ROCK HALL ITEMS.

A meeting of the oystermen was held Saturday night to discuss some of the features of the amendment to the Haman Bill which is before the senate. Many were outspoken against the bill although Swan Point Bar was excluded from the provisions of the bill. The consensus of those present were that there were already ample laws for the oyster, if complied with. The liberty of taking from the bar oysters for seed between the 15th of April and the 15th of May was very objectionable to all present, as these were the oysters which would furnish the supply for the ensuing season, these were to be under two and a half inches, which by the present law must be left on the bar. Then the "fifty to five hundred" acre clause seemed to drift towards a monopoly and the oystermen saw that there was a probability of loosing his only means of support. Every one expressed the fear, that if they began to again tinker with the law that the results would be worse than the present, therefore they desired it to remain in the present condition. Those who took part in the discussion were our best citizens and were members of each political party, (but politics are not mentioned in the discussion) and knew what they were talking of. They were experienced oystermen and had the welfare of the oyster at stake as well as their own interest. They passed a resolution, to notify the delegates of our county to oppose the amendment known as the 111th amendment. This was signed by all present and many others who did not attend the meeting. Among those present were: James M. Durding, Wm. P. Durding, John Willson, George Davis, Frank Davis, J. J. Davis, T. L. Rich, J. D. Ayres, Chas. W. Ayres, S. M. Taylor, Capt. Kerr, John Akers, Arthur Andrews, Samuel Collyer, T. E. Jones, James Rodney, Wm. Downey, and many others. These say enforce the Cull Law and all will be satisfactory. They again expressed the hardship of some who would get from 30 to 40 bushels and get the same price as he who culled his oysters according to the law and who could only get 10 or 15 bushel. The buyer would not dare to discriminate for fear that he could not get his load. Now here is the whole trouble, remedy this and there will be plenty of oysters. These uncuiled oysters go to the city and are sold, where are the 45 inspectors? To those who read this, will arise the question of where is the Police Boat, in reply would answer, on the alert, performing his duty, perhaps on the bar and unable to watch Chester River or vice-versa. These men have a just grievance and it is time for relief. Will they get it?

Now Messrs. Editors, your paper is advocating good roads and many necessary improvements looking toward the advantage of the tax-payers of this county, and many expressions of the good results and the interests the TRANSCRIPT is taking in the affairs of our county, are heard everywhere. So please take up the Cull-Law and you will receive more commendations.

Tomato Seeds.

A representative of the Numsen canneries was at Melitota last Saturday endeavoring to make contracts with the farmers for growing tomatoes at $8 per ton. The farmers refused to contract at that price, stating that they thought $9 is a fair price. The representative will be at Melitota again to-day.

Mr. Baldwin, proprietor of the Chestertown cannery, was at the Voshell House on Wednesday and met a number of the farmers. Mr. Baldwin offered $8, but the farmers refused to contract. Another meeting will be held in about 10 days.
