"How Good This Suit Feels!"

is the delighted exclamation of every wearer of our clothes.

The grateful sense of ease and comfort the knowledge that he is looking his best, and the consciousness that others regard him with approval makes a man expand his chest, and step out more confidently.

As in past years, our line of Men's Boy's and Children's clothing is second to none in our midst and we are on fairly even terms with the larger city houses, with prices ranging from $5.00 to $18.00, and the price on each individual garment always the very lowest, consistent with good quality. Prices marked upon everything in plain figures—one price to all—so the child can deal here as safely as the parent.

Careful buying and fair selling has been the key note of our success.

We want you to come see us.

Yours for business,

J. D. LUCAS,

Index to Christmas Advertisements.

On the second page will be found the full page advertisement of Mr. Harry F. Jefferson. In this advertisement is set forth the many bargains and fine Christmas assortment which can be found at his, "The Ladies' Store."

On page three Mr. B. S. Sutton, at Black's Station, sets forth his many Christmas articles, and quotes prices on many of them.

Look at page six and see what Arlington L. Sparks is offering for the holidays. Mr. Sparks knows what he is about and knows how to buy to suit the trade. He is up-to-date.

Don't fail to see and read J. F. Thompson's Christmas announcement on page four. Mr. Thompson is looking well to the needs of the inner-man with a full line of fresh edibles.

J. H. Sides, the jeweler, is looking well to the interests and advantages of those who are in search of silver, ornaments, rings, watches, etc., for the holiday season.

Others who are well-stocked with suitable Christmas articles are the Stam Drug Co., Rote, the jeweler, and M. A. Toulson, druggist.

On our eighth page will be found the advertisement of one of the oldest and most reliable firms in the county. This firm keeps abreast of the times and when they take a full page advertisement in the TRANSCRIPT they offer the people of the county something worth their attention. Read every word of their gigantic advertisement before you retire for the night and it will give you sweet dreams of how easy Christmas shopping will be at their store.

Last but not least is the attractive supplement advertisement of Wm. Medders & Co., the hustler of the county. His advertisement covers both sides of the supplement and his offers are worth your attention.

OBITUARY.

MR. ROBERT KIMBLE.

Mr. Robt. Kimble died at the home of his nephew, H. Theodore Jewell, on Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock, of pneumonia and old age, aged 79 years. Funeral services were held on Friday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Mr. Sheridan, of St. James, officiating. Interment was in Still Pond cemetery, beside his wife who died about four years ago. The bearers were: Wm. French, Geo. Carroll, Geo. Williams, Sam'l Wallis, John Rodney and Benj. Davis. Undertaker W. H. Krusen had funeral in charge.

MR. D. THOMAS STORKE.

Mr. D. Thomas Storke, formerly of Betterton, this county, died at the home of his son, Mr. M. W. Storke, 106 N. Chester street, Baltimore, on Wednesday morning last. Remains were brought to Betterton by steamer Susquehanna on Friday, and interment will take place at Friends burying ground, near Lynch's, this Saturday morning. Undertaker W. H. Krusen in charge.

MR. GEORGE ANDREW GARDNER.

Mr. George Andrew Gardner, aged 68 years, one of the most widely known stage managers in this country, and who had not only been in this business all his life, but who was associated in that capacity with Edwin Booth when he toured the South, and with Edwin Forrest, who died at 5 o'clock Friday morning from a stroke of apoplexy received about 1 o'clock the same morning when returning home from a rehearsal of "Pinafore," at the Hotel Belvedere, Baltimore.

Mr. Gardner was well-known in Chestertown, and was to have directed the performance of "The Unreasonable Mrs. West," which was played at Stam's Hall, Wednesday evening.

MR. GEORGE HEIKEL.

Mr. George Heikel, a well-known citizen of Quaker Neck, died at his home. Quaker Neck wharf, on Thursday afternoon, of consumption, aged 50 years, He is survived by a widow, who was before marriage, Miss Belle Cohee. Funeral services will be held from his late residence to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Mr. Taylor, of Bond Chapel. Interment in Chester cemetery. Undertaker J. E. Ferguson will have charge of the funeral arrangements.

Social Notes.

A delightful tea was given by Mrs. Derringer on Tuesday afternoon from three to six o'clock at her residence on Queen street. The house was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and potted plants. In the evening a number of friends were entertained at a progressive euchre party.

The "Unreasonable Mrs. West" a very attractive little comedy was given by the "Women's Literary Club" in Stam's Hall on Wednesday evening to a large and appreciative audience. The cast of characters was exceptionally good and the staging most attractive. Those taking part in the play were Misses Jennie Hines, Hallie Toulson, Jennie Wilkins, Mabel Toulson, Adele France, Hallie Westcott, Anna Smyth; Messrs. Wilbur Eliason, Jr., Harrison Vickers, Jr., Waters Russell, Raymond Simpers, Houston Toulson, Thomas Massey, and Scott Beck. Mrs. Paul Turner, of Baltimore, was pianist and gave some very attractive selections between the scenes. A most attractive Japanese dance was given by Misses Edith Harley, Eloise and Ethe Ringgold, Emma France, Dovey Connelly, Bessie Westcott, Louise Urie and Novilla Kirby. Mr. Gec. Macomber, of Baltimore, was director.

Abundantly Pounded.

Last Tuesday evening, the Junior League of Millington M. E. Church, gave their pastor, Rev. Edwin Gardner, a splendid surprise and donation. This is the first donation these little folks have ever made, and the spirit they manifested on the occasion was truly surprising. At the parsonage two of the larger boys entered carrying an immense market-basket filled with groceries too innumerable for mention. After spending a time in pleasant conversation they departed wishing that their pastor might be returned to them for another year.

Last Friday night at the close of the revival service in Massey M. E. Church, the members surprised Rev. Edwin Gardner, their pastor, with a statement that there was a "little rememberance" waiting for him. The reverend gentlemen bowed in submission and was handed bundle after bundle of good things, and at the last, a large bird of the "turkey" species was presented amid the applause of the members. It is needless to say that the pastor must be exceedingly popular.

$325 For Filley.

The highest price ever paid for a two year old filly bred and raised in Kent county was one sold by Judge Hicks on Monday of this week to Mr. W. B. Austin, of Wilmington, Del. Its sire is Adbert, the royal bred stallion of Mr. Cooper Tarbutton, of Queen Anne county. Its dam is Orphangirl, she by Advance. This filley's breeding traces to the best of the country such producing dams as Miss Russell, old Dolly and Green, Mountain Maid. Three were 31 new 2.10 trotters in 1906. Of this number 22 are descendants of the above named producing dams. This filly was broken to harness about nine months ago and has been given its head but a few times. At the time of the sale of this filly, we get it from good authority, that it could step a 2.30 clip with ease. Think of it. A few months ago when the judge would be driving this colt up the street you would hear someone call "bah," or take the mastiff in; but he kept on. Very soon he was receiving inquires from different states. At last, as he put it, along came the man who gave him his price. We regret very much to see so promising and well bred filly leave this county. We expect to hear of this colt going in 2.15 or better before the leaves fall in 1907. The price paid was $325.00.

Camp 34 Celebrates.

The memorial service held at Fraternal Hall Tuesday evening was very instructive and edifying to all present. After singing "My Country, 'tis of Thee," Prof. Smyth was introduced to a large gathering. He beautifully painted before the mindseye the life and traits of young George from youth down to the time of his death. The blade of the hatchet was bright as ever. Now and then he would be upon his colt's back and then on the ground, till the promising steed was no more, and he had to break the sad news to his mother, but did it like a man. Washington had not sunshine and flowery paths to walk, and success to follow along all lines, but like a meteor in the heavens, victory would loom up once and awhile. He took no pride in bestowed honors, but well-earned honors, which were to him an earned way to the President's chair, the highest honor in the gift of our beloved country.

W. B. Coleman, the district president, appeared upon the scene feeling very grateful that he had the honor of speaking on the life of such a magnificent man. That it seemed like a pity that a life of such usefulness should have to lay down the sword of many victories and be no more, while at the same time we are conscious that we are living in a world of many changes. One generation prepares the soil and sows the seed, another generation reaps the harvest and garners the grain. Generations succeed generations upon the plains of time, which proves to us that man in all his glory is as the flower of grass, the evening of life will come, and he will wither and the body go to dust, while the man, which is the life, lives on for good or for evil. It is the life of Washington that we commemorate on this occasion; that noble man that suffered the inconvenience of life for the good of his fellowman, that the gate of ignorance and superstition might swing back upon the hinges of liberty and freedom, and give to man a paradise to perpetuate that liberty and love for country that moved the patriots of old that patriotism that knows no north, no south, and has caused the blue and the gray to blend together into one mighty nation, singing the grand old anthems of the American Republic.

Messrs. McMenamin, Twilley and others dwelt upon the home and implements of warfare of Washington and his footprints in the old lookinglass that have not yet been solved. D. P.

WORTON ITEMS.

Miss Julia Burchinal the pupular teacher of Hanesville school has temporarily resigned. Miss Sarah Hessey has been appointed teacher in her place.

Miss Clara Cooper has been visiting friends in Kennedyville.

Mr. George Sutton met with a very painful accident one day last week while shelling corn. One finger was cut off, and two others were painfully mashed.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Atwell and son, Elmer, are spending sometime with friends in Baltimore.

Mr. Joseph Duyer, of Coleman, visited friends and relatives in Worton this week.

The little child of Mr. Geyser is sick with measles.

The new school-house is nearly completed. The carpenters are progressing finely, and expect to have it ready for occupancy on Jan. 1st.

Santa Claus In Salt Lake

Where the Good Saint Got the Surprise of His Life.

TO a thrifty Morman household came the patron saint of Yule;
He was puffing like an engine, he was laden like a mule,
For he knew a row of stockings such as nowhere else is seen
Would be yawning there before him in the home of Elder Green.
So he shoved his pack ahead of him and started down the flue,
While he muttered, "This is something that I hate like smoke to do."
Then he followed with reluctance through the Smooty, smudgy air,
Quickly landing where the hosiery was hung in many a pair.

SEVEN PAIRS, ALL BABY SIZES.

There were papa's socks and twenty pairs of lengthy wifely hose;
There were socks for Eddie, Willie, for Eliphalet and Mose;
There were stockings of Matilda's, Esmeralda's and Susanne's;
There were Charley's hose and Molly's, Cora Belle's and little Dan's.
Amaryllis, George, Alphonso, Peter, Joseph, Maud, Eugene,
Arthur, Lizzie, James, Amelia, Mary, Frances and Irene,
Briggie, Reed, Lucile, Clorinda, Arethusa, John, Estelle,
Mattie, Lucifer, Elfrida—from his lips their titles fell.

But about the shelf there dangled other hose whose owners' names
He could not recall to save him as he watched the dying flames—
Seven pairs, all baby sizes, each in age not quite a year.
"Gee!" cried Nick. "Been something doing since the last time I was here!
Glad I brought a stock of rattles and a lot of teething rings—
Utah always gives a market for such kindergarten things.
From 'race suicide' the ever has discreetly held aloof,
And there's not a home in Zion free from stork tracks on the roof."

—Judge.

The Modern Mistletoe.

Prominent in the Christmas revels and, with the holly, most essentially "Christmasy" of all the plants used was the mistletoe. With us the old significance and sacredness have gone, leaving but charm enough to give the well known privilege to the man who meets a girl beneath it. There exists also in some places the tradition that the girl who is not kissed under the mistletoe will not be married for a year. (The present writer once knew a thoughtful and provident damsel who wore a hat trimmed with the sacred plant.) But the kiss permitted in olden time was originally of the religious variety, our mistletoe celebration being borrowed from Scandinavian lore. —Critic.

Said Little Socrates.

"Some generous person," said little Socrates Bulginbrow of Boston, "has been kind enough to send me a copy of Mother Goose's lyrics for Christmas. Do you know, the theory that a representative of the bovine genus at one time leaped over the chief luminary of the night leads to some interesting calculations as to the muscular development of the cows of that time. I have ascertained that they must have been endowed with strength proportionate to that of the flea of the present day."—Baltimore American.

A Hard Headed Boy.

"Dar's jes' dis about it," said Mammy Minerva, "I's gotter han' dat Pickaninny Jim over to de Society Foh de Prevention o' Cruelty to Animals."

"What's he been doin'?"

"We give him a goat foh a Christmas present, an' Jim an' de goat got to playin' rough, an' de fus' thing I knowed Jim he done los' his temper an' butted dat goat almos' to [illegible]"
