DIRECT TAX CLAIM.

Among the arrivals by Steamer Sue, on Monday last, were Messrs. J. Walter Carpenter and Col. S. J. Wailes. They came to attend the meeting of the Board of trustees of St. Mary's Female Seminary of which they are members, which meeting was held at Moore's Hotel, this village, on Tuesday last.

As Col. Wailes has lately made a claim on the comptroller of the State for $111,285,94 we thought, he being a citizen of this county, that our people would be interested in the publication of an interview with him, so we called on and indicated to him our desire.

He said that he appreciated our kindness in offering our columns for a statement of his claims, but he must respectfully decline to say anything on the subject for the reason that proceedings had been instituted in the Circuit Court of Annapolis to establish and recover the claim and that he thought it would not be respectful to the Court to give out anything pertaining to the case—that he, like all other good citizens, had great respect for the Courts and that he was willing to rest his claim upon their decision.

As Mr. Joseph H. Key, of our county, was a member of the Legislature of 1878, we called on him and asked why the Act of '72 was repealed and re-enacted with the Act of 1878, and he said that he considered, at the time, the Act of the Legislature of 1878, for which he voted, not only as a contract by the state with its attorney, Col. Wailes but as an appropriation by the Legislature cut of the state treasury of 30 per cent. on what might be refunded by the Federal Government to the state to be paid by the state to Col. Wailes on the contingency of success, partial or entire,—that these claims againt the Government, among which was the direct tax, were regarded as "desperate"—and the fact, that it was regarded by the members of the Legislature of 1878 as improbable that one cent of the state's claim of $371,299.80, would ever be paid, it made the members thereof, exceedingly liberal in their efforts to secure some action on the part of Congress by which the state should be reimbursed for money advanced to the General Government; that he regarded the claim of Col. Wiles as just and proper and that he thought he should be paid; that it was a contract entered into by the state of Maryland with Col. Wailes and that no Act of Congress should or could be a bar to the fulfillment by the state of her obligations. He also stated that the Act of 1878 was championed by the Hon. Montgomery Blair and the bill almost unanimously passed.

Hon. R. C. Combs, who was also in the Legislature of 1878, was interviewed and, though his recollection of the Act does not appear to be so good as Mr. Key's, we were induced to believe from an interrupted interview, that he substantially accords with Mr. Key.

The following are the sections of the Act allowing this commission:

SEC. 2. That Sydney I. Wailes, of Wicomico county, the serviving commissioner of the State of Maryland under said act, be and he is hereby authorized to prosecute the settlement of all claims of the State against the Government of the United States, and he is hereby allowed a commission of 30 per cent upon any sum that shall be recovered by him and paid by the Government of the United States into the treasury of Maryland, as full compensation for his services and expenses in the prosecution of said claims of the State against the United States, it being the intent and meaning of this General assembly that the said commissioner shall not claim or receive from said State any other or further compensation for his services rendered or to be rendered, and expenses incurred in the prosecution of said claims, except the commission contingent upon his success, and hereinbefore allowed him, on such amount as may be recovered by him as aforesaid and paid into the treasury of said State.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the Comptroller of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized and directed to issue his warrant to the said S. I. Wailes a commission of thirty per cent. on such sum as shall be recovered by him and paid by the Government of the United States into the treasury of the said State upon said claims, and that the said commission shall be payable upon the several amounts received on said claims as they are paid into the treasury,

All claims must mean any amount due by the government, legal or from a sense of justice, for in the Act of Congress the word, reimburse the state and territories, occurs and while this Act of Congress seeks to prevent the State from the payment of commission to any agent or attorney it is a well settled principle of law, as well as morals, that the General Government should not, if it could, and could not, if it would, pass any act compelling the state to disregard its contracts with its citizens. This idea, if we apprehend aright, originates in the pension idea, that the direct tax was levied upon individuals, but in the case of our state, the direct tax was paid to the United States Government direct from the Treasury of Maryland. It would be bad faith and a reflection upon the fair fame of our state to repudiate its contracts, however ill-advised.

[COMMUNICATED.

ST. INIGOES', MARCH 21ST, 1892.

Messrs. Editors.

Dear Sirs:—I see in the last issue of your paper, that some one over the nom de plume of "3rd District Republicans," has undertaken the job, (as was naturally expected) of discouraging the colored convention which has been suggested by the colored Republican Association of the 1st district. This individual of numerous qualities, is no other perhaps, than one white Republican of the 3rd district, and being very high in his own estimation, he assumes to speak for his entire district; or perhaps he is one of the newly made converts about whom he speaks, and as such very naturally fears the deliberations of the colored convention may awaken the Republican party from its present slumbers, in which it was soothed by the very narcotic speeches of Republican orators during the last campaign. Or he may possess further misgivings that the colored convention may decide to call into active service some of the old tried and true Republicans who espoused our party's cause, when no office was attainable, but abuse, social ostracism, and even one's life was in jeopardy when he took a bold stand for the Republican party. It was no fat office that allured the men who built up the Republican party. It may be, I say that some of the survivors of the original white Republicans may be invited to lend us their advice and assistance in unifying the party under the present organization, if you please, for we are not ignorant of the fact that the party is already organized for the next two years. It was not suggested by the 1st District Association to reorganize, as has been asserted by the correspondent, nor did they suggest any procedure that savored of any disloyalty to the Republican party, or did they suggest the drawing of the color line which seems to give the gentleman such unrest. The charge that the colored convention proposed to draw a color line is in very bad taste, when it is remembered that the colored Republicans of St. Mary's have voted solidly for white Republicans since the advent of colored suffrage; and the very first time a colored man was named in a Republican convention, there was but two white delegates who supported the colored man. The colored people have no desire to draw the color line, nor do we desire social equality, or mixed schools, and the like, but we do demand our legal rights, and a part of our legal privilege is to meet in convention without being directly under the control of the white people.

Again, the 3rd district correspondent says that the gentlemen who have suggested the colored convention are principally responsible for the Democratic success at the last election. We had never before thought that we were such an important factor in St. Mary's county politics. And notwithstanding the importance given us by this correspondent, we can scarcely believe that the 77 blank votes that were cast in the 1st district at the last election if they had been counted for the Republican ticket would have elected the same. But in turn permit me to say that it is my opinion, the chief cause of Democratic success, was the failure of the Republican candidates to defend the Republican principles that were assailed so unmercifully by the Democratic speakers. Our candidates chose rather than risk their chances of getting elected by disaffected Democratic votes, to allow the colored race to remain branded as "illiterate and prejudiced negroes, and the lowest elements of our political and social life." Our candidates chose rather than incur the displeasure of the Democratic party (from whose ranks they expected to draw so heavily) to let the infamous "Ford Letter" go unchallenged or rebuked—thus leaving us to our fate. But the white Republicans need not fear us. We are loyal Republicans, and we have more to lose by Republican defeat than have the white members of our party. There may be some reason for a white man to vote the Democratic ticket, but certainly there can be no inducement for a colored man to do so. This is not the first time the white Republicans of St. Mary's prophesied ruin to the Republican party by reason of this bug bear—the color line. In 1882, when the colored Republicans met at Leonardtown and adopted a resolution demanding a representation on the jury and as attachees of the court, the same cry went up. But the party still lives, and if it is not stifled to-death by half hearted white Republicans, it will survive many colored Republican conventions.

A COLORED REPUBLICAN.

[COMMUNICATED.

Messrs. Editors:—I notice in last issue of the ENTERPRISE that the colored Republicans of our county expect to meet in convention on Tuesday next, the 29th instant, to formulate some plan for reorganization of the Republican party of this county.

At first it struck me that the suggestion was untimely and ill-advised but maturer deliberation has convinced me of its importance and justice under the circumstances and I, therefore, trust that such a convention will be held and such steps be taken as will insure greater harmony in our ranks and give us a greater chance of winning in the future.

It cannot be denied that the bulk of the Republican party in St. Mary's is colored people and that the defeat of the Republican party bodes them the most ill,—in short, they are always the greater sufferers in consequence of Democratic ascendency; therefore, it is meto and proper for the colored voters to take the initiative in such matters and God speed them in their undertaking.

The indirect endorsement given Hon. John N. Graves in the resolution was and is merited by that gentleman, but the committee failed or omitted to accord to Mr Enoch B. Abell any credit for his faithful and impartial services in the capacity of chairman of our County Central Committee, having voluntarily abandoned the same, leaving neither regrets nor the ill will of "any member of the Republican family," behind.

In the reorganization of our party, would it not be well to keep in mind the fact that the chairmanship should be filled by a conservative, thinking, sound Republican—one who doesn't hold or aspire to office and one who will use the offices of the position in the furtherance of the entire party and not for personal advancement. Ex-Judge Daniel J. Payne has been suggested as a gentleman thoroughly capable and one who would likely fill the position in such manner as to reunite the discordant elements of our party, a consummation, "devoutly to be wished."

It should be remembered that the foundations of our government and its good and advancement, depend on concession and compromise, and all reorganizations, if for good, should be tempered with these two elements at least, in order that the greatest good [illegible] should be achieved.

Respectfully and frank[illegible]

OLD LINE REPUBLICAN.

MARRIED.

DIED.

Mr. JNON E. CARPENTER, died at his residence, in Chaptico district, on the 20th instant, in the 68 year of his age. He was a good, neighborly, kind man and was greatly esteemed by all who knew him.

On the death of a friend.
(Miss Fannie O'Brien, of New York.)

A light in the west burns dimly,
Trailing the air with its beams,
Reaching a heart in earth's every part
And sending it golden dreams
Of holy love.

A light in the east burns warmly,
And soothed is the suffering soul
That has been led in from this world of sin
To a better, a purer goal
The life above.

A star in high heaven shines brightly
At the Saviour's sacred feet,
And gazes adown from its refuse found
The sorrowing ones to greet.

Leading the way to eternal day
When the family group may meet
And rest, where they never more shall part
Folded close in the arms of the Sacred Heart.
