Chester Town Oct. 25 1802

Dear Anna

I have not received an answer from Dear Anna to my last letter, but as I am certain any, I will execute your. Since Brother James leaving Town I am more lonesome that ever, and have no prospect to converse with, and no only company to cheer, therefore you may conclude how I spend my time — At night I take a ramble about town like some forlorn and lost creature having no place to go to, when I come home I resume to my cell, for such it may be called that is my room it contains a bed one chair and my trunk, that is the furniture that my room contains — I generally find my bed not made, however I make it up, and there I lay till morning —
