

Before starting on a "run" a refreshing wash with Ivory Soap gives new energy. It lathers quickly in any kind of water and does not cost more than common soap. The luxury of being clean is not realized without using Ivory Soap. You need not fear alkali, or other injurious ingredients found in many soaps. Ivory Soap is nothing but pure materials, combined to make a soap that will clean and rinse quickly, thoroughly, satisfactorily.

IT FLOATS.

JUNE DEMORET'S

The leading article of the June Demorest's about "Puff-Balls" is a remarkably interesting account of the not generally known characteristics of this very common fungus. That it has medicinal qualities, and that it serves occasionally as an excellent breakfast for the camper who has strayed away from the commissary department, are among the many interesting facts set forth. An excellent collection of photographs of the various puff-balls at home are given. This is but one of several collections of pictures in this number which are of rare interest.

The illustrations for "In the Land of the Leatherstocking Tales," give an extended glimpse of that beautiful country made famous by Fenimore Cooper's thrilling stories.

Both pathetic and humorous is the page of pen-and-ink sketches by the late Michael Angelo Woolf. There is also a sympathetically told biography of this "Noted Artist and Picturesque Man" by Kate Jordan, who had the good fortune to number Mr. Woolf among her friends.

An important feature to women, which appears for the first time in this number of Demorest's, is the "Paris Fashion Supplement," a full-page costume designed in Paris especially for Demorest's Magazine.

SUMMER PILLOWS.

EVERYDAY AFFAIRS FOR HALL, HAMMOCK, PIAZZA, YACHT, ETC.

Linen, Duck, Cretonne and Denim Are Popular Materials—Dainty Colors in Linen—Useful Cretonne, Plaid and Star Designs.

In every out of town house, however, simply furnished, there is always a spot in which there are pillows, cushions, daily used, either on piazzas, couches in halls or with hammocks hung in the open air.

Summer pillows should not be made either of silks or satins unless in india or pongee, linens, duck, cretonne and denim really being the fabrics employed for summer wear. In pillows used by fashionables the applique cushion seems to take the lead—a combination of different materials well worked either in complementary tones or in tints of corresponding hues.

Blue denim is exceedingly attractive, a dark and light happily combined, the tint of pale blue appliqued on, and then worked in different shades of this color with rope floss, in long and short stitches. As a finish there is a deep ruffle four inches wide and edged with two toned blue ribbon. The back of this pretty affair is simply made of plain denim unadorned.

In grotesque designs the poster pillow has found unusual favor, from the fact that novelties of this kind captivate the fancy, however perishable they may be as to wear. For these devices, every tone of color can be considered, the center decoration being the main scheme. In linens of good tone, like that of a tan, the yellow poster in shape of an Egyptian figure is generally a scheme that is available and in which different silks of embroidery make can be employed. To finish these in good shape artistic methods should be studied and tones and colors given that do not conflict. Around all your edges a heavy cord or deep ruffle is one that makes a finish. These pillows look well in any colors, so that a harmony is preserved.

Perhaps in plainer treatments linen in every well known shade holds a never tiring charm. Light green is peculiarly the favorite. It has a tender and inviting look, and if well outlined or worked in a good strong floral ornamentation the plan is sure to be decorative and pleasing. For good tones poppies and chrysanthemums are excellent. Bold and decided patterns of flower effects present, when completed, all the necessary elements of good cushion making. Of course for every day pillows the darker linens are advisable, but when a more delicate showing is needed then the pure white should be utilized and carefully embroidered in conventional forms in which flowers particularly take the lead. With white linens a finish can be given of lace—a ruffle of deep Hamburg or a plain linen slightly gathered in form of a ruffle, the edge prettily scalloped and in each scallop a tiny blossom.

For the hammock nothing is better than a good substantial cretonne, a flowery affair in which there are brightness and tone and in material which will not fade, show dirt or soil. Cretonne pillows for this purpose are better when plainly made—without ornamentation of any kind—of medium tints, yet with an all over design in which an effective plan stands out and looks well.

Plaid designs still hold their own in all the various hues, star effects being more popular as a whole. For a couch or lounge in a sitting room some 10 or 12 pillows can be utilized in one scheme of furnishing, either in tones of different yellows or in mixtures of blues in which all the delicacy of this color can be treated, says The Decorator, the source of the foregoing.

The New Parasols.

Lace, chiffon and silk parasols, adorned with ribbon, gathered and flounced and trimmed with lace of every color of the rainbow are the fashion of the hour. They are generally lined, but not always, and occasionally these linings are as elaborate as the outside. The coaching parasol is almost indigenous to this country. It is jointed, and is now as elaborate as can be, but is always unlined and seldom trimmed. Some of the newest have elaborate scalloped edges, with rows of gathered ribbon. Some are black, some dove gray and some in automobile red. This year's parasols are much the same size as those worn last, but are rather more done shaped.

Melancholy Thought.

When a man really gives his thoughts up chiefly to eatables and drinkables, he generally ceases to think of anything else after awhile. It is related in an old book on French cookery that Fontenelle, a French author of the early part of the eighteenth century belonging to the school of the precieuses, or literary exquisites, was found one beautiful morning lying at ease on the slope of a hill.

In the valley was a large flock of sheep. They skipped about daintily, waiting for their guardian to take them home. A friend of Fontenelle surprised him gazing meditatively upon these sheep.

"Aha!" said the friend. "The amiable philosopher ponders without doubt upon the vicissitudes of life."

"Y-yes," said Fontenelle. "I had been carefully looking over this flock, and I said to myself, 'It is possible that among these 200 sheep there is not one tender leg of mutton!'"

The Benefits of Peace.

The people of this country, as I say, are in favor of the czar's proposal. They have a particular reason for wishing well to the great peace conference which is about to take place. They desire universal peace, not simply as Americans, but as sons and daughters of God. Our Christian people join in this movement to place themselves under the banner of the Prince of Peace on earth.—Dr. Edward Everett Hale, Congregationalist, Boston.

Bicycle Admonition.

"Bredren," said the bicycle parson, "guide younah spiritual bikes in dis yere wo'ld so dat you all won't scorch in de nex'."—Baltimore American.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

God's word, in course of time, has come to mean the voice of enlightened reason.—Rev. George A. Thayer, Unitarian, Cincinnati.

Growing Power of the Bible.

The Bible is still to direct the forces of our civilized life, only it will do this with a thousandfold more power.—Rev. Dr. G. W. Davis, Presbyterian, St. Paul.

Ennobling Influence of Love.

He who loves God and men not only complies with a divine requirement, but ennobles his own character, sanctifies his own life.—Rev. Dr. L. A. Crandall, Baptist, Chicago.

Divine Love.

Where divine love gains admittance to a humble heart, that individual ascends the scale of miracles and meets the warmest wish of men and angels.—Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, Christian Scientist, Boston.

Christ the Cornerstone.

The fact that God dwells in us and is the chief factor in our lives is the cornerstone of our religion, and without the recognition of that fact there is no such thing as religion.—Rev. George H. Hepworth, Congregationalist, New York.

Design of the Bible.

The design of the Bible is to meet man's deep religious necessities, to answer his profound questions and to enable him to live rightly on earth and enjoy the presence of God forever in heaven.—Rev. Dr. R. S. MacArthur, Baptist, New York.

Demand For Faith.

There is a demand in this age for faith, a faith to inspire courage of conviction, that pales not nor faints under any circumstances and that demands loyalty to truth above every other consideration.—Rev. E. Trumbull Lee, Presbyterian, Cincinnati.

Christian Strength.

Christian strength comes not when the sun shines and daily work is like an unbroken song of joy, but when the heavens scowl, and the storm deepens, and there is no music in the air except as we make it ourselves.—Rev. Dr. Northrop, Baptist, Kansas City.

Dawn of the Golden Age.

When religion and art go hand in hand down into the slum to provide the model dwelling and the public park and there minister to the soul's needs with a sane and practical gospel of human and divine love and sympathy, we may hope for the dawning of the golden age.—Rev. Robert Robjent, Congregationalist, Braddock, Pa.

Holiest Secret of Home Happiness.

A true mother is one of the holiest secrets of home happiness. God sends many beautiful things into this world, many noble gifts, but no blessing is richer than that which he bestows in a mother who has learned love's lessons well and has realized something of the meaning of her sacred calling.—Rev. Dr. J. R. Miller, Presbyterian, Philadelphia.

Prayer.

We pray for grace and strength and righteousness and guidance and light, and all the time are resolved to persist in a course of wickedness. The man who is finally lost will be so by his own choice. Any man who lives in sin lives in it because he likes it. Beware of praying for graces that are not wanted.—Rev. Anthony H. Evans, Presbyterian, New York.

Glow of God's Love.

The religious movements of the last century have caused a recasting of theology. While all the magnificent conceptions of the majesty and might and justice and holiness of God are retained, we feel more intensely the glow of his love. There is no bar to God's mercy, except the determination of man not to receive it.—Professor George W. Gilmore, Unitarian, Bangor, Me.

Freedom and Truth.

Freedom is living in accord with the great realities, truth, holiness and love. To move in the realm of truth means intellectual liberty. Truth is not a nebulous vapor, intangible and undefined. It is a sweet certainty. The soul may know it as the violet knows the breath of spring. But for mind there is no forced assent or conformity. Truth must lead. It cannot drive.—Rev. C. W. Williams, Baptist, Denver.

Gethsemane of an Intellectual Life.

The intellectual life, no less than the heart life, has its Gethsemane. No man knows much about the Gethsemane of the heart life whose love is not such as to lay the burden of the world's woe fully upon him. No man knows much about the Gethsemane of the intellectual life whose candor is not such as to lay the responsibility of the truth finder and teacher fully upon him.—Rev. F. B. Cogwill, Methodist, St. Paul.

Mysteries.

The resurrection is a mystery, but it is a fact. Mysteries are realities. They are not mere mist. The world is full of mysteries. Life itself is a mystery. The Son of God is a mystery. But these are glorious facts. The resurrection is a mystery. Much concerning it is unknown, but it is a reality. Now we know in part. Perfect knowledge will be ours only in the future world.—Rev. Dr. E. A. Woods, Baptist, San Francisco.

Divine Nature.

The capacity of man to hold and to reveal the divine nature is constantly increasing. Bibles do not create religion; religion writes Bibles. Many religions have their Bibles—as sacred to them as ours to us. They are all inspired, in a broad sense of the word. They represent the aspirations of man and the divine element in him. They prove his upward tendencies. They show that his nature is essentially religious. Christ demonstrated this divine nature by his life to a greater degree than other men.—Rev. Minot J. Savage, Unitarian, New York.

Famous Laughing Plant of Arabia.

The seeds of the laughing plant of Arabia produce the same effect upon persons as laughing gas. The plant attains a height of from two to four feet, with woody stems, widespreading branches and bright green foliage. Its fruits are produced in clusters and are of a yellow color. The seed pods are soft and woolly in texture and contain two or three black seeds of the size of a Brazilian bean. Their flavor is a little like opium, and their taste is sweet; the odor from them produces a sickening sensation and is slightly offensive. The seeds, when pulverized and taken in small quantities, have a peculiar effect upon man. He begins to laugh loudly, boisterously; then he sings, dances and cuts all manner of fantastic capers. Such extravagance of gait and manners was never produced by any other kind of dosing.—Ladies' Home Journal.

He Was Acquitted.

Here the voice of counsel for the defense thrilled with emotion.

"Gentlemen of the jury," he cried, "you cannot believe the prisoner to be the cool, calculating villain the prosecution would make him out to be! Were he cool and calculating would he have murdered his wife, as he is accused of doing? Would he not rather have spared her in order that she might be here at this trial to weep for him and influence your verdict with her tears?"

Only the thoughtless think lawyers do not assist the ends of justice.—Detroit Journal.

A Card of Thanks.

I wish to say that I feel under lasting obligations for what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has done for our family. We have used it in so many cases of coughs, lung troubles and whooping cough, and it has always given the most perfect satisfaction, we feel greatly indebted to the manufacturers of this remedy and wish them to please accept our hearty thanks.—Respectfully, Mrs. S. Doty, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by M. A. Toulson, druggist.

Tap, tap all day at the machine until the head throbs with every tap. And when the machine stops for the day the throbbing still goes on. More than any other class of women the large army of women clerks needs to closely watch the health of the organs peculiarly womanly. For the general health will be disturbed just in proportion as the local health of the delicate, womanly organs is disordered. With irregularities there will come pains in the head, the back or side, nausea and general misery. The happiness of the future life of the wife and mother may be entirely ruined by neglect of the health at this critical period.

Women confined in offices, shut out from necessary exercise will find a faithful friend in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It so regulates the womanly functions and so strengthens the delicate organs that pain from these causes will be absolutely done away with and future health be perfectly assured.

There is no opium, cocaine or other narcotic in "Favorite Prescription." Neither does it contain alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant.

"I was so weak I did not have breath to walk across my room," writes Miss Isibell Miller, of New Providence, Calloway Co., Ky. "My periods occurred too often and the hemorrhage would be prolonged and the loss of blood very excessive. I also had spells which the doctor said were fainting fits. I could not tell when they were coming on but they left me very weak. My stomach would cramp until I could not straighten. This would last for several hours. I did not gain strength from one monthly period to another; was very weak and nervous all the time. I was advised by a kind friend to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which I did and before I had taken two bottles of it I could work all day. I took in all six bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' and about five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. I used no other medicine. I have never had a return of this trouble since, and never can praise Dr. Pierce's medicines enough, for I know they saved my life."
