CHARLES L. MILLER,
Chairman Kent Co. Executive Com.
JOSEPH S. CLARK, Secretary.

THE INDICATIONS ARE that the People's faction of the party will win the primaries this afternoon.

A CRANK made a desperate attempt to assassinate vice-president Fairbanks on Wednesday in Michigan.

PROMINENT Republican State leaders were present at a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee at the Hotel Rennert, Baltimore, on Wednesday. No date was fixed for the State Convention, but it is likely that it will be held late in September. No definite arrangements were made with regard to nominating tickets in the counties. The disfranchising Amendment seemed to monopolize the attention of the committee.

DO NOT LET the pitiful cry of "Bossism" and the "still hunt for candidates" argument mislead any voter in the county to-day. There is scarcely a man in Kent who does not know the effects of bossism in the party in years past, and how often the party has been dragged to defeat through the pernicious practices of party bosses. If the people of the county want popular government, let them go to the polls today and vote for the candidates of the people.

VOTERS, REMEMBER 1895 and 1899. You know what the BOSSES did to the Democratic party in those years. Let's put the government of Kent county in the hands of people who are not in politics for what they can get out of it, but who are interested in the wellfare of all the people.

EVERY CITIZEN owes it as a duty to his county to go to the polls this afternoon and vote as his conscience dictates. Every man is a free man and he has the right to vote as he pleases, and no threats or coercion should deter any man from voting as he desires. Let every good citizen go out to the polls and vote. That is the best way to secure the men you desire on the ticket.

THE FRIENDS OF Capt. Benj. P. Walters, who have announced his candidacy for the Legislature in the First District, say that he will carry that District today for the People's faction. So far as the other Legislative candidates of the People's faction are concerned, Messrs. J. Biddle Hossinger and J. Romie Byrom have pooled their interests and there is a complete understanding between these two gentlemen with regard to the nomination. The People's faction never make promises and then breaks them at the last moment.

USILTON AT THE HELM.

Mr. William B. Usilton has been doing more electioneering and making more personal appeals for support in this campaign than he was ever known to do before. On Thursday evening he approached a gentleman on the streets of Chestertown, who belongs to the same church as Mr. Usilton, and said: "John, I can't understand why you are against me when you know THIS IS A PERSONAL FIGHT AGAINST ME." Last Saturday morning he and his son, Mr. Fred G. Usilton, rode from one end of the Sixth District to the other and made personal appeals to their friends to stand by them in this contest. Here are the proofs to the statement that we have made heretofore, that Mr. Wm. B. Usilton is at the helm in this fight, and here are acknowledgements from Mr. Usilton himself that he is in the fight up to his teeth.

ONE OF THE interesting developments of the present week is the candidacy of Mr. J. Raymond Bowers for sheriff in the Seventh District as the representative of the "Old Organization." It has been known since early in April that Mr. Bowers would be the "Old Organization" candidate for sheriff in the event of that faction winning, although Mr. Andrew Medders, of the Second District, has the absolute promise of the leaders of that faction for the place. Several of Mr. Bowers' friends in the Seventh District announced as early as April that he would be the Organization's candidate for sheriff, and the announcement was made in Chestertown on Tuesday, but was recalled for fear of alarming the friends of Mr. Medders in the Second District. Mr. Bowers' chances of carrying the Seventh are far better than Mr. Medders of carrying the Second, and the nomination for sheriff will go to the man who can carry his district. This is the game, and Mr. Medders had better look out for himself. The Organization turned Mr. Thos. J. Fletcher down in the Seventh District for the sole purpose of carrying out their plans to nominate Mr. Bowers for sheriff, and Mr. Fletcher's friends will have something to say today as to the nomination of Mr. Bowers as the candidate from the Seventh for sheriff.

TO-DAY WILL CLOSE one of the most interesting primary contests in the history of Kent county politics. Factional lines have been closely drawn, and both factions have waged a sharp campaign. We have refrained from forecasting results at the polls to-day, preferring to allow the ballots to decide the contest. From developments during the week, however, it may be stated that the "Old Organization" concedes the Second, Third and Fifth districts to the People's faction, with chances very much in their favor in the Fourth and Sixth. The People's faction on the other hand claim not only the Second, Third and Fifth districts, but they have decidedly the best of the argument in the other four districts. The hand of the "Old Organization" has been called in the First and Seventh Districts this week, and Mr. J. Romie Byron in the Seventh and Capt. Benj. P. Walters in the First, have made a great race for the Legislature in the interest of the People's faction, and the latest information from these two districts yesterday evening was that both districts would give majorities against the "Old Organization." The fight in the Fourth and Sixth districts is interesting, but the indications are that McWhorter in the Fourth and Nicholson in the Sixth will win. It remains for the people of the county to decide the contest by their votes at the polls to-day.

Just What Everyone Should do.

Mr. J. T. Barber of Irwinville, Ga., always keeps a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand ready for instant use. Attacks of colic, cholera morbus and diarrhoea come on so suddenly that there is no time to hunt a doctor or go to the store for medicine. Mr. Barber says: "I have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which is one of the best medicines I ever saw. I keep a bottle of it in my room as I have had several attacks of colic and it has proved to be the best medicine I ever used." Sold by M. A. Toulson, Druggest.

THE ISSUE "BOSSISM."

Much has been said during this primary contest about BOSSES and BOSSISM. Whatever other sins of commission the TRANSCRIPT may be guilty of, the injection of this issue cannot be laid at the door of this paper. The issue was purely and simply an issue of the Kent News, injected for the purpose of creating dissatisfaction against the present management of the political affairs of the county on the one hand, and for the purpose of making political capital for themselves. A brief review of the history of politics in years past may not be out of place this morning, as perhaps there are some people in the county who have forgotten the causes that have led to the defeat of the Democratic party in years past. The year 1893 marks the beginning of a strong sentiment against the action of the party managers, who were in undisputed control, over the manner in which they manipulated conventions and secured the nominations of candidates suitable to their own whims and fancies. In that year Mr. Harrison W. Vickers was a candidate for the State Senate and ex-Senator Wm. T. Hepburn was a candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court. In those days there were no such things as a primary. Delegates were selected by the Bosses, and were simply ratified by a few people in a primary. When the convention met in Chestertown of that year, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Vickers was the popular choice for the Senate, Mr. Hepbron for clerk and Mr. John N. Dodd for Register of Wills, the will of the people was trodden under foot and Mr. Hepbron was nominated for the Senate, Dr. S. G. Fisher was nominated for clerk, and Mr. James T. Dixon was nominated for Register of Wills. The choice of the people was so absolutely ignored in that convention that a protest went up from the people over the entire county. The people remained loyal to the party and most of the ticket was elected.

In 1895, it is useless to state the details leading to the defeat of the party. The people got such a ticket as they wanted in the nomination, and the bosses who controlled the party machinery, defeated the ticket and handed the county over to the Republicans in the election.

During the interval between 1895 and 1899, the offices of the bosses in Chestertown were actual headquarters for the Republican leaders, and things were done and said at these headquarters that convinced even the dearest political friends of the bosses that there was far more Republicanism than Democracy in their midst.

A prominent politician and officeholder and as staunch a Democrat as the county ever had, who died between the years 1895 and 1899, came out of the office of the News and said to Mr. Charles Estes, of Chestertown: "Well, Charlie, I can't stand Billy much longer. He is dickering too much with the Republicans for me." Meanwhile a tremendous sentiment was growing among the people in opposition to the bosses, and that sentiment was absolutely the cause of the rise of the faction of the party known as the People's faction. These people the managers then called disgruntled Democrats, because they refused to stand by the arbitrary actions of the bosses.

In 1899 Mr. Vickers was again a candidate for the State Senate, and he was ardently supported in his candidacy by Messrs. Hynson, Wickes, Barroll, Slay and the TRANSCRIPT. A desperate primary fight was waged, and the machine was defeated overwhelmingly by the above combination. The bosses still had control of the party machinery and the "sinews of war," and in the memorable fall of that year, the ticket of the People's faction, for such it actually was, was licked out of its boots, and it was done not by the Democrats of the county, but by the bosses of the Democratic party. We challenge any man to say that this statement is untrue.

The Kent News refused absolutely to place the Democratic ticket at the head of its editorial columns, saying its space was too valuable to admit of such a thing. It is said that the editors of the News offered to place the ticket at the head of their columns for the sum of $25. The people of the county had by this time become so disgusted with affairs in the Democratic party that a corporation was formed for the purpose of giving to the people of the county a clean and honest Democratic sentiment. That corporation was composed of Judge James Alfred Pearce, R. D. Hynson, L. W. Wickes, H. H. Barroll, H. W. Vickers and the TRANSCRIPT. This was the beginning of the "PEOPLE'S FACTION" of the Democratic party, and by the year 1903 this faction of the party had grown to such proportions as to include not only the majority of the rank and file of the party, but many of the most influential citizens in the county who desired clean politics and who desired the success of the party at all times. In 1903, the year of the gubernational contest, Hon. Edwin Warfield was the choice of the rank and file of the party. The Old Organization was favorable to the nomination of Col. Spencer Jones. A contest was inevitable. Mr. Hynson was asked to lead the people in their fight for Gov. Warfield. He refused on the ground of having been defeated so often by the "bosses." Mr. Hope H. Barroll was induced to sacrifice his large law practice and make the fight for Mr. Warfield and the people. He did so and carried the county. Mr. Barroll immediately became the "boss" of the Democratic party, according to the defeated leaders, and he has been persecuted and reviled in the most ridiculous manner for doing what? For doing just exactly what some of those who are leagued with the "old bosses" in the present fight, have longed for all these years. Mr. Barroll in one year succeeded in forming an organization in this county which, if allowed to control the political destinies of the people, will keep the county in the Democratic column for years. The reason has been given for this statement by a prominent Republican leader, when he said that there is an independent element in both parties that will follow the leadership of Mr. Barroll when they will not follow the lead of Usilton and Smith, and "for this reason," said he, "the Republicans always like to see the Democratic party in control of Usilton and Smith. We can win with them at the helm." In 1903 Mr. Barroll nominated a ticket, and if he had been such an unrelenting and revengeful boss as his opponents have unjustly charged him with being, he would have named every man on the ticket in 1903, and would not have given the Old Organizion a man. On the contrary he gave them the majority of the Board of County Commissioners, the greatest political lever in the county, the Clerk of the Court, and the Orphans Court as well as one Legislative candidate. We venture the assertion to-day that if the "Old Organization" is successful in the primaries, they will not give the People's faction a man, whether they carry one or three districts. The campaign of 1903 is a memorable one. The Republicans of the county had run riot with the tax-payers' money. They had almost bankrupted the county, and their continuance in power would have meant county bankruptcy. Mr. Barroll was the only leader in Kent county in the Democratic party who had the courage to take up the people's cause, and rid the people of the burden of Republicanism. He instituted an investigation of the county finances. He offered his letters to the Kent News and to the TRANSCRIPT. The News refused to publish the letters exposing the wholesale misuse of the taxpayers money, and the only way Mr. Barroll could let the people of the county know of the condition of their finances was through the columns of the TRANSCRIPT which has always endeavored to be the herald of the people's rights. The former Democratic leaders did everything in their power to discourage Mr. Barroll in his fight for the people's rights, saying that the Democrats were just as much to blame for the whole business as were the Republicans, a very foolish position for them to take in view of the fact that heretofore the county boards when under their control, had charge of the county's money. Mr. Barroll and his staunch friends labored day and night for the success of the Democratic ticket, giving to each man his heartiest support, and simply and solely upon his energy as a leader, and the issue which he dared to bring to the attention of the people, the Democratic ticket was elected by an unprecedented majority, and the county was redeemed from the misrule and corruption of the Republicans. Now what has Mr. Barroll received in return for his great sacrifice of his law practice and health? Nothing save the abuse of those who have failed to do their duty to the people as leaders of the party and who are trying to ride back into power by trying to berate a man for having the courage to stand up for the rights of the people. Mr. Barroll may be a leader; he may aspire to the making of appointments that may be distasteful to the former leaders of the party who ought to be willing to sacrifice anything for the sake of their party; but he is not the boss who desires political power for the purpose of placing himself in every lucrative office that comes along, or who would ruin the Democratic party if they can't rule it. Mr. Barroll has been in politics for the sake of his friends, and if some of those who are now opposing Mr. Barroll, but who have formerly been with him, will get where they belong, there will be no further need for a primary contest in the Democratic party. There is quite a difference between leadership and bossism.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN.

☞ The columns of the TRANSCRIPT are open to the proper discussion of all topics of public interest or importance. Whether the editors agree with the sentiment expressed or not, the people should and may be heard through the TRANSCRIPT's columns—the paper will be the People's Forum from which they may be heard on all subjects—purely personal matter excepted. The Editors are not responsible in any manner for articles that appear in this column.

THE PEOPLE'S OPPORTUNITY.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The people of Kent county have the opportunity to-day to determine for themselves whether they shall be the managers of their county's government or whether it shall again lapse into the hands of those politicians who have used the party for their own purposes in years past and have been largely responsible for the defeat of party in past elections. There is a very large and conservative element in the Democratic party that desires a voice in the affairs of government, and that refuses to submit any longer to the lash of the whip that has been used in former years to drive them to do the bidding of party bosses, and this element comprises almost entirely what has been termed the "People's faction" of the party. It is so called because they believe in a government by the people of the county rather than by a machine that grinds out votes at will. We are frank to state that there are some prominent gentlemen now opposing the People's faction in this contest who several years ago were just as bitter against the action of those heretofore recognized as bosses as any man in the People's faction. They know perfectly well how badly they themselves have been treated by the machine in the past, and it seems to us that the treatment some of their closest friends have received at the hands of the "bosses" would make them feel exceedingly strange in their present company. But they are indissolubly leagued with their bitterest enemies in the past, and they are now waging a desperate struggle against those with whom they have always been identified. So far as Messrs. Wickes and Hynson are concerned in this contest, the people regret exceedingly that they should have allowed themselves to be influenced by those who have always done them and their friends a political injury whenever they have had the chance, and will not hesitate to do so again if they are not able to use them to advantage. It is not a case of their friends getting away from Messrs. Hynson and Wickes, but exactly the reverse. They have simply gotten just exactly where they have always refused to go, and if they receive the treatment their friends have received in the past there is no one to blame but themselves. It is as plain as can be to any man that this contest is one between Messrs. Usilton and Smith on the one hand and the people on the other. The people to-day have the opportunity to say whether or not they shall control the destinies of the county and make it of some value to the party in the State, or whether the control shall again get into the hands of BOSSES who have used the party for their own financial advantages and have given the people to understand that they may take care of themselves. Messrs. Editors that is the situation. Shall it be Usilton and Smith in control of the county or shall the people rule? The conduct of the county affairs for the past two years has been all that the people could desire. They have appointed good men to office and the affairs of the county have been conducted with prudence and care. Why then should the county be placed in the hands of those who have made Republican success in the county possible? The people want leaders, but they are opposed to those leaders who fail to consider anything save the great "I am" in politics, and it seems to me that if the people want to run their own affairs they should go out to the polls to-day and vote for the People's faction, which has demonstrated conclusively that they are not in politics for personal gain, but for the purpose of assuring the county to the Democratic party, and for the maintenance of popular government. This is the people's opportunity. Will they accept it?

DEMOCRAT.

MESSRS. EDITORS—The attempt of the ex-bosses, Smith and Usilton, to hide behind an alias like Wickes-Hynson faction is so bold an attempt at deceit that it fails of its purpose. Do Mr. Marion Smith and Mr. Wm. B. Usilton go to Mr. Wickes or Mr. Hynson's office to offer those gentlemen their aid and assistance in the noble pastime of removing the thraldom of bossism from our party or does Mr. Wickes go to Mr. Smith's office and aid and abet Mr. Smith just as faithfully as John D. Urie carries his little morsels of aid and asssitance to his co-laborers of the Kent News?

Mr. Wickes is an honest estimable gentlemen without stain or reproach; whose Democracy is as pure and unquestioned as is any man's, and Mr. Hynson has never been suspected of being in politics for but the straightest and most commendable reasons and it would give the writer pleasure to fight under their banner any time it is raised in an independent fight for party control, but when their antipathy to Mr. Barroll's personality drives them into the Smith-Usilton camp, here's one of their well-wishers who cannot follow them.

While there is nothing in Mr. Barroll's political record that requires defense or explanation from me, I am compelled by candor and justice to say that in every political act, Mr. Barroll has been actuated solely by the desire to aid or insure party success. He has sacrificed his personal practice and given his time and money and shared his faction's victory in the primaries with the losers for no other discoverable purpose than to see the Democratic ticket win.

On the other hand who can say that Mr. Smith's connection with politics has been solely for the benefit of the Democratic party? Has he or has he not been well repaid for his connection with the party? Has he made as many dollars from the legitimate practice of law as he has out of "politics"

Has Mr. Usilton been a faithful follower or leader of his party's fortunes or misfortunes or has he been accused of dickering with the other side and double-dealing with his party associates? Is Mr. Usilton now engaged in straight party politics or is he in close touch with Mr. Urie and Mr. Eliason for the purpose of securing Republican aid and assistance to defeat the expression of Democratic primaries? I suppose a man has a right to enter politics for "business purposes" if his conscience permits; but when a man enters politics to buy or sell legislation or to secure profitable contracts he should not object to being so labelled and should be classed separate and apart from those who take part in political contests for the purpose of aiding party success because of a belief in party principles of government. But the sheep in wolf's clothing is ever with us and the hand may be the hand of Jacob while the voice is the voice of Esau and only eternal vigilance is the price of liberty political, religious, or otherwise.
