FIGHTING FIRES ON BICYCLES.

The Wheel to be Used in Carrying Chemicals to Incipient Blazes.

Chestertown may, in view of the following, draw great comfort from the increased facilities for fighting fires, offered by the large membership of the C. C. C., with Capt. C. S. Smith at its head.

"The uses to which the bicycle may be devoted are steadily increasing, and what is especially gratifying to all enthusiasts is that its usefulness has been practically demonstrated in other fields than those of pleasure," said A. M. Tanner, the representative of an Eastern bicycle manufactory, yesterday. "About the latest thing in this line, is a bicycle intended for use by fire departments. It carries a chemical engine and a light axe, instruments that in many cases are all that are needed to subdue fire if they are at hand in time. In some cities of Europe a part of the fire department is a swift horse saddled and bridled and carrying a chemical apparatus for subduing fires, with an axe attached and an expert rider ready to spring on the horse's back the moment the alarm is sounded, and ride swiftly to the scene of the fire. He can reach it some minutes or seconds before the heavy, lumbering engine can get there, and often this saving of time is of the greatest value, and the rider's services are all that is necessary in checking what otherwise might become a disastrous conflagration. This feature of the fire department is one of the means by which so many fires in Europe are confined to the room or building in which they start.

"A bicycle has advantages over a horse for this kind of service, as it can travel as swiftly, is more easily handled at the scene of fire, requires but little care and no food, and is especially adapted to small towns and suburban districts. We believe that if the plan once gains a footing, its success will be assured, and to attain this end our house proposes to establish a couple of experiment posts in Boston and sustain them until the plan has at least been given a fair trial.—San Francisco Call.

Getting a Marriage License.

Clerk Samuel G. Fisher, can possibly endorse many or all of these laughable methods of "popping the question" to the clerk for a marriage license.

The expressions of persons applying to Clerk Charley Weidner, of the Probate Court, for marriage licenses, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, are quite varied. Mr. Weidner has heard many different ways of requesting the issuance of the necessary document. Here are a few he recalled when asked about it:

"A marriage license, please."

"Want to get married, boss."

"Am dis de place to be made happy?"

"I want to put my foot in it."

"I am a subject."

"Te, te te! Ha, ha, ha! Gimme some license."

"I want to be made old."

"I want to get in trouble."

"I am a candidate."

"If I get in, how long will it take to get out?"

"I want a license."

"Same thing here."

"I have got the girl. Give me the license."

"I want to be spliced" is a very common expression.

"Say can I marry my first cousin?"

"Not because I want to, but——"

"Let her go."

"Give me 75 cents worth."

"I am a convert."

"I guess I'll try it again."

"Can you keep it quiet?"

"This is the third time."

"I'll try my luck again."

"Am 20 years old. Father and mother are dead. I think I can take care of myself."

"Give me one for a fotograr, too?"

"Say, I'll have to come back. I forgot my girl's name."

Marriage Maxims.

Better wait than never.

It's never too late to wed.

Rule by appearing to submit.

A hungry husband is hard to coax.

The shorter the bill the sweeter the fare.

A husband's wrath spoils the best broth.

Govern yourself and you will govern each other.

One kind thought spoken is worth two unsaid.

A sullen silence works more mischief than a royal row.

The proof of the temper is in the unexpected guest.

It isn't every wife that can laugh at her husband's jokes.

It's a cross-grained wife that will scold in a new bonnet.

Always remember that you have eyelids as well as eyes.

It takes a man to talk economy—a woman to practice it.

Better marry a praying sinner than a preaching saint.

If you've picked up a crooked stick, don't tell everyone so.

Man is the head of the house but woman the neck that turns it.

An ounce of tobacco calms more troubled waters than a ton of oil.

A sensible husband in hand is worth a dozen heroes in dreamland.

If you feel like a pair of scissors, don't choose a penknife to live with.

"A little farm well tilled,
A little cellar well filled,
A little wife well willed."

What could you wish a man better than that? The last is not the least by any means, but how can a wife be well willed if she is the victim of those distressing maladies that make her life a burden? Let her take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and cure all painful irregularities, uterine disorders, inflammation and ulceration, prolapsus and kindred weaknesses. It is a boon and a blessing to women. Thousands are in the bloom of health through using it, when otherwise they would be under the sod. Are you a sufferer? Use it, or some day we may read—
