CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

...CKPOCKETS.

...Have Nerves of Steel to Be Successful Operators.

...ce a man is a pickpocket it does not necessarily follow that he is not well educated nor a close observer of his fellow mortals. The latter trait might be said to be an absolute requirement to a successful purloiner of pocketbooks. One of the gentry who possessed both characteristics expressed himself the other day to an Enquirer reporter at police headquarters:

"There is no class of artists who in their calling are as dexterous as pickpockets. This is due to a double incentive. Not only do we find a bait for effort and exertion in success, but have the added spur of a fear of failure. Success means as much to a pickpocket as to any man, and failure means a great deal more.

"A vocation in which the slightest slip means a loss of liberty and perhaps of life will ever be apt to have a degree of expertness in its followers not present in more reputable and safer avenues of trade.

"Pickpockets, like poets and other people, are born, not made. Their nerves must be iron and yet as sensitive as instinct. Their hands must be as complete in make up and accomplishment as Herrmann's, the magician, and strong as steel, while light as down. Out of the vast army of humanity who are soldiers of the shadows only one-fourth of 1 per cent can or do become pickpockets.

"These form the nobility of thieves and are reverenced by the burglar as of a higher class than they. The practice of a pickpocket while not really at work is as constant as that of some famed professor of the violin or harp. He keeps pace with the profession. No sooner does some jeweler invent a new fastening for diamond pins or studs than these men of finest touch devise the motion which evades its purpose.

"The chief object of a picpkocket, after certainty, is speed. He cannot dally with his victim by the hour. What he does is to be over in a flash. Speaking of pins and studs, there has never been a fastening so complex but the expert thieves could defeat it in a motion. They do in their business as fine work as any Hindoo, and the thief himself could not analyze or explain its detail. His powers of execution have gone far beyond his powers of reception or relation.

"A pickpocket consults his own nervous condition constantly. No fine lady ever has such a time with her nerves as this aristocrat of the outlaws. If he does not feel right, he won't 'work.'" —Cincinnati Enquirer.

SAND AS AN UNDERSTUDY.

It Caused the Wrath of a Tragedian Doomed to Hang.

Jack Moynihan, known chiefly to fame from the fact that he managed a play called "The Scarecrow," which was written by a Chicago newspaper man, and which ran one consecutive night in St. Louis, tells of the only actor he ever knew as being legally executed.

On the day before the execution the condemned man called the sheriff to his cell.

"Are we going to have a good house?" he inquired of the official.

"Fairly good, I guess," was the reassuring answer.

"Have you papered the town pretty well?"

"Two hundred tickets to the sad event have been issued."

"Worked up any fake about confession and previous crimes to rouse interest and give free advertising?"

"I think the newspaper men have been pretty vigilant."

"Do you think you care to rehearse the thing so as to get your lines?"

"I don't believe it will be necessary. Everything has been designed pretty well. We tested the gallows and rope with a 400 pound sack of sand just an hour ago."

"Sand? Sand? The thunder you say! Do you mean to tell me, a man who has gone on with Forrest and Kean, that you are using an infernal dumpy sack of sand for my understudy, and that you depend on your rehearsal with it to see you through? Here you've gone and got a packed house just on the strength of my star part, and yet you insult the dignity of the profession by running on a sack of sand to rehearse the leads with. Well, I'll warn you of one thing—if your rehearsal fails of effect, and you find you've forgotten your lines, you needn't expect me to invent a lot of business at the trying time and to make a gag talk just to fill in a stage wait. I'm a game sport, but my dignity has been stopped on by you and your sack of sand."—Chicago Record.

A DAY IN BED.

An Experiment That Few Healthy People Have Time or Disposition to Try.

One often hears somebody say with glee that he is going to take a day off or a day in the country or a day on the river, but seldom if ever that he is going to take a day in bed, and yet a day so spent when one really needs a day off is one which deserves a red letter record in his history, according to a writer in the Pittsburg Times. One lies late of Sunday mornings and tells what a luxury it is not to have to get up at the usual hour, but one never knows the glory of such a thing till he spends a whole day in bed. To enjoy it one must not be sick nor pretend to be. He must be in fairly good health and free from trouble or worry of any sort. Then he is entirely himself, and it is the only place in which he can be.

As soon as he dresses he comes under restraint, not merely physical, but mental, for no one can wholly escape the influence of his clothes, whether they be good or bad, in fashion or out. For ages character has been identified with clothes and will be for ages, in spite of all that has been or will be said against it. One may not always be conscious of the influence, but it exists all the same. Not a trace of it is felt when one is in bed. There he is free. He can twist and roll and kick and throw his arms about as he will. If he should do the like elsewhere, there would be suspicion of his sanity. A day in bed is not a day of rest merely, but of liberty. He has the infinite for his own.

Not a few of Pope's best lines came to him while in bed. Thomson composed his finest description of natural scenery while in bed. A like thing doubtless may be said of the humorists. There is little doubt that the liveliest jokes current were thought out while their authors were in bed. The blood flows freely then, digestion does its perfect work, the mind is relieved of the care of the body, the imagination and fancy roam the earth and skies and gather of their treasures, the inscriptions on the tablets of memory come out, and incident and adventure recur in a light of their own, suggesting new ideas and relations. One never knows what life is till he has spent a day in bed, in full or fair health, without a thought save those which come smiling to him in his rest.

Food, undigested, is poison. Digested, it is life and strength. Millions of us suffer from indigestion, but we often don't know it. We think it is something else. Even doctors often mistake the symptoms.

Pale, thin people, who are overworked, who need strength, who seem in want of proper food, should take Shaker Digestive Cordial. It is astonishing what food WILL do, when properly digested.

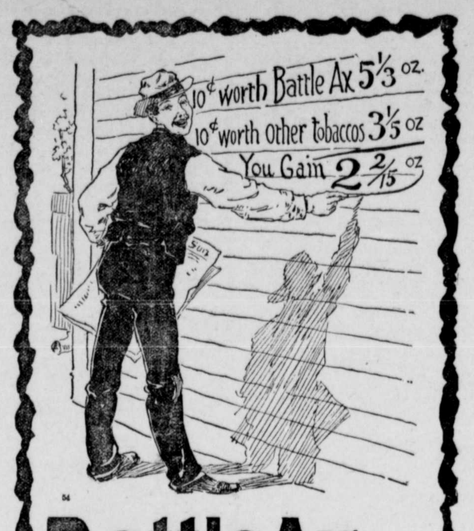

It will make you strong, revive you, refresh you, sustain you, make you fat, restore your color, make muscle, brain fibre, courage, endurance, energy; increase your power to throw off disease and keep you healthy and happy.

Indigestion does just the opposite, but indigestion can be cured and prevented with Shaker Digestive Cordial.

ANGELS' EYES.

Beside my window kneeling,
I watch the stars appear.
A silver mist is stealing
Over the meadows sear.
'Tis said that the stars which at eventide
Sparkle and smile and peep
Are the eyes of the dear little children
Who are sleeping their endless sleep.

If this be true, oh, tell me, pray,
Which of those stars so bright
Are the eyes of the little laddie brave
Whom the angels called one night—
Leaving a vacant little chair,
An empty little bed,
And a mother who seeks 'mong the stars each night
The eyes of Bonny Ted?

CRUDE INTOXICANTS.

THE MANUFACTURE OF STIMULANTS BY ABORIGINES.

Fermented and Distilled Liquors With Which the Uncivilized Natives of Different Parts of the World Produce "Drunk." Learning From the White Man.

It is a remarkable fact that up to the time of the coming of the whites the North American Indians generally had no knowledge of intoxicants. As for tobacco, they did not smoke it as we do apparently, but merely for ceremonial purposes. Going southward into Mexico in those days, however, the traveler might have found alcoholic stimulants in common use. Even at the present time the natives in that part of the world make an odd sort of beer out of corn. They wet a woolen blanket, lay it in the sun and spread whole grains of maize upon it. The grains germinate, sprouting and sending out rootlets through the texture of the blanket, which is kept moist. They are then parched and ground to a coarse meal. To this meal a little yeast, made by chewing some corn and allowing it to ferment, is added. Then the stuff is mixed with water and put away in jars. Fermentation follows, and as it diminishes the liquor becomes as clear as yellow amber, in which condition it is drunk. It is quite intoxicating.

Several varieties of grasses, herbs and flowers, the roots of sundry plants, the juices of the sugar cane and aloe, and even beets, are used by various tribes and peoples as a basis of drinks. In earlier times spruce trees, fir trees, birch trees and ash trees were tapped for their sap, which was fermented to make stimulating beverages. The willow, poplar, sycamore and walnut are said to yield palatable drinks. The Japanese obtain intoxicating beverages from plums and from the flowers of the motherwort and peach. The Chinese actually produce an alcoholic drink from mutton. The Abnaki Indians of New England used to manufacture a kind of liquor from the tops of fir trees, which they boiled and put into casks with molasses. The contents of the casks were allowed to ferment for three days.

The Eskimos were entirely unacquainted with the art of getting drunk until they came into contact with the whites. Travelers have observed that they drink extraordinary quantities of water when they can procure it. That is not always so easy in a latitude where the normal condition of water is that of a solid. In winter one of the most important occupations of the women is the thawing of snow to get water. The snow is cut into very thin slices as a preparation for the thawing process, and it is fetched to the hut from a considerable distance in order that it may be perfectly clean. The Eskimo greatly dislikes water that is many degrees above the freezing point.

The Chilcat Indians of southern Alaska distill a fearful beverage called "hootchenoo." The process adopted was probably suggested to them by United States soldiers originally. Molasses or vegetables of any sort, made into a "mash," are employed as raw material. The mash is put into a large tin can, which is connected with another tin can by a tube of the hollow stem of the giant kelp. This tube is buried in snow. A fire is built under the can that contains the mash, and the alcohol passes over into the other vessel. The liquor thus distilled is drunk fresh and produces temporary insanity.

The aborigines of Mexico and farther to the south were acquainted only with fermented intoxicants up to the time when they learned from the whites the principle of the still. At present, however, this contrivance of civilization is in general use among savages on this continent. The Apaches of southern Arizona make whisky from the sap of a small species of cactus. They cut out the hearts of the plants, resembling little cabbages, and in the cup shaped receptacles left behind the sap accumulates. From this sap they distill the famous "mescal," which drives those who drink it to sheer madness. Many spirituous drinks are made from the banana. Banana wine is obtained by pressing the fruit through a sieve, after which it is made into cakes, dried in the sun and dissolved in water when wanted for use.

On the west coast of Africa it is a common thing to see a bare legged woman climbing up a gigantic palm tree, with a calabash of immense size hung round her neck. When she has reached the top branch, she taps the tree, and the sap begins to flow. Then she hangs the calabash beneath the stream of sap and descends. Twelve hours later she climbs the tree again and takes down the calabash, which by that time is full of palm beer. It resembles mead somewhat, but a small quantity of it stupefies the drinker. African natives universally know how to prepare drunk producing liquors from such simple materials as the tops of broom corn, sugar cane juice and cocoanut milk.

All over eastern Asia is consumed a drink known as "arrack." The best of it is distilled from the unexpanded flowers of certain varieties of palm. A vile kind of arrack is made from impure molasses that is left over as refuse in the manufacture of raw sugar. It makes the drinker crazy, and under the influence of it whole parties of Malays sometimes "run amuck" together, the sport only concluding with the death of all participants, as well as the destruction of numbers of innocent people. This is a favorite Malay plan of committing suicide. A man makes up his mind that he wants to die, and so he fills himself up with arrack and starts to run amuck, stabbing every one that comes in his way until he himself is slain.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Pat Laughed Last.

An Irishman on seeing a notice in a haberdasher's window one day which ran, "Everything sold here by the yard," entered and asked the man of the shop if he sold buttermilk.

"Yes," was the answer.

"Then give me a yard," said Pat.

"All right," said the man, and dipping his finger into a dish of milk at his side he drew it a yard in length on the counter.

"Anything else?" he queried triumphantly of Pat.

"No," said Pat. "Just rowl it up in a piece of paper, and I'll take it with me."—Limerick News.

Foul breath is a discourager of affection. There are more reasons than one for this. Foul breath is always an indication of poor health—bad digestion. To bad digestion is traceable almost all human ills. It is the starting point of many very serious maladies. Upon the healthy action of the digestive organs, the blood depends for its richness and purity. If digestion stops, poisonous matter accumulates and is forced into the blood—there is no place else for it to go. Before this, the fermented, putrid matter has indicated its presence by making the breath foul, the complexion sallow and muddy, the eyes dull and the head heavy. By and by, the germ infected poisonous matter in the blood causes weakness or inflammation in some part of the body. Then comes rheumatism, scrofula, consumption, liver complaint, kidney trouble and a half a hundred other ills.

The bad breath is a danger signal. Look out for it! If you have it, or any other symptom of indigestion, take a bottle or two of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will straighten out the trouble, make your blood pure and healthy and full of nutriment for the tissues. It is a strong statement, but a true one that the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption if it is taken in the early stages. It will relieve even the most obstinate cases of long standing.

Send twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps to cover postage and wrapping only and you will receive from the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., a large book of 1000 pages profusely illustrated, telling all about the "Golden Medical Discovery" and containing portraits, testimonials and addresses of hundreds of those cured by it. It is a complete Family Doctor Book.
