HARPER'S WEEKLY, printed in New York, last week gave a fine picture of Col. John Walter Smith, candidate of the Maryland democracy for Governor.

THE FINE SPEECH of Harrison W. Vickers, Esq., at the unveiling of the Kent Square fountain last week, was printed in a number of appreciative papers in the State.

A COLORED Chestertown orator states that he has been offered seventy-five dollars to stump the county this fall in behalf of the G. O. P. Colored oratory in Kent is evidently at a premium.

THE TALBOT COUNTY prohibitionists agree with the democrats that Senator Dodson, when he accepted a Federal appointment, ceased to be a Senator. The republicans failed to name a candidate for the Senate, contending that Mr. Dodson continues as the representative of his party. Both the democrats and prohibitionists named candidates, and will test the matter.

MARYLAND REPUBLICANS are raising a mighty howl because Col. John Walter Smith will not give them another chance at the congressional nomination. The bitter alligator tears of the pious Felix of Baltimore American fame, are not impressing the general public. Editor Henry, of the Dorchester Standard, is also depressed because of Col. Smith's obstinacy.

WITH THE PLACING of the republican ticket in the field on Monday, the campaign maybe said to have been practically opened. The issue has been joined, and it remains with the people to say who shall administer the local affairs of the county after the November election. The republican ticket has on it the names of some most estimable gentlemen and good citizens, but when measured by the democratic standard, the ticket as a whole is not up to the mark. It is one which, however, only a united and active democracy can defeat. Those democrats, if there are any, who feel a lack of interest in the ticket nominated by their party, should hesitate a long time before assuming the responsibility of inviting the defeat of their own ticket. Several of the republican candidates have already given it out that their only hope of success is democratic disaffection. Members of the democratic party know too well what republican rule means, to want to court a second trial. While the convention of Monday might have named a stronger ticket, it would be the part of unwisdom to underestimate the strength of the opposition and put up a listless fight. With a sharp, well-organized and active campaign, there is no doubt as to the result. The miserable subterfuge embodied in the "oyster resolution," will deceive none of the intelligent oystermen of the lower districts, while troubles in their own household will keep republican leaders fully occupied. The delicate touches of the fine Italian hand of Mr. Urie are stamped throughout the length and breadth of the ticket. The cry of "bossism" or political "slate making" against democrats is forever silenced by the fact that the "slate," as rushed through on Monday, was conceived and given birth in a lawyer's office, and the only duty left the convention was to ratify what had been done by the probationers in private conclave.

AFTER BUYING EVERY COLORED VOTE in sight, Talbot county republicans, through Editor Tylor, are vociferously moralizing about the evils of money in politics. Kent county republicans will also be caught between the "Devil and the deep sea" this fall. If they fall into their good old line of sermonizing to the "colored brother" about the evils of selling his vote, they may be met by a stubborn moral reform on the day of election, when it becomes necessary to buy the "faithful" into line. An old colored man gave it out in pure English on Monday, that he expects to vote for money as that is "all the poor negro ever gets out of his party any way." Many are reasoning along the same line.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

THE SPLENDID RESULTS of the movement by the Ladies' Town Improvement Association of Chestertown, has called forth the warmest possible editorial endorsement by several prominent Maryland papers. The Baltimore American on the day following the unveiling, said editorially:

"The unveiling of a handsome fountain at Chestertown is a striking illustration of the work that earnest women can do in the way of village improvement. The ladies of that pretty Eastern Shore town formed an organization with this end in view, and, by persistent effort, succeeded in giving to their town a useful and ornamental present, which will stand as a monument, not only to their labors, but also to their love for the place in which they live. The ceremonies attending the unveiling were worthy of the event, and, in spite of rain, hundreds were present to do honor to the good women of Chestertown.

"Such improvement associations are needed in every town, village and city in Maryland. There are several of them now in existence, and their efforts, when properly directed, have always been attended with good results. Arouse the interest of women in something that directly concerns them, and that interest is not likely to die out until the object is attained. There are many picturesque and attractive towns in Maryland, but there are also many that can stand a vast amount of improvement. The work has begun, and it has begun in the right way, but the field is big and there is not the slightest danger that the task will be overdone.

"The women of Maryland deserve credit for what they have done, and the good results they have attained should encourage them to future efforts."

THE INDUSTRIAL EDITION.

With this issue the TRANSCRIPT puts into the hands of its readers the Industrial Edition promised for last week. The work is one in which the editors justly take great pride. The illustrations are such as are rarely seen except in periodicals sent out from the most elaborately equipped city printing or publishing houses. Certainly, no such work has ever been sent out by a printing house in Kent county. The reading matter constitutes an interesting history of some of the most extensive business enterprises in the county and sketches of a number of the county's most prominent citizens. Apologies however, are due to many in that they have not a place in the edition. Arrangements had been made only for a four page issue without the slightest thought that more space would be demanded. So great was the popular favor with which the idea was received, that the interesting histories of Betterton and Still Pond were badly multilated in being condensed; much of the Chestertown article was of necessity cut out, while some sketches actually written were unable to find a place. Millington, Galena, Rock Hall and other wide-awake towns and sections were not visited at all. For these omissions humble apologies are made and assurances extended that it is with profound regret that the many other business enterprises and citizens prominent in our business, social and political life are not mentioned.

Prominent business men, with scarce an exception declared the idea of an "Industrial Edition" to be a good thing and heartily commended the enterprise and push of the TRANSCRIPT's editors in their efforts. All who had seen advance sheets of the issue declared it to be the handsomest paper ever sent out from a press on the Eastern Shore.

A Mother Tells How She Saved Her Little Daughter's Life.

I am the mother of eight children and have had a great deal of experience with medicines. Last summer my little daughter had the dysentery in its worst form. We thought she would die. I tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do her any good. I saw by an advertisement in our paper that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was highly recommended and sent and got a bottle at once. It proved to be one of the very best medicines we ever had in the house. It saved my little daughter's life. I am anxious for every mother to know what an excellent medicine it is. Had I known it at first it would have saved me a great deal of anxiety and my little daughter much suffering—Yours truly, Mrs. Geo. F. Burdick, Liberty R. I. For sale by M. A. Toulson, Druggist.

Office of the Local Board of Health

CHESTERTOWN, MD., Aug. 21, 1899.

Below is the last analysis of drinking water taken from the supply pool and the reservoir respectively. The water company has furnished every facility possible in securing the samples and fowarding them to the chemist of the State Board of Health. We regret very much to have to notify the users of this water of its being in a condition unfit at present for drinking purposes without being boiled. Therefore, we advise everyone to boil it before using, and not to drink it unboiled. For culinary and washing purposes this is hardly necessary. We believe we have located the source of contamination, and hope soon to remedy the evil. Mr. Thomas, manager of the company, will at once proceed to this, and will have the full co-operation of the executive officer of this board. The contamination is in no way chargable to the company or its officers, but is, in our opinion, the result of draining at a point over which they have no control.

OFFICE OF THE

Local Board of Health

FOR KENT COUNTY.

CHESTERTOWN, Aug. 15, 1899.

The circular received by the Local Board of Health from Dr. John S. Fulton, Secretary of the State Board, published below, explains itself, and will, I feel quite sure, commend itself to the people of the community. The slaughterhouse question, like the hog-pen, has been a bone of contention between sanitarians and the commissioners of small towns for years. The great preponderance of proof that from time to time has been produced showing the great disadvantages and discomforts, to say the least, as well as the very great dangers to health from such sources, has prompted the health authorities to send an inspector over the State. Among the towns of from 2000 to 4000, who still allow these, unfortunately we find Chestertown. Many of the smaller towns, as well as larger ones, have ordinances in accord with suggestions of Dr. Fulton.

The two above-mentioned sources of complaint are not by any means the only ones. The town is not as clean as it should be. The executive officer of the Local Board of Health will at any time co-operate with the town authorities looking to this much-to-be-desired need.
W. FRANK HINES, Sec.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10, 1899.

TO THE LOCAL HEALTH OFFICER:—We enclose herewith an abstract of the report of our inspector, Mr. Chas. N. Mitten, upon the slaughter houses in Maryland towns. We call special attention to the reports upon the towns in your jurisdiction.

You will observe that the towns where slaughtering is not permitted are the younger towns. This shows the growth of popular regard for cleanliness and decency. The older towns have received the slaughter-house nuisance as a legacy from former and less enlightened generations, and the influences which foster these hereditary nuisances, seems in some instances stronger than the sentiment against them. Slaughter-houses in towns are not only offensive to municipal decency; they may be injurious to public health

The worst slaughter-house is perhaps that where the offal is disposed of as chance may direct, and where the fats are rendered on the premises in open kettles. The preparation of meats for human food in such a place must be to every person having even a rudimentary sense of propriety, simply disgusting.

Hardly less offensive are the slaughter-houses where the offal is fed to hogs. The pork produced by such food is not good to eat, and cannot be made sound pork by a course of grain-feeding preparatory to slaughtering. Slaughter-house hogs are particularly liable to trichinosis, and trichinous pork, aside from the danger of infecting those who eat it with trichinae, is not a proper food.

No slaughtering should be done in any incorporated town. It is an exceedingly difficult matter at best to preserve a pure soil in closely settled communities, and the slaughter house in town pollutes both soil and air. It also furthers the vagrant dog nuisance, and the plague of rats and of flies, all of which in turn have their effect upon human comfort and health.

Since slaughtering is a necessary trade, it should be specially provided for in such a way as to reduce its offensiveness to a minimum. If possible, all the slaughtering for each community should be done in one place and under sanitary regulations.

We trust that you will make such use of our enclosure as may best attract the thoughtful interest of your citizens.
Very truly yours,
JOHN S. FULTON,
a17-3t. [S] Secretary.

MESSRS. T. R. HUBBARD & SON, CHESTERTOWN, MD.—Gentlemen:—In reply as to how I like your VICTOR, will say that I expect to use it again this fall. My crop of wheat was eminently satisfactory. I purchased this goods last fall and used the major portion of same on my fallow ground and on a plot as well, of about 5 acres of stalk ground altogether about seventeen acres. My yield on the total 17 acres was 475 bushels. On the fallow, there was 30 bushels per acre. The amount applied was about 300 lbs. per acre.
Very truly yours,

After 12 years experience in the Marble and Granite business I am thoroughly conversant with all the details of the business. I carry a large and select finished stock of attractive designs for my customers to make a selection from. You don't want to buy a stone from a photograph—you want to see the stone itself. Here is the place to see it. I guarantee my prices, when quality of material I use, which is of the best in every case, to be as reasonable as anyone else in the business. Call and look at my stock, learn my prices, give me a chance to get your work and not give it to people that have no interest in you after they get your money.
