

THE CHESTERTOWN TRANSCRIPT

SUPPLEMENT.

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 25, 1893.

CAPT. WILLIAM D. BURCHINAL, says the Baltimore News, is the representative Republican of the Eastern Shore.

NONE of our bicycle boys went to the cycle carnival in Baltimore. But the Chestertown cycle club has some of the finest material in the State, and it is unfortunate that the club was not represented.

WESTERN railroads have already commenced a World's Fair rate war. A number of roads are involved, with a prospect that the war will become general. The Eastern traveling public are hankering for a war at this end of the lines.

It is stated that the oyster dealers of Royal street, New Orleans, are engaged in a war of rates that has brought the price down from twenty to ten cents a dozen on the half shell. Some of the dealers even throw beer in free.

IT HAS BEEN SUGGESTED that a handsome weather vane be placed on Stam's Hall by the citizens of Chestertown. The position is sufficiently elevated, central, and in every way desirable. The suggestion is a most happy one, and the weather vane would at all times indicate the direction of the wind and would at the same time be an ornament to Chestertown's handsomest building. Should Mr. Stam object, the matter should be promptly carried through.

THE CRITICS of Mr. Cleveland's reception of the distinguished representative of the Spanish Court, Her Royal Highness, the Infanta Eulalia, may rest assured, that Mr. Cleveland, in extending to the Spanish visitors just such courtesies as he, as representative of the American people, would have received at the hands of the powers of the world under similar circumstances, has maintained the dignity of his government, and at the same time fulfilled every requirement of international courtesy.

THE SUNDAY opening of the World's Fair, is one of the most interesting questions now before the public. The local committee has decided to surrender the congressional appropriation, ignore restraint and do as they please in the matter, and throw the gates open seven days in the week. The prospects are, however, that the National managers will have something to say in the case, and an injunction is probable, restraining the Chicago managers. The action of the local committee is an unwarranted presumption, and it is to be hoped that the action of Congress may be upheld.

WHETHER or not the distinguished services of Mr. Thomas H. Hunt, in voting for Senator Gorman in the Chicago convention, will assist him (Mr. Hunt) in his aspirations for the Revenue collectorship, in opposition to Mr. Laird, remains to be seen. The beautiful consistency of Mr. Hunt and his friends in asking favors of the present administration is truly unique. Anything to beat Mr. Laird, seems to be the motto, and it is now an open secret that Hon. Frank T. Shaw, of Carroll county, will be the next recourse, should Mr. Hunt fail in his aspirations, as a result of the managers not having the ear of Mr. Cleveland.

ROBERT PEALE, one of America's celebrated artists, and an enthusiastic lover of art, was born in Chestertown, in a building which stood near the present site of the drug store of M. A. Toulson, on Main street. "Rosalie Mitchell," herself an accomplished artist and literateur, makes the happy suggestion, that the town rear a monument to her talented son. This will surely follow, just so soon as the people fully appreciate the magnificent achievements of our students of art in its various departments. Chestertown, in honoring the memory of her gifted offspring will inaugurate a change, and set an example which many less fortunate towns would be glad of an opportunity to emulate.

MILLINGTON ITEMS.

Bishop Mallalieu's Visit—School Resumed in the Town Hall—Personals, Etc.

MILLINGTON, MD., May 23, 1893.
A large number of our people were given quite a treat on Monday evening by Bishop Mallalieu, of the Methodist Episcopal Conference, who lectured to them on missionary work, and gave an account of his trip around the world. He spoke of the customs and manners of the natives of the Eastern countries, and how they entertained him; also of the great good he did while on the tour and the good that is being done by others among them. For two hours he entertained his interested listeners, many of whom could hardly secure sitting room, the large and commodious church being so crowded. He was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Mallalieu, who are relatives of the Bishop. He left Tuesday morning for Philadelphia.

Since the burning of the Academy we had had no school until Tuesday morning, and the children enjoyed a holiday. The town hall has been rented until vacation, or until the academy is rebuilt. Prof. H. Tonkin and Mrs. M. E. B. Mallalieu will have their classes at the hall, while Miss Vic Power will have the same building formerly occupied by her, it having been saved at the time of the fire.

Miss Florence Reese left Monday, after a three weeks' visit to the Misses Lillie and Marie Coey, and was accompanied by them to her home.

Mrs. Lina Meginniss, son and daughter, of Wilmington, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Moffett.

Mrs. L. S. Price and Miss Mary Price spent Sunday with friends at Townsend, Delaware.

Miss Annie Adams, of Dover, Del., is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Mallalieu.

Miss Carrie Jefferson, of Frederica, Del., is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. A. Smith.

Rev. Edw. W. Burke, of Harrisburg, Pa., is visiting his father at the M. E. parsonage, and preached for him to a large congregation last Sunday night.

Mr. W. F. Marks and wife, of Baltimore, Md., spent several days last week as guests of Mrs. J. W. Daling.

Mr. Bruce Massey left last Wednesday morning for his western home, Colorado Springs, Col.

Messrs. T. B. Meginniss and J. E. Sherwood, of Wilmington, Del., spent Sunday in town.

Our old friend, John L. Simmons, has returned from Baltimore, and has opened a grocery store in town. John has improved very much in health and looks as if he is long for this world.

Mr. N. T. Meginniss, of Baltimore, came over Monday and disinterred the remains of his wife, who was buried here two years ago, and carried them to Baltimore, where they were interred in Greenmount cemetery.

KENNEDYVILLE HAPPENINGS.

KENNEDYVILLE, MD., May 23, '93.
GENTS:—The Ladies' Aid Society met in the hall last Friday night and had a very pleasant time.

Children's Day exercises will be held by the M. P. Sunday school next Sunday evening.

One of our agricultural friends the other day, wore a pair of smoked glasses while spreading lime, thought it was getting cloudy, and as he did not care to get wet, worked very hard to get his load off, when to his astonishment he found that it was his glasses, as the sun was shining brightly.

One of our base ball teams went to Chestertown Monday to wipe out a nine, but the score stood 11 to 8 in favor of Chestertown.

Some eight or ten of our young lads, ranging from 10 to 16 years of age thought they would initiate a new comer by bullying him, but when he learned their errand he coolly drew a small pocket knife and defied the whole crowd.

The Rev. John Martin is back with us for a short time, we are sorry he is not going to stay. He advertises his place for sale or rent. It is a very desirable place.

OFFICE OF Local Board of Health.

CHESTERTOWN, MD., May 11, 1893.
The American Public Health Association in a recent bulletin, has given various formulas and directions for disinfection and deodorization—giving the distinctive definition of the term. So often deodorization is thought to be disinfection, care should be taken to both disinfect and deodorize, that is to destroy disease germs and do away with noxious odors at the same time.

The disinfection of excreta of all kinds and under all circumstances may be accomplished by using chloride of lime (bleaching powder) six ounces to one gallon of water, allow this to stand thirty minutes and use in privies, vaults, sinks or vessels.

Also corrosive sublimate and permanganate of potash, two drachms to a gallon of water, to be used for same purposes as the lime solution, as well as various other formulas.

The disinfection and purification of premises may be best accomplished by removal of all organic or vegetable refuse and the substitution of earth, sand or other dry material; thorough draining of such places as hold water. The free use of lime in various ways; cutting away all undergrowth and all other obstacles to the free admission of sunlight; the removal of the pound, out-house, pig-pen or other offensive things of like character. All cellars and drains should receive prompt attention. Source of water supply especially should at this time be carefully looked after. If there is any doubt as to its purity seek the advice of those most likely to know.

Those having closets in their houses may be sure of their being free from disease-producing conditions if the second disinfecting fluid mentioned above be used after having emptied a box of concentrated lye into the sink or hopper.

Personal cleanliness and care deserves consideration, that of children or infants especially. If the infant is artificially fed great care should be exercised, and if fevers, infectious or contagious disease be present in the house or in contact with the child, or its care-takers, the food should be subjected to heat at a boiling temperature for twenty or thirty minutes.

The observance of strict sanitary rules and hygienic laws, while not absolutely preventing disease in all cases, will, and do in many, and in others render the disease less fatal and better enable the subject to withstand its ravages.

The lesson taught us last September, and the presence all winter of the cholera scourge in Europe, should stand prominently before us. There is no better way to fight epidemics than to be prepared for them. If all communities, large and small, city and rural, should put themselves in the best sanitary condition possible there need be little cause for alarm.

The Local Board of Health for this county is anxious to have every town, village and farm put in such condition. The various town authorities, farmers and property-holders are urged to give these matters prompt attention before the advent of the hot season.

Whenever it is possible, the secretary will furnish such advice as is sought, will abate nuisances and render any other assistance possible.

W. FRANK HINES,
May 18, 1893.—31. SECRETARY.
