PUMPS and PUMP FIXTURES.

We are just about getting ourselves in position to offer to an advantage our many bargains which have heretofore been held back owing to our over-work invoicing.

As before stated we have a great large stock which was invoiced at a price way below the actual cost and which we are offering at a price way below the real cost of the goods to-day. We are also offering a big line of new goods, consisting in part of ladies fine broadclotas, shirtwaists, white dress goods, and numerous other things in the dry goods line, also a big lot of mattings, the like of which was never before shown in this section, and at such a low price as to astonish every one. Further, our line of straw and felt headwear was never surpassed and our line of farming and garden implements are complete and at the same old hard-time prices. We have harness too, which are being sold in the same manner, and furthermore everything in our store, which comprises a full and complete line of General Merchandise, surpassed by none on the Shore, is and will continue to be offered at a small margin above cost. Our manner of advertising is entirely through our goods, and we simply notify the public through these columns as to our manner of doing business.

We heartily invite the public to pay us a call, and assuring them a cordial reception as well as cheap prices. We remain, honestly yours,

Poured His Wine Into the Sewer.

William Greene, of Moorlands, Bickley, Kent, England, was generous, rich, strong a Christian man with a wide influence, a beautiful family—and a cellar full of rare wines. God spoke to him one day, and he was troubled about his wine and banished it from his board, and there it lay in the cobwebs and must of the cellar under safe lock and key. And day after day God said to him. "What have you done with your wine?" And he answered once, "I have locked it fast and safe in the cellar, and so it shall be to the end."

"What end?" said the voice.

"Aye, what end? I am an old man. I shall die some day, and what will become of my wine?" And this is the gospel of wine cellars according to William Greene. Satan said, "Sell it," and then the voice said, "To whom?" "Or give it to a hospital, and be a benefactor, and get your name in the paper," and the voice said, "Wine is a mocker." "Or get the dealer to buy it back. The price is a little fortune."

But the voice said: "It is yours, and your word is the infinite law for that wine. Wherever it goes it will carry a message from you." "Give the money away," and the voice said: "No blessing of money can commute for the peril or woe of wine. No matter how wisely or kindly your plan or how long you postpone the denouncement, at last like a serpent it biteth and like an adder it stings."

And this is the way William Greene met the question: He emptied the cellar at Highgate and into the sewer broke 2,500 bottles of wine.—Exchange.

Words of Wisdom.

Progress, the highest lesson of statecraft.

Men at some times are masters of their fate.

The simple heart that freely asks in love obtains.

The society of women is the element of good manners.

Better a little chiding than a great deal of heartbreak.

A man in earnest finds means, or if he cannot find, creates them.

Some men weave their sophistry till their own reason is entangled.

Moderation is commonly firm, and firmness is commonly successful.

Oh, how portentous is prosperity? How, comet-like, it threatens while it shines.

No woman is educated who is not equal to the successful management of a family.

The memory has as many moods as the temper, and shifts its scenery like a diorama.

There are few wild beasts more to be dreaded than a talking man having nothing to say.

He that knows the world will not be bashful; he who knows himself will not be impudent.

Conceit is vanity driven from all other shifts, and forced to appeal to itself for admiration.

How to Manage a Daughter.

First. You can't do it.

Second. Give her her own way; it will save her the trouble of taking it.

Third. Pay for her dresses, if you can afford to. Her dressmaker will sue you if you don't.

Fourth. If she takes a fancy to any man you do not want her to marry, tell her you swear she shall never marry any one else. You can then give her a free hand, and she wouldn't have him if he was the only man left.

Fifth. If there is any man you want her to marry, kick him out of your house, order the servants never to admit him, distribute man-traps and spring-guns and bull-dogs all around your yard, lock her up in her room and vow if she marries him you won't leave her a penny. You will not have to wait long after that for the elopement.

Sixth. If she has no voice encourage her to sing whenever you give a party. It will attract attention to her and give your guests an excuse for complimenting her. Never mind the neighbors.

Seventh. If you are a poor man teach your daughter how to dance and play the piano. She can learn cooking and dressmaking and those things after she is married.

Was it Breckinridge's Carriage.

There was an auction of horses, buggies, carriages, etc., here on Saturday.

In the lot was an old-fashioned close carriage, where the driver sits on top, and the inmates can draw the shades and have all the seclusion desired.

The vehicle was in good repair, having recently been overhauled and repainted, but the auctioneer was unable to get anything like fair figures for it. He "cried it" and "cried it" until his throat was getting tired.

Finally an idea struck him. Said he, "Gentlemen, this excellent and beautiful piece of 'traveling apparatus' arrived here only a few days ago, and is the identical carriage used by a famous statesman in taking a ride with a most charming young lady, then an inmate of a female college, said statesman and 'silver-tongued orator' now being on trial for a breach of promise in the city of Washington. How much am I offered for it?" and the bidding commenced and was kept up until, we are told, it brought its value three times over.—Greensboro Record.

The Bride Said no to the Minister.

Absalom Thayer and Miss Estelle Flagler stood up to be married at English, Ind., on Wednesday of last week. The minister had reached that place where he turned to the bride elect and said: "You take this man as your lawful husband?" She answered: "No, sir; I do not. You are the first one who has asked my opinion in the matter. Mr. Thayer has been courting my mother for more than a year. I though it was herself that he wanted, but it appears that he only wanted her consent to marry me, and she concluded to compel me to wed him."

The minister then said: "This ends it, I have no power to bind any one against his or her will."

The crowd broke up cheering for the girl.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Ganderman, Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia 'succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at M. A. Toulson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

THERE is always plenty of room at the top of a bald-headed man.

MRS. LEASE is becoming about as much of a chestnut as Methuselah.

THE man who whistles in a printing office is taking desperate chances.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,

$3,000.00 A YEAR FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS.

If you want work that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5.00 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Nothing difficult to learn or that requires much time. The work is easy, healthy, and honorable, and can be done during daytime or evenings, right in your locality, wherever you live. The result of a few hours' work often equals a week's wages. We have taught thousands of both sexes and all ages, and many have laid foundations that will surely bring them riches. Some of the smartest men in this country owe their success in life to the start given them while in our employ years ago. You, reader, may do as well; try it. You cannot fail. No capital necessary. We fit you out with something that is new, solid, and sure. A book brimful of advice is free to all. Help yourself by writing for it to-day—not to-morrow. Delays are costly.
