TERRIFIC WIND STORM.

Capt. Coleman of Rock Hall Has Rough Experience.

The wind storm which swept over the Chesapeake Bay on Tuesday was one of the worst experienced in many years, and the masters of all steamers and sail vessels caught in the bay report conditions as extremerly bad. With her foreboom snapped in twain and otherwise badly strained by the heavy seas encountered off North Point, the schooner W. W. Coleman, Capt. J. B. Coleman, returned to Baltimore on Tuesday after a futile effort to reach Rock Hall.

Captain Coleman stated that he left the city at 7.30 A. M., and all went well until he opened North Point, with 20 miles of water to windward, when his vessel was struck by the full force of the wind, which was terrific. Heavy seas broke over the vessel, carrying by the board every movable thing which was not lashed down. "Every preparation had been made for a bad spell," said Capt. Coleman, "and sail had been shortened to meet the conditions. The Coleman was caught in the trough of the heavy sea, where she wallowed like a log. I had fully determined that it was too bad to proceed, and, while getting her about, a sudden squall stronger than the rest, struck the vessel throwing her on her beam end. The sudden gybing of the foresail snapped the foreboom, which put the forsail out of business, and with a small piece of mainsail and the bonnet out of the jib we reached the city, where we will remain to make repairs before sailing again for Rock Hall."

The steamer B. S. Ford, Capt. Wm. Taylor, had a rough trip across the bay, but she weathered the gale, and landed at her wharf here without a mishap. At the mouth of the bay the wind blew at the rate of 72 miles an hour, and Hampton Roads was packed with storm-staid vessels. No fatalities are reported.

Pastor and Family Bombarded.

About one hundred members and friends of Christ M. P. Church commanded by Mrs. Col. Wm. J. Vannort, who handled her company with much credit, made an attack upon Christ M. P. parsonage and its popular occupants on Wednesday evening, and before Dr. Little and his family were through with their encounter, they found that "entrenchments" of hams, barrel of flour, coffee, barrel of sugar, potatoes, almost every conceivable article of food and of use had been piled high in pantry, on tables and chairs, and instead of the attack being that of an enemy it proved to be only the coming of good friends. It was one of the largest donations the church has ever given its pastor, and besides a full pantry and stocked larder, $29 were contributed as a token of esteem for the popular pastor and his family. Somebody remarked that Dr. Little had had one good day—a big wedding and a huge donation. The only thing that marred the pleasure of the occasion was the breakdown at the electric light plant, which prevented a display of the beautiful lights recently installed in the parsonage by the friends of the pastor. But every one enjoyed himself, and those who were detained from attending by sickness regretted not being able to be present.

Rev. Samuel Thomas Honored.

The Rev. Samuel W. Thomas, D. D., editor of "The Philadelphia Methodist," will act as temporary presiding elder of the West District of the Philadelphia Methodist Conference until the examination of the Rev. William H. Shaffer in March. His appointment came Tuesday from Bishop Earl Cranston by mail from Washington, D. C., where the bishop resides.

He gave as his reasons for the appointment Dr. Thomas' long service in the church and the ability which he had shown during previous incumbencies as presiding elder.

The announcement of the Bishop's choice was received with surprise in many quarters as Dr. Thomas had not been mentioned as a likely appointee on account of his many other church duties. General satisfaction greeted it, however, even from Dr. Shaffer's friends, who, though they deplore the latter's suspension on account of what thay term false charges based upon his friendship for the postmistress of Morgantown, Pa., will welcome Dr. Thomas as his temporary successor, believing that Dr. Shaffer will eventually be restored to the place.

Dr. Thomas' many frierds in Chestertown and throughout the county will be glad to learn of this additional honor.

*†*The January term of court will begin on Monday Jan. 20.

Numbers goes into his house, vacated by Mr. Phillips, and Mr. Owen Porter, the house vacated by Mr. Tom Phillips.

RELIGIOUS MATTERS.

Grace Methodist Protestant Church, Belair, was burned to the ground on Sunday morning just after the services, not even so much as the large Bible being saved. The last minister to hold services was Rev. S. A. Hoblitzell, the venerable pastor emeritus, who preached on Sunday morning. Rev. H. L. Elderdice was to have preaced at night. Rev. C. K. McCaslin, well-known in this county, is the pastor. The church was a frame structure with a slate roof, and was built in 1884 during the pastorate of the late Rev. T. D. Valliant. It was insured for $2700 which will only partially cover the loss. During the progress of the fire several prominent citizens offered as much as $100 each toward a rebuilding fund.

Revival services began at the Chestertown M. E. Church on Sunday evening last and have continued during the week with increasing interest. The faithful pastor, Rev. W. L. White, is laboring diligently for the upbuilding of the spiritual life of his church and the community at large.

Miss Nettie Russell led the Christian Workers service at Christ M. P. Church last Sunday evening.

Rev. Samuel Edson, rector of Shrewsbury and Galena P. E. Churches, will leave for Massachusetts on January 14 and will return about February 20. There will be no services at these churches during Mr. Edson's absence.

Mass will be said at 8 o'clock A. M. in St. John's Church, Rock Hall, to-morrow (Sunday). It being the second Sunday in the month, it will be the regular communion Sunday for the parish.

The annual election of officers and teachers of the Chestertown M. E. Sunday School will take place tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon.

On Friday evening, January 31st, in the Chestertown M. E. Church there will be held an election for delegate to the Lay General Conference which meets in Baltimore in May.
