PRESERVE THE HAIR.

Some Useful Suggestions to Those Who Value What Is Invaluable.

Avoid tight fitting hats and collars, also close fitting caps, unless these be of some porous material. The two former prevent a due supply of blood to the parts; hence the hair papillæ are put, as it were, on short commons all the time the hats and collars are worn. The caps engender caloric, which sets up irritation and ultimately that most stubborn form of dandruff—namely, pityriasis (i. e., branny scales). Note that all the headgear which is not porous should be ventilated at top and sides to allow a free current of air.

Never sit or stand with the top of the head near a gas light or lamp light. The heat thrown out is apt to paralyze the scalp tissues and dries up the hair itself.

Don't wash the head oftener than once a fortnight, when first rub in the yolk of an egg and thoroughly rinse out with warm water, into which has been thrown a pinch of borax. Dry carefully and apply a little pure olive oil.

Beware of the common practice of dipping the comb in water when arranging the hair. It promotes decomposition and rancidity of the natural oil, and so leads to "rotting."

If the hair be naturally dry, apply a little olive oil occasionally. If naturally oily, occasionally wash away the excess of sebaceous secretion by means of a lather or tepid water and soap bark (Quitlaya saponaria).

Salt water is most injurious to the hair, for which reason when sea bathing wear an oil cap.

Always treat the scalp as if you loved it. Take to heart Dr. Godfrey's dictum that "every touch affecting so delicate a texture as the scalp should be soft and soothing, every application bland and mild." Don't use stiff bristled or wire brushes, and in all cases brush gently. Also, always brush out the hair before attempting to comb it, and use the comb as little as possible.

Have the ends of the hair clipped once a month, if only to prevent them from splitting. But don't close crop.—Philadelphia Times.

SHE OUTTALKED DUMAS.

How a Clever Irish Girl Got Ahead of the Academician.

Dumas fils had curt manners. He was shy. Like most shy people, he vanquished this defect by going into the other extreme. He softened as he grew old and took a relative polish at the meetings of the academy. The tongue was always shrewd; it could be cruel. The code of social amenities was at the time I speak of a sealed book to him. I recollect a tilt between him and an Irish girl, brought up in Paris, who sat opposite to him at dinner. She was singularly plain. But her ugliness was most amusing, and she was a witty, good tempered being. The nose was short, funny, retrousse, the mouth wide and laughing and the tongue lisping, but, as the French say, bien pendue for repartee.

Dumas, after staring some time at her, put his forefinger to the tip of his semiaquiline nose and pushed it up. He kept it so for some time, still staring. The pantomime was grossly impertinent. I thought—and so did every one else—that the poor girl would burst into tears. She laughed, not a bit hysterically, and, feeling she was an object of general attention and of sympathy, made a funny remark on the grimace that M. Dumas was pleased to give himself. He began to rally her. She flung back retorts. I never heard such a mimic war of words before or since. It ended in a splendid victory, through good humor and wit, on the young lady's side. She spoke French to perfection. "M. Alphonse" was then on the stage. Mr. Ernest Pinard, who listened with rapture, cried, "Mademoiselle enfonce votre Alphonsine!" Alphonsine was the comic actress in that play.

Dumas retired from the combat nettled, but he did not long bear malice. He afterward said what a pity it was that la jenne Irlandaise etait dans le monde. She had the vis comica in a greater degree than any actress or actor he had ever seen, and proved that where l'ame est bien faite there cannot be ugliness.—Paris Letter in London Truth.

Schiaparelli.

Schiaparelli, the astronomer who first discovered the so called "canals" of Mars, did so with a much smaller telescope than those in use in many other observatories at that time. And yet he is a very nearsighted man. Garrett P. Serviss of Brooklyn, in speaking of his first interview with the eminent Italian, said that Schiaparelli would hold a visitor's card within five or six inches of his eyes in order to decipher it. The singular part of this story is not that a man with such an infirmity should be able to outdo other astronomers, for keenness of vision depends rather upon the retina than the convexity of the lenses of the eye, and the eyepiece of a telescope can be focussed so as to suit the latter. But it does seem a little odd that the gifted scientist in question should habitually refrain from wearing eyeglasses. Possibly he has a theory as to the effect of their use upon his visual powers.

The Way to Eat Candy.

I think much of the outcry against candy is the result of wrong methods of use. It can often be safely taken at meal time with good results. Scientists say that the food value of sugar is very great. A pound of sugar contains much more energy and power to support animal life than a pound of meat. If candy is taken under such conditions that it will not derange the digestive apparatus, it is perfectly wise and rational to be a candy eater.—Annals of Hygiene.

"Is D'Auber a good painter?"
"Yes; good as gold."
"Do his paintings sell?"
"Yes—those who buy them."—Detroit Free Press.

George Eliot's portrait represents her as having a remarkably unprepossessing face, with heavy nose and chin and thick, badly shaped lips. She would be pronounced positively ugly.

In 1880 the amount of capital invested in cotton factories was $208,000,000; ten years later it had risen to $354,000,000.

Indigestion is often taken for consumption. The word consumption means wasting away, and dyspeptics often waste away as badly as consumptives.

The reason people waste away is because either they don't get enough to eat, or they don't digest what they do eat.

If the latter is your trouble, take Shaker Digestive Cordial. This will help you to digest your food and stop your loss of flesh.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is made from herbs, barks and juice of fruit, by the well-known Shakers at Mount Lebanon. It possesses great tonic and digestive powers.

Shaker Digestive Cordial has cured many supposed consumptives (who were really dyspeptics), by simply helping their stomachs to digest their food, thus giving them nourishment and new strength.

YOU.

The chief want in life is somebody who shall make us do the best we can.—Emerson.

A flash! You came into my life,
And, lo, adown the years,
Rainbows of promise stretched across
The sky grown gray with tears;
By day you were my sun of gold,
By night, my silver moon,
I could not from the Father's hands
Have asked a greater boon.

Life's turbid stream grew calm and clear,
The cold winds sank to rest,
Hand clasped with you, no bitter pain
Found dwelling in my breast;
I did not dread life's care and toil,
Your love dispelled all gloom,
And now on graves of buried hopes
The sweetest violets bloom.

My every breath and every thought
Were pure because of you,
I had not dreamed that heaven could be
So close to mortal view;
My hands and feet were swift to do
The good that near them lay,
And in my heart throughout the year
The joy bird sang each day.

A flash! You passed out of my life—
No, no! Your spirit still
Is sun and moon and guiding star
Through every cloud and ill;
As down the rainbowed years I go
You still are at my side,
And some day I shall stand with you
Among the glorified.
—Clarence Urmey in Youth's Companion.

ENFORCEMENT OF THE LAW.

General Harrison Advocates Town Meetings Once or Twice a Year.

Ex-President Harrison, in a series of articles on "This Country of Ours" in The Ladies' Home Journal, writes vigorously of the great necessity of the people insisting upon the strict enforcement of the laws. Directly upon this point he says: "We need general assemblies of the people in the smaller civil subdivisions, to be held regularly once or twice a year, town meetings in which two questions only shall be considered: First, are the public officers faithfully and honestly transacting the public business? Second, are the laws—not this law nor that, but all laws—enforced and obeyed? All questions of law reform should be excluded, left to parties or societies organized to promote them. The enforcement of the law, whether we opposed or aided the making of it; the strict accountability of public officers, whether we opposed or aided their election, should be the objects and the limits of these meetings. There should be no distinction of persons.

"Our law and order movements are too apt to be confined to what we, not too accurately, call influential people. Every man and woman ought to have a chance to choose his side, without regard to station or wealth or race or color. There will be none too many. In some such movements it has seemed to me that many have been assigned to the wrong side who would have chosen the right. There is danger that such may accept the place they would not have chosen. Can any working plan be devised to maintain from day to day an effective watchful interest among the body of our citizens in the enforcement of the laws, and in a clean, honest administration of public affairs—small and great? Or are we to accept the humiliating conclusion that bad things cannot be made good, or even better, until they come to be persistently and utterly bad; or still worse, that when the river of popular indignation has cleaned the stable it is only to leave us without a supply of water for daily sanitation?"

ANECDOTES OF SPURGEON.

How the Great English Preacher Came to Be a Smoker.

Some years ago I was at a hotel in Paris, and to my great delight found Mr. Spurgeon one wet afternoon in the smoking room. He was attending a religious conference and was accompanied by a kind of bodyguard of elders and deacons, one or two of whom constantly watched him. Fortunately for me, none of them smoked, and when they mounted their usual watch he literally choked them off in a few minutes. I was therefore his sole audience on two or three occasions. I have known most of the good conversationists and raconteurs of my time; but, except perhaps Robert Louis Stevenson, he was by far the best. I understand that a biography of Mr. Spurgeon has lately appeared, but I have not seen it and doubt if the author has preserved the following anecdote, which I venture to write down, as nearly as I can remember, in his own words:

"You wouldn't guess what calling I wanted to follow. I wanted to be a whipper in of hounds. Yes, there was never a meet near where I was brought up without my attending, and many a long run I had, often across plowed fields, and many a time I was alone at the death. I could not do it now"—and then he looked at his ample waistcoat and laughed. I never heard a more pleasant laugh nor one more sympathetic and infectious. He continued:

"You wouldn't guess how I came to be a smoker. When I was 16, I went to my father and told him there was a vacancy, and that I should like to go in for it. 'A vacancy for what?' he asked. 'For a whipper in to the hounds, and I should be sure to get it.' He answered, very solemnly, 'Charles, my son, you should be a whipper in of souls,' and he sent me down into the Fen country to preach in the villages. When I came home, I developed a violent cold, with a good deal of fever and some twinges of rheumatism. I told my father all my experiences—how I had been received, how they had crowded in—but there was one thing in particular that I dwelt on.

"I had observed in every cottage that the old people sat in the chimney corners and that the table before me was ornamented with two long pipes, crossed, between two jars of tobacco and two hymnbooks. At one of these meetings, just as I was about to speak, an old man took up and filled a pipe, and then drawing a hot cinder from the fire proceeded to offer it to me. I gave him a look intended to wither him up, for I allowed no levity"—here another laugh.

"'I see,' said my father, 'how you have acquired that heavy cold.' When I was better, I started on another tour, but before I left home my father said in his most impressive tones, 'Charles, my son, if they fill and light a pipe for you, smoke it. If they don't, fill and light for yourself. And, in any case, don't keep them from their tobacco. In that climate and at this time of year smoking is your best protection against feverish colds.'"—London Realm.

A HARROWING EXPERIENCE.

Story of an Execution by Electricity Related on an Elevated Train.

They got on a crowded Sixth avenue elevated train at Fourteenth street, and every one looked at them because they were both young and both pretty. They talked together in audible tones, with all the enthusiasm of youth, and the other passengers listened to it all with great interest.

Suddenly one of them, the smaller one, turned to her companion and with a look of horror on her face asked:

"Oh, Win, did you ever see any one killed by electricity?"

"Gracious, no!" exclaimed the other. "I should hope not."

"I did," laconically rejoined the other.

"Why, Florence, what do you mean?" demanded her companion.

"Oh, it was terrible," replied Florence in all seriousness. "I never want to see anything like it again."

"How utterly ridiculous!" remarked her friend. "Whom did you ever see killed by electricity?"

"Why," replied Florence, an aggrieved expression coming over her face, "it was the other afternoon up in Harlem. I saw a cat run over by an electric car."

The other passengers tried not to smile, but it was too funny, considering that the girl meant every word she said. Neither girl noticed the amusement of the other passengers, however, and Florence doesn't know yet of the amusement the passengers got out of her harrowing experience.—New York Sun.

TRY a can of Hopkins' Steamed Hominy (Hulled Corn). It is delicious. Full quart, 10c.

A good, healthy wholesomeness will make even a homely face attractive.

There are many reasons why women should take care to be healthy. One very strong reason is that beauty and illness are very seldom found together. Illness—and especially the kind peculiar to women—makes the complexion bad, the eyes dull and sunken, the manner listless and the intellect dull.

No woman in this condition can be attractive to her friends. Personal appearance counts for much, but comfort amounts to even more. What's the good of living if one cannot enjoy anything? If headaches and backaches and dragging weariness and pain accompany even slight fatigue?

If the system is constantly subjected to a debilitating drain, where is the energy to come from to make enjoyment possible?

Personal comfort and a consideration for the feelings of others are two of the incentives to an effort to secure health.

If the illness is in any way connected with the purely feminine organism (and the chances are ten to one that it is) Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure it.

Dr. Pierce has used the "Prescription" in his practice for thirty years with unbroken success. A large book (1000 pages and 300 illustrations) written by him entitled "The People's Medical Adviser" will be sent ABSOLUTELY FREE on receipt of 21 cents in one-cent stamps to pay postage and wrapping only.
