WE WOULD CALL ATTENTION TO OUR
Special Brands for the Spring Crops of 1900,
Corn and Tomatoes.
We are also prepared to fill orders for special mixtures for all crops, Potatoes, Oats, Asparagus, General Truck, Pear and Peach Trees, etc.
In consequence of the prevalence of late years of insects and worms destructive to the spring crops, we use in all of our Spring goods an insecticide which will tend to check the ravages of these pests.
All of these goods will be in first-class condition, and can be used in any machine without becoming pasty and sticky. Only the best materials obtainable will be used in their composition. They have been used by a number of our prominent farmers for the past eight years, and in all cases have given satisfactory results. We would be glad to refer intending purchasers of Fertilizers to the parties who have used them. All our brands of goods are prepared under the personal supervision of Mr. P. B. Hollis, who is well-known in this community as an experienced agricultural chemist.

POLE BEANS UNDER GLASS.

A Good Forcing Crop. Affording a New Opportunity to Gardeners.

The forcing of dwarf or brush beans under glass has been a favorite practice at certain seasons of the year with most gardeners, but it is believed that the experiments of Professor F. W. Rane of the New Hampshire station, begun in 1896-7, in the forcing of the pole or running varieties are perhaps the first of their kind to claim attention. The pole bean, like cucumbers, tomatoes trained to one stem, sweet corn, etc., must have plenty of head room or space above the bench or bed in which to develop. Doubtless this accounts for its not having been considered before. The modern lettuce and cucumber house, with the beds directly on the ground, are well adapted for this crop.

Professor Rane's experience as summed up by himself was very satisfactory and appears to open up another new avenue for the energies of enterprising market gardeners. His conclusions are:

Pole beans should be included in the list of vegetables adapted for forcing under glass.

The requisites for forcing pole beans under glass are practically the same as for bush beans, sweet corn, melons, cucumbers, etc., a night temperature of not less than 60 degrees, with 10 degrees or more higher during the day. The house should be kept moist, and the soil likewise should never become very dry.

The house adapted for forcing pole beans should have considerable space above the beds, ranging about eight feet.

Pole beans thrive well in almost any good fertile greenhouse soil. In this respect they resemble corn.

The time from germination until maturity varies with different varieties. The range for those tested was from 54 to 62 days.

Much time is saved by starting the seed in pots, precaution being taken not to allow the plant to become pot bound before transplanting. The plants should be in their permanent positions before they begin to run.

The varieties that were found to do well when tested were Mastiff Golden Pod, Early Golden Cluster and Golden Champion, named in order of productiveness.

A cord trellis is preferable to the ordinary bean pole for training up the plants. They are more evenly distributed by the use of the cord, and, too, the shade from the pole is avoided.

Practically no trouble from insects or fungus attended the growing of this crop. One variety developed a slight tendency to pod rot at the last picking. Red spider and mite, which have been reported as troublesome in forcing dwarf beans, are kept in check by maintaining a moist atmosphere.

Where bush beans can be made a success as a main crop, with a house adapted for them, pole beans, we believe, will be found much more productive, area for area, and hence more profitable.

TRAINING OF ANIMALS.

Only Accomplished, It Is Said, by the Use of the Whip.

The popular theory that animals can be taught tricks by firmness and kindness is a grim error, according to a veteran circus man who has sent forth the dictum that no animal was ever trained to do anything unnatural except by punishment. If it knows hunger or pain will follow disobedience, it will obey.

It takes the whip to break the colt to harness or saddle, but the end justifies the means, and the animal's intelligence when once it has learned its lesson does away with further use of the whip. But if a horse is taught tricks, such as one sees in a circus, the constant use of the whip is necessary, and the little pat on the neck the trainer gives the animal in public is not bestowed in private. There is never any let up in their training.

Trained dogs always appeal to women and children, for the little animals appear to thoroughly enjoy their work. But the barking and frisking are only the natural joy of the poor beasts at being let out of the crammed quarters where they stay when they are not in the ring. Moreover, they know the trainer does not whip them in public. There is scarcely a trick a trained dog does that he likes or that he will do at order unless punished. Willis Cobb was the first dog trainer to make a reputation, and when he was middle aged he abandoned his profession because, he said, he had not the heart to go on making a living by whipping dogs.—Cleveland World.

"...cing a Gun."

There is a great deal of ignorance as to what "...cing a gun" means. A gun is sometimes disabled when the gunners are driven back and the gun or gun carriage damaged. It is a common enough phenomenon for weapons which have thus been silenced to reopen after repairs have been made, the gunners rallied or a fresh gun crew obtained. It is a rare thing for a gun to be damaged by hostile fire that it cannot be refitted and brought into action again. "I saw," says Prince Kraft the German artillery in the battle of Sevelotte, "many guns during the bombardment lying miserably on the ground 'winged'—that is, with a broken wheel. But not one was withdrawn. The injured guns were always speedily repaired with the help of the wagons, which were near, so that at the close of the battle I could not tell exactly how many pieces had been put temporarily out of action."—Army and Navy Journal.

It is very hard to stand idly by and see our dear ones suffer while awaiting the arrival of the doctor. An Albany (N.Y.) dairyman called at a drug store there for a doctor to come and see his child, then very sick with croup. Not finding the doctor in, he left word for him to come at once on his return. He also brought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which he hoped would give some relief until the doctor should arrive. In a few hours he returned, saying the doctor need not come, as the child was much better. The druggist, Mr. Otto Scholz, says the family has since recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to their neighbors and friends until he has a constant demand for it from that part of the country. For sale by M. A. Toulson.

CALLS AND CARDS.

Good Form In Both—Titles on Cards. Social Visiting.

The correct use and appearance of the visiting card are regulated by custom, the infringement of which stamps one as beyond the social pale, says The Ladies' Home Journal, from which the following items of "good form" are gleaned:

A lady's visiting card is of medium size, engraved in script or Roman letters, the address in the right-hand corner, the reception day in the left. A man's card is smaller, having the name printed in full, without initials, with the prefix "Mr." and bearing the address of his home or club.

No titles are used save military, naval or judicial ones and those of clergymen and physicians. Such cards would read, "Captain John Lester," with name of regiment or corps, United States army or navy, in left hand corner, or "Mr. John Lester," with rank and regiment under the name; "Mr. Justice Beakman," "Rev. John Storm, D. D.," "Dr. Kenneth Kellogg." "Mrs. Colonel Doe" and "Mrs. Dr. Doe" are both incorrect.

A young woman entering society has her name below her mother's on the same card, but she may use her own as well. The prefix "Miss" should always accompany the name of an unmarried woman.

A widow retains her husband's Christian name or not, as she pleases. It sometimes occasions embarrassment if a son bearing his father's name is married. By reason of seniority a widow's card may then read, "Mrs. Blank." This precedence is now assumed by the wife of the senior member of a family—the head of the clan, as it were. Anything claimed as a distinction becomes desirable. The "Mr. and Mrs." card is no longer used, and the folded or turned down card, signifying a personal call, is obsolete.

After receiving invitations the etiquette of calls and cards varies in different countries and cities. In London and Paris the guests, after a dinner or ball, hasten to leave their cards upon their hostess the next day, after which they may call at their convenience. With us courtesy demands that a personal call be made after a dinner or luncheon invitation and within a week after the function. A regret imposes the same obligation.

After a wedding one calls upon those in whose names the invitations were issued and upon the young couple within the year. A bride calls upon her friends only after they have paid her that attention.

The presence of guests at a reception is accounted a visit. They leave their cards and those of the absent members of their families in the hall before entering the drawing or reception room.

Those unable to accept wedding or reception invitations send cards inclosed in envelopes on the day of the function, by hand or post, and call afterward. After any other form of entertainment cards may be sent, but, when possible, a call should be made in person.

A lady's social visiting is regulated by custom as by a code. There must be a call for a call and a card for a card.

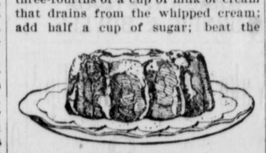

At the first call of the season a married woman leaves, with her own, two of her husband's cards for the lady and master of the house and three of her son's if there be young ladies in the family. If her friend be at home, she places them on the hall table, sending her own card by the servant. At subsequent calls she need not leave her husband's card unless he has received an invitation, and she may allow her sons and daughters to assume their own obligations.

A change of residence should be announced early in the season by sending cards to all one's acquaintances, with the new address and reception day.

If a lady has a reception day, her friends should try to call at that time. She need not receive chance callers on any other day; she could never be sure of an uninterrupted hour at home. The servant should be previously instructed to give the same message to all comers, "Mrs. Homer is engaged today and is sorry not to be able to see any one," at which none could take offense.

A Popular Dessert.

Line a charlotte mold with lady fingers, cutting them off evenly at the top and leaving a small space between them. Chill and whip three cups of thin cream (one cup thick cream and two cups rich milk may be used), drain and chill again. Soften one tablespoonful of granulated gelatin in one-fourth cup of cold black coffee. Scald three-fourths of a cup of milk or cream that drains from the whipped cream; add half a cup of sugar; beat the yolks of two eggs; add one-fourth of a cup of sugar and cook in the hot milk until the custard coats the spoon; add the gelatin, strain and cool, beating occasionally. When the mixture begins to stiffen, fold in the whip from the cream and turn into the lined mold. When thoroughly set and chilled, dip the mold in tepid water and invert over a serving dish.—Boston Cooking School Magazine.

The Care of the Chafing Dish.

The chafing dish needs a good deal of care if it is to be kept looking bright and nice enough for table use, says The Designer. The pans ought not to be put in water when being washed, but instead the water should be put in them, the nickled surface afterward being carefully wiped and polished with a piece of chamois.

Harm of Christian Indifference.

No method is more calculated to turn people who are in distress against the Christian religion than the indifference of its professors to their most pressing needs.—Rev. Richard E. Sykes, Universalist, Denver.

Submission in Prayer.

The last element of every good prayer is submission. After the petition, backed by faith and by reverence and by thanksgiving and by all the other elements, there must be submission.—Rev. Dwight L. Moody, Evangelist.

Dig down to the cause of your sickness if you want to get well and stay well. Most likely it's indigestion. The irritating poisons of fermenting, putrid food, left in the stomach by indigestion, cause headache, neuralgia, nervousness, dizziness, stomachache, nausea, irritability, and all the other well-known symptoms of indigestion.
They also cause many pains and disorders which are often laid to other causes and hence are not easily cured. But as soon as the poisons are removed, all these symptoms and disorders disappear, because there is nothing left to cause them. Nothing succeeds in this like Shaker Digestive Cordial, because it prevents the undigested food from fermenting in the stomach and helps the stomach to digest its food.

THIN

HAIR
Lots of people have thin hair. Perhaps their parents had thin hair; perhaps their children have thin hair. But this does not make it necessary for them to have thin hair.
One thing you may rely upon—
Ayer's Hair Vigor
makes the hair healthy and vigorous; makes it grow thick and long. It cures dandruff also.
It always restores color to gray hair,—all the dark, rich color of early life. There is no longer need of your looking old before your time.
$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.
As a remedy for restoring color to the hair I believe Ayer's Hair Vigor has no equal. It has always given me perfect satisfaction in every way.

For the last year of the old century "THE NEW LIPPINCOTT" promises two features of especial importance. The first of these is a series of papers by Stephen Crane
author of "The Red Badge of Courage" on the
Since his first book, Mr. Crane has not until now, returned to the subject that made him famous. He alone among authors to day, can adequately describe the
The second of the striking features of the "New Lippincott" for 1900, is a series of
SHORT STORIES OF MORMON LIFE
BY MRS. J. K. HUDSON.
These are made timely by the new Mormon issue in Congress, but they owe their deep interest not so much to this as to the pathetic, often tragic, revelation of woman's heroic suffering under an odious tyranny.
Mrs. Hudson writes from inner facts, but drapes them in a cloak of glowing fiction.

PLOWS!
AS the season for the use of this article is about here, you will naturally begin to look around for the best Plow the market affords. We've got it. We have scoured the markets for a Plow that would not only do good work, but one which would prove economical in its castings, quite an item, you will admit, in a great many of the Plows now in use. We want you to see this Plow, which we say is all right in every particular. It is called
The "Vulcan."

The construction of this Plow is different from anything else now on the market. You will notice the Standard is attached to the beam, not by a bolt, as is generally used, but by an improved Clamp, which does not weaken the beam, but rather strengthens it. The Wheel is also fastened securely to the Beam without a bolt.
One of the greatest features of the "VULCAN" is the construction of the Plow proper. The Point, Landside and Standard are held together by a simple locking device, which makes the base as one piece, and insures rigidity and strength. It is impossible for any part to become dislocated or out of place. Ordinary Plows are held together by the bolts alone, and the Plow soon gets out of proper alignment, with the result that the repairs fit imperfectly and perfect work is impossible. In the "VULCAN" the strain is not on the bolts, but on the entire frame, and distributed in such a way that it cannot get out of alignment, consequently, repairs will always fit perfectly. Every piece used in the construction of this Plow is of the best material, and made with a view of durability.
THE VULCAN POINT

is chilled over its entire surface, you do not need to be told of the advantages of this, over the old style share, which is only chilled along the cutting edge and not on the surface. We can furnish you with three styles of Vulcan Shares, the Plain Chilled, the Corrugated Edge,

And The SLIP POINT.
We have these Plows in all sizes, from small one-horse to heavy three-horse, and you can depend upon us always having a complete line of repairs for them.
We will be pleased to show you these Plows and go over their good points with you, at either of our stores, and can name you very reasonable prices, considering their high excellence.
