CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

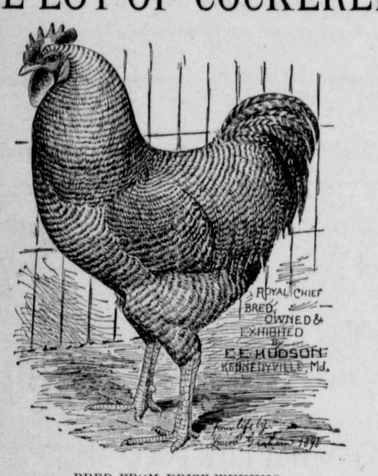

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

CURE FOR THE GRIP.

A Remedy for This Scourge Recommended by Dr. Thos. H. Buckler.

Dr. Thomas H. Buckler, a physician too well known to need any introduction, recently published a remedy for the grip which he recommended to everyone as the most efficacious to be used. It has received a trial at the hands of some grip patients in this town who pronounce it to be all that Dr. Buckler represents. We publish it below for the benefit of our readers. At the same time we would like to ask our resident physicians if they too consider it as excellent as Dr. Buckler seems to do? Dr. Buckler writes as follows:

"When, in 1892, I published in the Maryland Medical Journal, a paper of ten pages on the etiology and history of influenza (la grippe,) nothing was said about the treatment, which, is, after all, a simple matter, and is here given in the following brief words, whether the disease is ushered in in the usual way, with courbature (muscular aching all over the body) or primarily as a rheumatic sore throat (tonsilitis) converted rapidly by metastasis into endocarditis, of which Bishop Brooks died, or commences as a rheumatic bronchitis, which, transferred to the heart, caused the death of the poet Browning at the Palazzo Rezzonico, on the Grand canal, at Venice.

Influenza is always a rheumatismal disease and as such must be treated. Therefore give at the instant of the seizure our old-fashioned Dover's powder, the active ingredients of which are one grain of opium, one grain of epecac, with eight grains of sugar of milk, to give it bulk.

If the seizure of this malady is during the day, put the patient to bed as soon as possible and give the Dover's powder. After a sleep of six or seven hours, give, dissolved in water, fifteen grains of salicylate of sodium, and repeat this dose every six or eight hours; and to facilitate the sweating caused thereby, cover up well with warm blankets. Four of these powders are usually sufficient to sweat and stamp out the disease, and there is an end of it, but if further required, the salicylate may be continued without stint at regular intervals, as already stated.

Both in Paris and here, I have never known the most violent case of this disease to detain a patient in bed longer than two or three days at most. The above treatment was adopted at the very beginning, and fearing the seizure might be at night, the above simple remedies were always kept in the house.

But when this treatment is not adopted at once and carefully carried out the morbid elements may fly to some vital organ, causing detention in bed for weeks and not infrequently loss of life afterwards, or months or years of more or less suffering.

The use of a Dover's powder, followed by salicylate of sodium is so wholly and entirely the proper mode of treating influenza that no other method need for one moment be entertained or made a subject for inquiry or experiment. The Dover-salicylate is not only the best treatment for complicated influenza, but the best for the visceral rheumatism, which in many cases attends or rapidly follows it, and as no time should, therefore, be lost in giving the salicylate, the first dose of it may be given contemporaneously with the Dover's powder and the other single doses continued at the intervals already stated.

THE ART OF SKATING.

With Some Remarks as to the Requisites of a Good Skater.

"Of all the plays that are played by this playful world on its playdays," wrote Theodore Winthrop, "there is no play like skating." To skate well you must have lungs, not bellows; and an active heart, not an assortment of sluggish auricles and ventricles. You must have legs not shanks. Their shape is unimportant, except they must not interfere at the knee. You must have muscles, not flabbiness; sinews like wire; nerves like sunbeams, and a thin layer of flesh to cushion the gable-ends, where you will strike if you tumble—which, once for all, be it said, you must never do. You must be all momentum, and no inertia. You must be one part grace, one force, one agility, and the rest caoutchouc. Manilla, hemp and watchspring. Your machine, your body, must be thoroughly obedient. It must go just so far and no farther. You have got to be as unerring as a planet holding its own, emphatically, between forces centripetal and centrifugal. Your aplombmust be as absolute as the pounce of a falcon.

"Skating refuses to be spiritualized into a science; it remains an art, and cannot be expressed in a formula. Skating has its Little Go, its Great Go, its Baccalaureate, its M. A., its F. S. D. (Doctor of Frantic Skipping), its A. G. D. (Doctor of Airy Gliding), its N. T. D. (Doctor of No Tumbles), and finally its highest degree, U. P. (Unnaproachable Podogropher)."

Sure Cure for Corns.

Frank Heinzman lies dead at his home, at Union Hill, Jersey City, N. J., as the result of a friend's alleged joke. Heinzman had a corn that bothered him a good deal. The friend suggested, jestingly, that the only sure way to cure a corn was to cut off the toe. Heinzman thought so, too, and he proceeded to act as his own surgeon. He cut off the offending toe and bound it up loosely. The corn was gone, but in a few days the foot began to swell, and when a physician was consulted he found that blood poisoning had followed the amputation. Heinzman died in great agony. He was 25 years old and married.

If we could trace Dyspepsia to its source, it would lead back to our kitchens. In fact, the secret of good health is good cooking. If well cooked, foods are partially digested; if poorly cooked, they are less digestible than in their raw state. If you are a victim of faulty cooking, that is, if you suffer from Dyspepsia, the rational cure must be looked for in an artificially digested food, and a food which will at the same time aid the digestion of other foods. Such a preparation virtually rests the tired digestive organs, thereby restoring them to their natural strength.

The Digestive Cordial, as prepared by the Shakers of Mount Lebanon, is just such a preparation, and a single 10 cent bottle will convince you of its value. If your druggist doesn't keep it, he will be glad to get it through his wholesale house.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.

GREAT MEN IN LOVE.—Bulwer was a nonsensical love-maker. He frequently spoke of his fiancee as "Itty doggie," and always signed himself "Puppy." Robert Browning wrote magnificently to his adored Elizabeth, and their married life was always spoken of as an absolutely ideal one. Napoleon's letters contained much nonsense, and were sentimental to a high degree.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria

THE MARRIAGE TIE.

Men and Women Not to Be Judged by the Same Standard.

Whether it is that we are poorer, or that we are more luxurious and exacting in our tastes, and that the girls of today require more in their marriage than the ordinary Englishman can afford, I cannot say, but unless girls have great beauty or large fortunes we hear much more of the difficulty of their marrying. Among the mass of women, however, there is no revulsion from the marriage tie, and all healthy minded girls and women seem to be just as much interested in the question as were their grandmothers. The one great fact that has kept English society is the inviolability of the marriage tie. Infidelity in a married woman is surely reason enough to justify her husband in getting rid of her, and the woman who clamors for divorce on the same grounds as men is surely lowering the standard of female purity in a ruthless way. In man, with his stronger, coarser, more animal nature, to be judged by the same standard of chastity as a woman, with her higher ideals of life, her purer nature, and the exemption from temptation which she enjoys?

If we think for a moment of the temptation to which men are exposed from their very early youth, and which they undoubtedly combat very unsuccessfully, and which attacks them at a time when they are most prone to succumb—in the period of youth, vigor and ignorance—and contrast their position with that of women, we must surely feel that we are degrading our sex when we ask for a corresponding code of morality, or even suggest that women are to be tried by no higher standard than that to which men strive to attain.

We are told that no union can survive the conjugal customs and intimacy of English married life. Perhaps the new woman thinks so because in her ephemeral passion no feeling of constancy, affection or gratitude is possible. We believe that the overwhelming majority of old fashioned English women regard that intimacy as one of the purest and sweetest ever devised—one which, when the passion and desire of youth fade away, blossoms into a friendship, a companionship as constant as it is holy, without which their lives would indeed be barren.—Lady Jeune in Saturday Review.

CHINESE HAIR SOAP.

It Is Disagreeable to Look at, but Has Excellent Effect.

In the great empire of China you run across some very odd things, writes Margherita Arlina Hamm. One of these is what we might call hair soap and is used for shampooing purposes. How it is made I never could find out, but from the mere appearance of the article I should say it was composed of fine curled hay, oatmeal, wheat husks, grease and a little borax. It looks for all the world like some of the oil cakes which dairymen feed to their cows in winter time. In the market it is sold by the cake, or to those who cannot afford the luxury in small pieces. The cake is round or elliptical in outline, from an inch to 2 inches in thickness, from 12 inches to 2 feet in length and from 8 to 15 inches in width. It must weigh two or three pounds.

In using it your maid breaks off a piece about as large as an ordinary cake of toilet soap. When applied to the hair, it produces a fair lather, and the hay and husk separate and work their way into the scalp. The rubbing causes them to polish the scalp as well as the hair itself. The subsequent rinsing carries away all these vegetable ingredients and leaves the hair and scalp in beautiful condition—the former soft and silky, the latter pink and warm. While the hair soap is very ugly to look at and seems altogether ridiculous, yet if you use it once you are simply charmed with your new acquisition and employ it regularly thereafter.

Equally odd and useful are the tongue scrapers. They are made of tin for the very poor, of silver for the prosperous and of gold for the very rich. They are about the general dimensions of a whalebone, excepting they are much shorter. The shortest are four inches in length, and from that they run up to a foot. One end of the metal ribbon is attached to a silver ring, by which the scraper can be hung from a nail in the bathroom when not in use.

The edges are not sharp, like a knife, but resemble that of a screwdriver. What is wanted is an edge that will not cut on the one side, but will remove any coating from the tongue upon the other. Besides cleansing the tongue it is also supposed to strengthen that useful member and to keep it free from any eruption. The blade is usually plain and burnished, but in the more expensive styles it is chased in patterns that are almost Greek in their beauty and grace.

The Treatment of Headache.

"There are so many causes for headaches and so many conditions that lead up to this distressing malady that it is often very difficult to diognosticate the case properly," said a medical man of wide experience. "Of course, if the root of the matter is not reached, medicines avail nothing and may do more harm than good. One thing, however, is quite certain, and that is that congestion is a very frequent accompaniment of headache, and the pressure on the brain becomes extremely painful and may lead to dangerous consequences. It is evident, therefore, that any course of treatment that relieves the overfull blood vessels of the brain must be desirable. It is always best to consult some reliable physician, if one is within reach, but this a great many people are averse to doing, and some are so situated that medical aid is not within call. For this class of persons a simple remedy may be mentioned that has been the means of relieving many a sufferer and is so easily applied and so absolutely harmless that it is well worth knowing:

"When the beating, thumping sensation begins in the head, take equal quantities of pure cayenne pepper and flour. Mix them up with water to form a smooth paste thick enough to spread like a salve. Put this upon a piece of soft paper and apply it to the back of the neck just below the edge of the hair. In warm weather it is best to wash the neck with a cloth wet with soap and water, as the oily perspiration may interfere with the action of the plaster. One great advantage of cayenne pepper plaster over mustard is that, while the latter frequently blisters, the former never does so, no matter how strong it is applied. In the use of mustard, if the skin is broken, all treatment must cease until it heals, but with pepper, when the plaster loses its effect, another may be applied without unpleasant consequences."—New York Ledger.

Did the Ants Talk?

Sir James Boyle, the great Irish naturalist, always contended that ants had a language of their own, by which they made known their wants and fears to others of their kind. One day he encountered a colony that was evidently moving to new quarters. All appeared in the very best of spirits, and whenever two met the naturalist noted that they put their heads together as though chatting very earnestly. To settle the matter in his own mind as to whether they were really talking or not, he killed one of them to observe the effect it would have on the others. The eyewitnesses to the murder hastened to the rear and halted every one of the advancing column by laying their antennæ together. The column instantly separated to the right and the left, none of the marchers afterward passing within less than six feet of their dead companion, though the remains of the insect were directly in the beaten path.—St. Louis Republic.

July 11, 1895. P. J. REID, Prop'r.

You've seen and heard the loud voiced man at the big railway stations, calling the trains. He tells where each one is going and keeps people from taking wrong trains—if they pay attention.

One's physical feelings are bodily "train callers." They announce the starting of all trains of disease. Most all trains of disease lead to consumption, because consumption is a blood disorder and because the blood must be poor or impure before any disease can make much headway.

The secret of health is to keep the blood pure and full of strength. When a man or woman loses flesh and vitality, there is something wrong in the blood. The start of it is likely to be in the stomach or bowels, and if they are put in order the trouble gradually stops. Consumption is a germ disease, but if the blood is good, and keeps the lungs strong and healthy, the germs cannot find a place to lodge and are cast off. If there's a weak spot, the germ will find it. Even after that, strong and pure blood will strengthen the lungs so that they can gradually rid themselves of the germs. It is by creating strength and purity that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures consumption and other diseases. It makes one gain flesh—not flabby, oily fat, but sound, firm, useful, healthy flesh. Hundreds of patients have testified to its wonderfully beneficial effects in many diseases and especially in incipient consumption.

A large book of 1000 pages, full of these testimonials with portraits and autographs of the writers, can be had by sending 21 cents to cover postage and wrpping only. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.
