WONDER if Mr. Jackson will contest the election! Haven't heard a word about trick ballot.

THE good people of the Eastern Shore elected Mr. Jackson to Congress.—Local Exchange. What a reflection upon those who voted for Mr. Smith.

THERE ARE many serious lessons in the election of Tuesday for the Democratic party to study carefully. The mixup on the Eastern Shore, especially in Queen Anne and Cecil counties, is a serious proposition, and may bode no good to the Democracy of the shore in the future.

WHEN A PARTY is compelled, by the extravagant use of money, to maintain its supermacy, and has no definite and fixed principles upon which to appeal to the sense of the voters, it is time for people of thought and interest in the welfare of their country to save it from the thraldom of plutocracy.

THE REPUBLICANS carried Kent county by 147 majority. 300 Democrats remained from the polls on election day, and were not sufficiently urged to come out, as the fellow says. Such figures as these can give the Republicans but little satisfaction, for in a county or State election Kent will be safely Democratic.

THE STAY-AT-HOMES.

Who is resposible for the unprecedentedly large Democratic stay-at-home vote in Kent county? Had it not been for this class of voters, Kent county would have given Smith a comfortable majority. This can be easily proven if one takes the trouble to ascertain the number of Democrats who failed to vote in each of the Seven Districts. So far as we have learned the total number is about 300, enough to have given Mr. Smith a majority of 155. The TRANSCRIPT throughout the entire campaign urged the necessity for creating an interest in the fight in order to reach that class of voters who rarely read the papers, and to see that the vote was gotten to the polls. For some unknown reason the interest was not created and very little effort was done by those in authority to get the vote out. For example in the Third District, six men who are now being paid by the county to work the road, and living within a half mile of the polls, remained away from the polls and did not vote. This was the case in several of the other districts, and many other Democrats who might have been induced to go to the polls and vote, remained away. It is a great pity that people who have so much at stake should take so little interest in a campaign, but it is a greater misfortune that so little is done, even in a congressional election, to create interest. This election will have its influence upon the next state fight, and it behooves us all to be on the alert.

THE ELECTION.

The election last Tuesday was one of the quietest and most peaceful elections ever known in Kent county. Very little interest seemed to be taken by any one in the outcome of the contest, and so far as outward appearances were concerned, no one seemed to care whether "school kept or not." But after the battle was over and the votes were counted, it was found that Mr. Jackson had been elected by a plurality of more than 2000 votes. Mr. Jackson accepted the nomination for Congress for two reasons given by himself and his friends. The first is that he wanted vindication for his defeat of two years ago by the same man whom he vanquished at the polls on Tuesday. The other reason is that he desires to go to Congress not to represent his constituents, except as to the matter of appointments, but for glory. So far as the first reason is concerned, he is gratified; he has his vindication, regardless of his method of securing the votes by which he was vindicated. But Mr. Jackson wants to go to Congress for glory. Is it simply for the vain glory of having triumphed over a foe that was in every sense worthy to represent his constituency, or is it the glory of a faithful performance of the duties and responsibility to his constituency on the floor of Congress, that prompted Mr. Jackson to enter the race for the prize? We trust that the Eastern Shore may have a representative in Congress whose only glory lies in being faithful to the interests of the people, loyal to those who need wise legislation and benign laws, and not one who simply wears the toga without wielding the sceptre of good influence. Circumstances of a sordid character have defeated a man whose career in Congress was one of good to his whole district, one who performed faithfully and well the duties imposed upon him, and it is to be hoped that his successor may not repeat his career of four years ago, but that he may go to Congress, stay in his seat, and work for the benefit and welfare of the people who have placed him in office. Mr. Jackson occupies an unenviable position in the halls of Congress—that of following a man who labored unceasingly for the welfare of those he represented. May Mr. Jackson wear the honor with dignity and with credit to his constituency.

PRESS ON ELECTION.

The Real Meaning of the Narrow Victory of Hughes—The Failure of Fusion in Pennsylvania.

Let nobody mistake the meaning of the narrow victory that Charles E. Hughes has won over William R. Hearst. Mr. Hughes' election by 60,000 plurality is morally a Republican defeat, a popular repudiation of the corrupt Republican machine and its alliances with corrupt corporations. The Hearst vote is a striking illustration of the popular temper in regard to the abuses of corporations and the demand for effective regulation.

Only by the votes of tens of thousands of Democrats who refused as a matter of personal and party honor to support the candidate of "Rottenness and Riot" was the Republican State ticket saved from complete annihilation.

The people of New York are tired of corporation piracy. They are tired of being robbed by the public-service corporations that are the creatures of the state, and of seeing this robbery connived at by men who are supposed to be the servants of the public. They are tired of being robbed by Milk Trusts and Ice Trusts and Coal Trusts and Gas Trusts and Traction Trusts. They are tired of the partnership between corporations and political organizations and they have voted their resentment at the polls.

By an unexpectedly small plurality they have selected Mr. Hughes to do the work that Mr. Hearst was clamoring to do, but there can be no question as to their demand that the work shall be done. Had anybody less clean and capable than Mr. Hughes been the Republican candidate for Governor, Mr. Hearst would have been elected by an overwhelming majority, in spite of his demagogism, in spite of his personal unfitness, in spite of his deal with Murphy, in spite of everything. As it was, thousands of voters who had no respect for Hearst and none too much confidence in him voted for him in the belief that it was time to resort to drastic measures and teach incorporated capital a lesson. To them any kind of a club seemed better than no club at all. They were not voting according to reason, but they were voicing their wrath, and wrath is a passion that always has to be considered in republican governments.

The narrow defeat of Hearst and the election of Hughes is a plain notice both to Wall street and the Republican politicians. The people want a new deal and a square deal. They want a house-cleaning at Albany, and they want it to be thorough. The fight was won not on issues, but on men; for the World very much doubts if there was a great difference of opinion yesterday in regard to the abuses of government in New York or to the shameless excesses of many great corporations, or to the alliance between financial corruption and political corruption.

The next two years must be years of definite results in the way of reform government and the restriction of corporation abuses. If the Republican bosses thwart Mr. Hughes in his work of reform, or if Mr. Hughes himself falters, it will be useless to appeal again to Democrats to save the State from demagogues. If the people are driven to the conviction that nothing but demagogy can sweep away the old order of things, they will vote for demagogy. When that feeling comes it will be too late to appeal to reason.—New York World.

A DEFEAT FOR FUSION.

It would have been a magnificent achievement if Pennsylvania could have been carried for the complete fusion ticket; it would not have fallen far short of a miracle. The State, where issues of Federal policy are involved, is invincibly Republican. This year representatives in Congress were to be chosen as well as State officers. It served the purpose of the gang to mount Stuart upon the back of Roosevelt. So mounted he has apparently been borne forward to victory.

The returns indicate the election of the full Republican State ticket and a Republican Legislature. The people of Pennsylvania have condoned the terrible past misdoing of the party in power. It has again been entrusted with the control of the State administration; but not without first making absolute pledges of reform. These pledges had been buttressed by the actual performance of the Legislature in penitential extra session, and were further avouched by the nomination of candidates of high character for State offices. To have thus brought the gang to its knees and compelled so much of a tribute to decent government is no mean performance.

It was a fight against perfect organization by allies who were practically without organization. The cause of reform has failed, but it has been at the same time greatly advanced. There is no cause for despair.—Philadelphia Record.
