In the Improvement of your lands, while grain is a good price and the indications have an upward tendency. Does it pay to let your land sour and degenerate for want of a stimulant? We answer no. W. S. WALKER. H. M. BROWN.
BECK, WALKER & BROWN,
Fertilizer Manufacturers,

offer to the farmers of Kent county their well-known brands of WHEAT FERTILIZERS. During the past seven years nearly one-fourth of the total wheat raised in Kent county was grown with the following brands of Fertilizers. A number of the largest crops and best wheat yields have been from these goods. These facts should be a sufficient recommendation of their reliability.

TRUSTWORTHY—
An absolutely Pure Bone Phosphate. Any one wishing to use an absolutely Pure Bone Goods, cannot do better than use this brand. We have sold large quantities of it, and it has given universal satisfaction.

PROPAGATOR—
A Pure Bone and Mineral phosphate, testing high in Ammonia, Phosphoric Acid and Potash. We have found this brand very popular with those wishing to use a High Grade complete Fertilizer, but unwilling to pay the price of pure bone goods. We can confidently recommend this brand.

TRY ME—A COMPLETE FERTILIZER.
We introduced this brand six years ago to meet the low price of wheat. It is a mixture of the very best Phosphates and High grade Sulphate of Potash, tests very high in both soluble and insoluble phosphoric acid and potash. It contains sufficient ammonia to give the crop a good start, is absolutely free from anything that can sour or injure the land. It is more durable than any cheap phosphate and will not give out before the crop matures. During the past six years more wheat has been grown with these goods in Kent county than with any brand of goods ever used here. Everyone who has used these goods acknowledge that they drill better and more satisfactorily than anything they have ever tried.

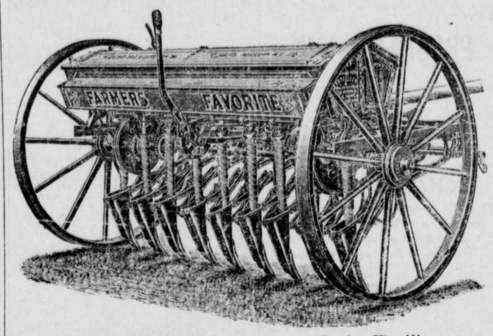

We are also prepared to put up SPECIAL MIXTURES with highest grade of goods at lowest possible prices.

We do an entirely local trade, confined to Kent and Queen Anne's counties, employ no agents or traveling salesmen, but deal direct with the farmer, thereby saving considerable expense to or traveling salesmen, but deal direct with the farmer, thereby saving considerable expense to the consumer. It is therefore as much to our interest as it is to theirs for us to give our customers first-class goods and full value for their money. Our goods are compounded on the latest scientific principles and are manufactured under the personal supervision of Mr. P. B. Hollis, who is well known as an experienced agricultural chemist. Their mechanical condition is as near perfect as possible, and we guarantee all our goods to be in perfect drilling order.

We sell at the lowest possible price, and solicit the patronage of our friends and the public generally. We are now ready to book orders for goods. Our place of business is in the Kent News Building, where we will be pleased to see any who may call.

A BRIGHT IDEA.

But Weary's Pard Found a Fatal Flaw in the Scheme.

"Pete," exclaimed Meandering Mike, "I'm gittin res'less!"

"Don't do it. Take t'ings easy while ye kin."

"Ever since I dropped into dat lecture hall last winter to git warm I've had somet'in on me mind, an I can't git it loose. It rankles in me conscience an overhelms me wit' a re'lizin sense of de resistlessness of fate. Dis life ain't nottin but one hard luck story any way you take it. But a man of brains kin sometimes git de best of de situation."

"Dat lecture mus' of sunk into yer system deep."

"It did. But I've got a scheme dat'll help out. De nex' time we takes a freight train we'll take one goin east."

"What fur?"

"Did you ever hear of velocity?"

"Sure. Dey's got t'ree wheels, an de kinchens tries to run over you wit' 'em."

"Dat's close to, but not next. Velocity is what de world moves wit'. It's so many miles a second. We're goin it all de time, shovin from west to east, an when you t'inks ye're restin it's only another delusion an a snare. Ye can't stop movin."

"Well," asked Plodding Pete, discontentedly, "what're you going to do about it?"

"Jes' what I told ye. De world's movin from west to east. De only chance to neutralize de swiftness is to take a train goin from east to west. I dunno as we kin hope fur any actual repose, but it's de only chance I see fur comin anywheres near it."

"It's a bright idea, but it won't do."

"Why not?"

"It only works one way. We can't keep on ridin west furever. An t'ink of de double exertion when we have to turn aroun an come de other way!"—Washington Star.

OLD SOL'S RIDE IN 1849.

Flowery Weather Predictions of the Journalists of Long Ago.

In these days of practical newspaper writing, in which bald facts are expressed in the plainest and tersest form, the flowery language indulged in by some of the "journalists" half a century ago sounds peculiar. The following poetic convulsion was copied by one of the local papers from the New York Tribune in 1849 as worthy of a high place in the newspaper literature of the day:

"On Saturday evening at 17 minutes past 11 o'clock the sun rode calmly and mildly over the autumnal equinox and cast his golden anchor on the wintry coast of autumn. But as yet the vast ocean of air through which he sails is glowing and transparent with the memory of the long summer days that have passed over it, darting their rich beams to its very depths. Even as we write, however, the remembrance fades, like the sky's blanching souvenirs of sunset, and in the distance the cold ghosts of winter glare and wave their frozen wings, which creak on icy hinges, while in the silence of midnight a prophetic voice of wailing and desolation moans fitfully at the casement."

Few people can contemplate this specimen of literary architecture without experiencing a feeling of awe and sadness, with a few cold shivers on the side. It is proof positive that the profession has in some things gained by what it has lost.—Albany Argus.

A Chair of Uncleism Needed.

Unclehood is about the hardest hood man has to wear, and, as I have observed uncles and their habits, they either spoil or repel the small chaps and chappesses who happen to be made their nephews and nieces by an accident of birth. Uncles are either intensely genial or intensely irritable, and as far as I am concerned it is my belief that our colleges should include in their curriculum a chair of "unclelsm."

Unclehood is a relationship that man has to accept. It is thrust upon him. He can't help himself. To be a father or a mother is a matter of volition. But even in a free country like our own, if a man has a brother or a sister, he is liable to find himself an uncle at any time whether he wishes to be one or not. Then when it happens he's got to reason out a course of procedure without any basis in previous experience.—John Kendrick Bangs in Woman's Home Companion.

Hard Heads.

A duel among native Australians affords a droll study of physical endurance and natural courtesy. The affaire d'honneur is conducted on orthodox lines. Seconds are chosen and the place of meeting arranged, each party assuring the other that the remembrance of the insult or the casus belli can only be removed with a waddy stick, casually mentioning at the same time the design and weight of his own weapon.

The duel then proceeds somewhat on these lines: The aggrieved one bends forward, hands on knees, and invites his opponent to test the soundness of his club on his (the challenger's) head. Politeness does not demand that the vigor of the blow be modified by regrets or remorse, much less such a reply as, "Not at all, sir; after you."

The descent of the club is remindful of the conundrum, "Should an irresistible force come in contact with an immovable mass, what is the result?" In this case a little local warmth is generated. It is now the other fellow's turn, and the game proceeds as before, varied by mutual requests to hit a little harder. Either combatant leaves the field without a stain on his character and tasting the quintessence of satisfied honor should his opponent's club be broken over his head.

Men Hunt.

An English paper says that the hat of a certain shortsighted master at Eton blew off one day, and as he started in pursuit a black hen dashed out of the gateway. The schoolmaster saw the hen and thought it was his hat, and all Eton was electrified by the spectacle of a hatless and breathless reverend man hunting a black hen from one end of the street to the other.

Twice a year the Caspian overflows and strands millions of fish—sufficient to feed the whole of central Asia if advantage could be taken of these immense resources given by nature.

Astronomical instruments of glass were used by the Chinese as early as 2283 B. C.

Dig down to the cause of your sickness if you want to get well and stay well. Most likely it's indigestion. The irritating poisons of fermenting, putrid food, left in the stomach by indigestion, cause headache, neuralgia, nervousness, dizziness, stomachache, nausea, irritability, and all the other well-known symptoms of indigestion.

They also cause many pains and disorders which are often laid to other causes and hence are not easily cured. But as soon as the poison are removed, all these symptoms and disorders disappear, because there is nothing left to cause them. Nothing succeeds in this like Shaker Digestive Cordial, because it prevents the undigested food from fermenting in the stomach and helps the stomach to digest its food.

NOT MUCH OF AN EATER.

It Took, So He Said, Very Little to Satisfy Him.

Captain B. W. Morgan, every inch a Welshman himself, likes to tell this story when there is another Welshman in hearing: He went home to dinner one day and found a paper hanger at work in the house. He asked the time, and Captain Morgan told him it was noon.

"I guess I'll knock off and go home to dinner then," the paper hanger remarked.

"Stay and eat with us," the captain said, and the invitation was accepted.

Captain Morgan was attentive to his guest during the meal. He had a prodigious appetite. The captain helped him to roast beef several times, until at last he had some curiosity to see just how much the fellow would eat without crying enough. The game was growing quite interesting when the fellow began to show signs of quitting.

"Will you have some of the plum pudding?" the captain asked him to revive his failing appetite.

"No, thanks," he replied. "I've had enough, I think."

"Oh, take a small piece of the pudding!" the captain urged. "It's genuine English plum pudding and homemade at that."

"Well, I don't mind trying it," he said.

The captain helped him to a section of the pudding weighing about a pound, and he ate it with much relish. Then he shoved his chair away from the table and leaned back for an after dinner chat.

"I'm not much of an eater," he said, not noticing the smile on the captain's face. "It takes very little to satisfy me. Say, you ought to see the Welsh eat."

"Are they hearty eaters?" asked the captain.

"Hearty eaters?" repeated the fellow. "Say, they eat like a lot of hogs."—Pittsburg News.

IT WAS GENUINE.

The Signature of William Shakespeare That Admiral Luce Had.

At the time of the New Orleans exposition, in the winter of 1884-5, Admiral Luce was in command of the north Atlantic squadron and was sent down there to add to the gayety of nations, which no other old seadog could do better than he. Upon his return the flagship was anchored in New York bay, where it was visited by many people. One day a party came aboard which included among others a very pretty girl and a very dignified and learned Englishman. As Admiral Luce was entertaining them in his cabin he asked the pretty girl if she would like to see an original autograph of William Shakespeare.

At this the dignified and learned Englishman pricked up his ears and remarked that he had made a study of the autographs of Shakespeare and was positive there was no authentic example in America. Admiral Luce replied that he was very positive his was authentic and that its genuineness had never been questioned. This made the Britisher quite mad, and he delivered a lecture on the fraudulent autographs and manuscripts that were brought over to America and exhibited as originals.

"Well," replied the admiral, "I am convinced that my autograph of William Shakespeare is genuine, and I am going to have the pleasure of showing it to this young lady." Whereupon he went to his desk, took out his visitor's book, turned back a few pages and then pointed out the signature, "William Shakespeare, mayor of New Orleans, Jan. 12, 1885." The Englishman gave a painful gasp and retired.—Chicago Record.

The Clever Romans.

It seems quite surprising that the ancient Romans did not acquire the art of printing with movable types, inasmuch as they came so very near to it. They had wooden blocks carved with words in reverse, by means of which they stamped those words on pottery, while the latter was as yet unbaked and soft. Incidentally it may be mentioned that they knew the modern method of mending broken pots by means of rivets, and many pieces of pottery thus restored have been dug up.

In ancient Rome there was one daily newspaper, which was written entirely by hand. Furthermore the Roman senate had a publication which corresponds to The Congressional Record, being a report of the daily proceedings of that important legislative body. It is likewise was written by hand. Speaking of baked clay, one might mention the fact that the little boys of Rome 2,000 years and more ago were accustomed to play knuckle down with marbles of that material just as children do now.

Goat's Milk.

Modern Medicine says that goat's milk, contrary to the general impressions, differs from cow's milk not in being more digestible, but in being less digestible and less nutritious, although it contains a larger amount of solid matter than cow's milk. It is indeed the most indigestible of all milk.

Goat's milk has a peculiar and unpleasant odor and flavor, due to hircic acid or hircine. It contains an excess of fat and is therefore altogether too rich for an infant's diet.

Derided.

An Austin colored waiter told a Boston man at a hotel that in eastern Texas a white man had married a negro woman.

"Was he not derided?" asked the Bostonian in the classic speech of the "Hub of Culture."

"He was, sah," beamed the negro, "dey rided him out ob town on a rail."—Household Words.

Deceitful.

"Men are queer animals," said the pessimist. "They are all more or less deceitful."
