SATURDAY, MARCH 16, 1907.

DR. W. FRANK HINES was one of the honary pall-bearers for the late I. Freeman Rasin on Tuesday.

WE CALL the attention of our readers this morning to the last article of a series of most interesting letters from the pen of Rev. Dr. H. B. Martin, rector or Emmanuel P. E. Church, Chestertown. These articles have been most widely read and favorably cemmented upon, and we are sure that they have accomplished the object for which Dr. Martin intended them, namely, that they might do some good. A great many people have spoken to us concerning the value of the publication of such letters, and all regret that the last one appears this morning. Dr. Martin has very kindly consented, however, to write another series of articles for the TRANSCRIPT in the near future upon another biblical subject, and we are sure the public will read them with as much interest and profit as they have done the closing series, which have been handled in such simple and splendid manner as to make them treasures of religious teaching.

THE DEATH of Mr. I. Freeman Rasin removes the last of a coterie of great leaders who had made the Democratic party powerful throughout the entire State. For more than forty years Mr. Rasin had been interested in politics, and for more than twenty years he had been undisputed leader of the Democratic party in Baltimore city. He was a born leader of men. His knowledge of men and their peculiarities was remarkable, and his great activity in politics made him extremely familiar with their strength and weakness. To many his influence over his followers was an inigma, because they knew the man only in a casual way, when he appeared gruff, unapproachable and uncompanionable. But the secret of his power over those he ruled, and with whom his word was law, was his fidelity to their interests, and his strict adherence to any promise that he made. It is natural that such men as Mr. Rasin and his associates were, should be the targets for oftentimes unjust criticism. Men in public life, especially men whose power over men and things is as great as was Mr. Rasin's, cannot escape criticism whether just or unjust, but Mr. Rasin possessed the peculiar characteristic of softening these criticisms by meeting his opponents on their own ground. It is beyond question that the Democratic party in the State and in Baltimore city has lost a most potent factor, a factor which in such a large measure controlled its destinies, and not soon will a man arise to fill his place. Leaders of men are born, not made in a day, a week or a month, and time only can develop the leader, as every party must have, to prevent disintegration of the forces which he controlled. Mr. Rasin was born in Kent county, and since his removal therefrom has manifested great interest in its affairs, political as well as social. Mr. Rasin is the last of a coterie of great men in politics, Compton, Bannon, Colton, Hines, Woolford, Gorman, all of whom have passed to their reward. They have been missed in the Democratic party, and now that the last of the school has gone, it looks as though there must be a complete reorganization of the party forces in order to insure its success in the future.

MR. RASIN'S CAREER.

The Beautiful New Millinery is Ready for You to See

Search the city over, and you won't find Hats as handsome, nor prices a pleasing.

We've outdone New York—the statement is modest, and easily proved.

Why shouldn't every woman wear fine Millinery? And why shouldn't she be able to get it at home.

And yet—until this store began, it wasn't possible to get a really fine hat in the city. Our older customers tell us they would be told: "We'll send to New York for you." Sometimes they waited, but quite as often they went to New York themselves.

It's all different now—and the beautiful new millinery for spring is ready for you to see and enjoy.

The Foremost Paris Milliners are Represented

We'll not print their names—else you'd soon see the same names used as a mere matter of advertising. But the hats are here—and the names are in the hats, just as they were placed there by the famous artistes of the French capital.

And yet—you may prefer a H. K. A Co. hat to a Paris hat. And be wise in your preference.

The New Untrimmed Hats and Trimmings

More attractive than ever; wider variety than ever.
We trim hats free—when shapes and material are bought here.
The salesfolks will help you to decide on what's becoming.

The Pre-Eminence of This Store in Matters of Dress For Women

This remarkable exhibition of Costumes, Suits, Coats and Skirts for Women is bound to arouse a deal of enthusiasm—there has never been a showing in this city to equal it. Yet it is simply another illustration of the Hochschild, Kokn & Co. postition, and the results accomplished.

The assemblage is imposing, fascinating and all-sufficient. Here is the best work of the world's best designers and practical garment makers—a vast, exhaustive, satisfying stock, meeting the exact individual wish of every woman and girl. Everything good that has been brought forward by the season is amply represented.

You will find that our prices are very moderate—lower, in fact, than you can get equal garments for in the few stores that have equal garments.

"Our people are abandoning the use of Lime, Sulphur Wash and are using the "Target Brand" Scale Destroyer generally. They consider it less expensive and disagreeable than the Lime-Sulphur Wash. We most liberally recommend its use for both peach and apple trees and you will find it will kill the scale.
[Signed] F. M. SOPER,
Magnolia, Del.

Another letter from J. W. Killen, Felton, Del.

In which he states: "Target Brand" Scale Destroyer gave us as good results as lime-sulpur wash and at much less cost everything considered. I could tell to the row where it was used the first of October. Trees were so much greener. I think it a preventive for leaf curl. The "Target Brand" forms a perfect emulsion, no loss time in mixing—no clogging of nozzles. A perfect spray.
