses of our fellow-citizens, deserve, it is true, great credit. The head of that Committee, Wm. H. Barnum, the veteran of three fights, has stood by his party flag until he has seen it raised at the masthead, the emblem of victory. Not only did he do all this, but his own State of Connecticut, after a gallant fight, joins our victorious colums and gives part of the 219 votes cast for Cleveland. With us, as Secretary of the Committee, was Mr. P. B. Smalley, of Vermont, who undismayed by past defeats, has carried the banner of the party until he sees it waving in triumph. On my other side was gallant Senator Jonas, of Louisiana, who ran out of Louisiana the returning board that in 1876 defrauded the people of the President they had chosen. These gentlemen deserve more credit than I do.

"In all this contest, my friends, when the battle raged hottest, I may be pardoned for saying to you I did not flinch or falter. Sometimes it was inquired of me: 'How can you stand up with such steady determination?' To this I had but one reply: 'I am a Marylander, and any Maryland man who is in politics, and is at all successful, must be ready to receive a charge of cavalry at breakfast, cold steel at dinner, and cannon booming over him throughout the night.' [Laughter.] 'Maryland! Oh, how I love Maryland! The single ambition of my life, the only ambition to day, is to represent Maryland, and no other constituency. [Cheers and cries, 'You shall.'] Maryland has done glorious work in this campaign. Wherever the battle was hottest there were our citizens, a glorious band, like unto the old line of the revolution that never faltered and never swerved. In West Virginia, Indiana, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, the sons of Maryland have been found in the van, nobly doing their part. In addition, let me tell you now, that when we made an appeal to the people for the necessary funds, there came from Maryland more than from any other State in the Union except New York. I come back to you prouder of our State and our people than ever.

"I beg you will turn your thoughts to the great work our party has to do. It is to correct the faults of twenty-four years of misgovernment. It is a grand task and a great responsibility, and every citizen should strengthen our President in his efforts, and he will require your aid as you have given it to the party in the contest. Let us see to it that every interest, including labor and capital, is protected. The business men of the country won the fight for us. Their interests will be safe in President Cleveland's hands, and the conduct of the Democratic party will forever put an end to the claim of the Republican party that its sucess would work injury to the vast business interests of our land.

'And now, my friends, I know you will pardon me for not speaking longer to you. [Cries of 'Go on.'] I thank you with all my heart for this reception. The proudest day of my life is this. Having come up from the people, having been called by my State to high and honorable position, having been assigned by my party to a post of labor and responsibility, I have cherished but one hope, have felt but one desire—that the people of Maryland might say of me 'He has done his duty faithfully and well.' You have said that this day, and with my whole heart I thank you, and say to you that what I have done was simply a duty to the great Democratic party, that has made me all I am."

An Interview with President-elect Cleveland.

Last Saturday's Philadelphia Times publishes an interview by a Times representative with Governor Cleveland, relative to the effect which a party change will have on the business interests of the country. Said Mr. Cleveland:

"No harm shall come to any business interests as the result of administrative policy so long as I am President. I intend to surround myself with the best and broadest minds in the party and then bend all my energies toward making an administration that shall at least assure every element that a transfer of executive control from one party to another does not mean any serious disturbance of existing conditions."

"I feel, of course, that I have great responsibilities and approach them with a feeling of more or less anxiety. While I know that there is no reason whatever for this feeling of restlessness North or South, I cannot but realize that all minds do not see things in the same light. What may seem of no moment to one may be of great consequence to another. The Democratic party and its servants are as much committed to a careful policy upon economic questions as their opponents, and they will be as careful to act for the best interests of the country as the Republicans would had they been successful. I assume, therefore, that whatever of nervousness there is now apparent comes simply from the disturbance of a long lease of power, and that whenever the irritation growing out of defeat has passed off there will be a better feeling all around and a willingness to give the new men a fair and honest chance. That is all that is desired, and less would not be fair to the incoming administration."

"It is almost incredible to me that there should be any feeling of uncertainty whatever as to the future, so far as the result of the recent election is concerned. Those who are to succeed to power by the will of the people, as recently expressed, are as much interested in the future of the United States as those who yield it. They also have an equal stake in the prosperity and advancement of the country. They are as thoroughly committed to a maintenance of values and as earnestly anxious for a sterling business prosperity as their opponents. Naturally they will be careful about pronouncing for a policy inimical to the interests of the very class which, more than any other, has thus honored us with its confidence. Coming into power after so long an absence, the party ought, and will so far as the Executive is concerned, bring liberal views and good impulses into the control of the government. It would be unnatural for the party not to be actuated by a desire to continue in power by demonstrating that it deserved the highest confidence of the people. This it cannot do if it would unsettle business and make factious war upon well conceived plans of government. This is the view I take of the proper position for a party just assuming the control of the country in a crisis like this and the standard by which I shall be guided while in the Presidential office. If I follow it I hope for and expect a fair and honest response from the Republicans with whom I may have relations, as well as the hearty support of my own party."

Regarding the President-elect's personality, the Times makes the following comments,—

These words were spoken in the Executive Chamber, where the next President just now can always be seen at his best. I had met him in the hurry of the campaign, but with little more than a chance to pass the compliments of the season. To day I had an opportunity to observe more closely and estimate the man more carefully than before. If he does not make a successful President I shall be greatly mistaken. He is not a brilliant man in the sense in which that term is applied to men who have said and written great thoughts. He has never had an opportunity to show what there is in him until now. Opportunity often does wonders with men. Without phenomenal gifts, he seems a conservative, careful, safe man, with a superior practical mind, capable of a wonderful amount of work and guided by a judgment that dominates his whole nature when it is fixed. With the work before him these are superior winning qualities, far better even than the showy gifts of speech or intellectual traits which dazzle the multitude. His manners are easy, his voice not unpleasant and his habits of life exceedingly democratic. He does not permit the Executive office to be barred by messengers and anyone may come in and go out at will. The humblest man in the country may see him on business or to pay his respects as easily as the greatest, and this magnificent room in which he receives his visitors will become historical for his occupancy of it. It has practically been his home. Most of his hours day and night have been spent here in the exacting duties of his position.

We are manufacturing some of the best work that was ever built in this State. We sell First-Class Work. If you want a Good Carriage it will be to your interest to buy of us as we are now—after Twenty years' experience—better able to suit you in every respect. Call and see our Light Phætons, Brewster Spring Buggies, Dayton and Jump-Seat Carriages.

We do not offer this work in competition with the common shoddy work, but sell it on its merits, and our reputation.

All Kinds of Repairing Done Neatly and with dispatch. We give special attention to painting up second-hand jobs. Those wanting a nice job of painting should give us a call.

CHAPMAN & LAMBERT.

Our WAGONS,

CARTS & DEARBORNS

Have a reputation throughout this Peninsula. We have sold them in New Castle county, Del., and in Cecil county, Md., and as far as Salisbury, Md. We have over ONE THOUSAND of these running to-day, and as far as our personal knowledge extends we do not know of twelve set of tyres cut in the whole of them. This is evidence enough of what kind of lumber we use in making them.

We could give you testimonials enough to fill one side of the Chestertown Transcript to establish this fact if it were necessary, but the public already knows of the standing of these goods.

We have justly earned the high reputation we hold as manufacturers by our manner of doing business—

We give our own personal supervision to every minutia in building;

We see that all lumber is well seasoned before it is used, and every other part is what it should be.

We do all kinds of

JOB-WORK & REPAIRS

furnish estimates for Bridge work, and repair all kinds of machinery.

We also sell

Plow Castings and Plows,

such as Wiley's, Concaves, and Minor & Horton's. These Castings are all ground and polished and sold cheap.

We also have on hand and make to order all kinds of

HARROWS,

Such as Twin and Double, and Single A's.

You will find a large lot of Single, Double and Three-horse Trees of the best hickory, well ironed; also, Plow Hames.

You will see by calling at our works that we have too much at stake to do mean or shoddy work.

Thankful for past patronage and hoping for a continuance of the same,

We are respectfully,
CHAPMAN & LAMBERT.

TO THE FARMERS

—OF—

KENT, QUEEN ANNE'S & CECIL

IT is universally acknowledged by the most practical farmers that the Ohio Chilled Plow is the best plow in the world for neatness of work, and lightness of draft to the team. As I have ordered a large number of these plows, both two and three-horse, farmers will do well to give me an early call.

We also keep on hand, the Old Reliable Concave Nos. 9, 10 and 11. Polished Minor and Horton, Wiley Nos. 3 and 4, and Two-Furrowed Plows, and Harrows, Twin, Single A, and Double A A, Cultivators and Cultivator Teeth unsurpassed by any manufacture. Single, Double, 3 and 4 Horse-Trees and Hames.

As there have been a great many Chilled Plows sold in these counties, and as farmers have been put to a great deal of trouble to get Castings for them, if they will only give the name and number of the Plow, I will endeavor to keep them on hand at my shops in Galena and Chestertown. I always have on hand Plain and Slip Shares for the Ohio, Oliver, Roland, Advance and Syracuse.

If any of you are in need of anything in my line, please give me a call, as I intend to sell them low for the cash.

Thankful for past patronage, I solicit a continuance of the same.

W. A. Hyland,
Galena and Chestertown.

THE CENTURY

IN 1885.

A GREAT ENTERPRISE.

Papers on the Civil War.

The important feature of the Century magazine for the coming year—indeed, perhaps the most important ever undertaken by the magazine—will be a series of separate papers on the great battles of the War for the Union, written by general officers high in command upon both the Federal and the Confederate sides,—General Grant (who writes of Vicksburg, Shiloh, and other battles), Generals Longstreet, McClellan, Beauregard, Rosecrans, Hill, Admiral Porter, and others. The series opens in the November Century with a graphically illustrated article on written by the Confederate General, G. T. Beauregard. Brief sketches, entitled 'Recollections of a Private,' papers chronicling special events, descriptions of various auxiliary branches of the service, etc., will supplement the more important series by the various generals.

The Battle of Bull Run,

A strict regard for accuracy will guide the preparation of the illustrations, for which the Century has at its disposal a very large quantity of photographs, drawings, portraits maps, plans, etc., hitherto unused. The aim is to present in this series, not official reports, but commanding officers' accounts of their plans and operations,—interesting personal experiences which will record leading events of the war, and possess, at the same time, a historical value not easily to be calculated.

Fiction.

In this line the Century will maintain its prestige, and furnish the best stories by American writers that can be procured. In November begins

A New Novel by W. D. Howells,

Author of 'Venetian Days,' 'A Modern instance,' etc. This story deals with the rise of an American business man. A novel by Henry James, a novelette by Grace Denio Litchfield, and short stories by 'Uncle Remus,' Frank R. Stockton, H. H. Boyesen, T. A. Janvier, H. H., Julian Hawthorne, and other equally well-known writers will appear at various times.

Miscellaneous Features.

Under this heading may be included a series of papers on the Cities of Italy by W. D. Howells, the illustrations being reproductions of etchings and drawings by Joseph Pennell; a series on being an interesting group of papers by E. V. Smalley, Lieut. Schwatka, Principal Grant (of Kingston, Ontario), and others, descriptive of little-known regions; papers on French and American art,—sculpture and painting, with some exquisite illustrations; papers on

The New North-West,

Astronomy, Architecture, and History, the first being by Professor Langley and others. Under Architecture are included more of Mrs. Van Rensselaer's articles on Churches, City and Country Houses, etc. Colonel George E. Waring, Jr., will describe

Progress in Sanitary Draining;

E. C. Stedman, Edmund Goose, and others will furnish literary essays; George W. Cable will contribute in various ways; several papers on sport and adventure will soon be published, and will write from time to tim on outdoor subjects.

Readers of the CENTURY may feel sure of keeping abreast of the times on leading subjects that may properly come within the province of a monthly magazine. Its circulation is now about 140,000 monthly, the November number exceeding that figure. Subscriptions should date from this number beginning the War Series and Mr. Howell's novel. Price $4,000 a year, 35 cents a number. All book-sellers and news-dealers sell it and take subscriptions, or remittance may be made to the publishers.

A free specimen copy of The Century will be sent on request. Mention this paper.

ST. NICHOLAS

FOR YOUNG FOLKS.

Attractions for 1884-5.

No printed periodical can take the place of parent, pastor or school teacher; but a good magazine can supplement their work and influence to a wonderful degree. In view of this, it is not extravagant to say that—instead of 'Can we afford to take ST. NICHOLAS?'—the question of every earnest household in English-speaking countries, to-day, should be 'Can we afford not to take ST. NICHOLAS?'

The magazine, during its eleven happy years of existence, under the editorial charge of

has grown familiar to hundreds of thousands of young readers; and their interest and intelligent enjoyment have constantly inspired the editor and publishers to fresh effort. To-day, its strength is in its wholesome growth, its sympathy with young life, its hearty recognition of the movement of events, and its steadily increasing literary and pictorial resources. The following are some of the good things already secured for future numbers of ST. NICHOLAS:

'His One Fault,' a serial story for boys, by the popular author, J. T. Trowbridge.

'Personally Conducted,' illustrated papers on famous places in Europe. By Frank R. Stockton.

'Historic Girls,' a companion series to 'Historic Boys.' By E. S. Brooks.

'Ready for Business;' suggestions to boys about to choose an occupation,—based on personal interviews with prominent representatives of various trades and professions. By G. J. Manson.

'Driven Back to Eden,' a serial. By E. P. Roe.

'Talks for Young Folks,' a series of popular papers, by H. H. (Helen Jackson.)

'Among the Law-makers;' recollections of a boy-page in the U. S. Senate,—containing much political information, both instructive and amusing. By Edmund Alton.

'Davy and the Goblin,' a very funny serial story by a new writer, Chas. Carryl.

Short Stories by Louisa M. Alcott

'The Progress of Invention;' 'From Palanquin to Parlor-car,' 'From Cross-bow to 100-ton Gun,' etc. Descriptive papers, by Chas. E. Bolton.

'Art Work for Young Folks;' papers on decorative handicraft, by Chas. G. Leland.

'Sheep or Silver?' a story of Texan life. By the late Rev. William M. Baker.

'A Garden of Girls,' being six short stories for girls, by Six Leading Writers.

'Tales of Two Continents;' stories of adventure, by H. H. Boyesen.

'Cartoons for Boys and Girls,' funny pictures, by St. Nicholas Artists.

'From Bach to Wagner;' brief, pointed biographies of great musicians. By Agatha Tunis.

Special Papers by chosen writers, including Mary Hallock Foote, Joaquin Miller, Alice Wellington Rollins, G. B. Bartlett, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Rev. Washington Gladden, Julia Schayer, Anna Lea Merritt, W. O. Stoddard, D. Ker, Ernest Ingersoll, Clara E. Clement, Lieutenant Schwatka.

The Illustrations will be the work of the very best artists and engravers,—and there will be plenty of them. In the November and December numbers are beautiful

COLORED FRONTISPIECES.

Buy the November number for the children. It costs only 25 cents, and all book and news-dealers sell it. The subscription price is $3 00 a year, and now is just the time to subscribe.

A free specimen copy of St. Nicholas will be sent on request. Mention this paper.
