good and sufficient deed without charge or cost to be recorded on the land records of the City and County of Baltimore, all that part or parcel of ground through which the said Poppleton street will run from Lexington street to Waggon alley, say 40 feet wide, also, that part or parcel of ground lying between Waggon alley to Saratoga street, say twenty three feet in width forever hereafter to be a public thoroughfare. Provided also that this resolution is not to be considered of any force or effect, until after the first day of April 1836.

And be it also further Resolved, that in narrowing said street to forty feet, the West side of said street shall run on a straight line with Poppleton street as now graded and paved to Lexington street.

It is necessary that the said resolution shall be published at least one week in the daily newspapers, before the City Council can act thereon — the expence to be paid by the petitioner.

Mr. Sanders from the same committee submitted the following, which was read a first, and by special order the second, time and on motion of Mr. Child laid on the table.

The joint committee on streets to whom was referred the several petitions of Daniel Chase and others and John L. Yeats & others, also a resolution relative to the repaving of streets, ask leave to report that they have given the same their attention, and have found the streets asked to be repaved in a desperate situation, also in their passings through different directions of your City, they find many others in the same situation not applied for to be repaved, presuming that they were willing to abide by the present existing ordinances relative to the repaving of streets.

Your committee under this impression would respectfully ask leave to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject by resolution.
