America.

My country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing;
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the pilgrim's pride,
From every mountain side,
Let freedom ring.

My native country, thee,
Land of the noble free,
Thy name I love;
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills;
My heart with rapture thrills,
Like that above.

Let music swell the breeze,
And ring from all the trees
Sweet freedom's song;
Let mortal tongues awake,
Let all that breathe partake,
Let rocks their silence break,
The sound prolong.

Our father's God, to Thee,
Author of liberty,
To Thee we sing;
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light;
Protect us by thy might,
Great God, our King.

STARS AGAINST M'KINLEY.

Astrologer Says They Point to Bryan's Election.

Four years ago Professor John B. Sullivan, of Yonkers, read the stars and decided that McKinley was sure to be elected.

On the strength of his previous success the astrologer has again consulted the planets and the lesser lights of the heavens for an election forecast, only to find that at present the stars are against McKinley and, presumably, favor Bryan.

It is observed, however, that this time the astrologer is not, as he denominates it, "cock sure."

According to his reading the trouble is that the nomination of McKinley was delayed for one day. If it had been intended that he was to be President again he would have been named upon June 20, as the people expected it. Instead, he was not nominated until after noon, June 21.

At the time McKinley was declared the unanimous choice of the convention, Venus was the ruler of the eighth house, the "house of death," which, Professor Sullivan concludes, looks very bad for McKinley. This is not all, for the moon was in the seventh house. The moon indicates the people and the seventh house is the abode of one's enemies. The sun and Saturn in opposition to each other from cadent houses indicates the end of the matter, referring the reader of the stars concludes, to McKinley's term of office.

Then, too, the position of Jupiter in the second house shows that the wealthy classes will bring money into the campaign, to no purpose, except, as is proved by the position of Mars in the second and seventh houses, to bolster up the democrats. Venus destroys the last hope, for she is on the way to the eleventh house, the "house of sorrow."

The Boss-Ridden Convention.

From the Boston Herald.

The convention was absolutely harmonious, and absolutely useless as an indication of public sentiment. No representative of anti-Administration sentiment on any subject was given an opportunity even to get himself hissed by the subservient lackeys of power. There was no more independent freedom of speech than in an assembly of Germans, Russians or Turks. Such a National Convention was never before known in America. Twelve years ago it would have been the death of any party submitting to it. Perhaps it will be so now It may be that there are yet some sparks of living independence in the republican party; that it is not a moribund organization, composed wholly of dictators and cravens. There is more hope of the nation's purity and safety in the angriest free fight of a party caucus or convention, such as Ben Butler and Fred Williams have given samples of in this vicinity, than in such a convention as has been held recently in Philadelphia, having regard to the unrelieved acquiescence in the tyranny of its control, and its emptiness of any genuinely popular character.

The Chinese Empire.

China is one-third larger than all Enrope, larger than the United States and half a dozen Great Britains combined. Its population numbers 400,000,000. The history of China dates buck uninterruptedly over the rise and fall of all the great nations of the earth—of Rome, Greese, Assyria, Israel and Egypt.

IS IT RIGHT.

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C.

It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we felt it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure but, we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by M. A. Toulson, druggist, Chestertown, Md.
