My dear friend, London 18. Octo. 1783.

I fear your neglect so much that was it not for to satisfy my good and amiable friend Mrs Lee of the health of her Son I should hardly address Mr Lee by this Opportunity Not alone since my arrival. the Letters for your Son in the Stack came to hand and are sent with those from his Grand Papa He was very well in health and spirits last Week I received two lines from him enclosed to Mr. Talbot "Tell Mr. Forrest to send me a pair broad rim'd pro buckles all the Boys has them" He shall not be without you may be assured and I assure you that no One of the Boys deserve them more. I shall say no more but pray my most Respectfull and affectionate Compliments to Mrs Lee and the good family and that you will believe me (notwithstanding your neglect) to be with the most affectionate attachment My dear Sir

Most truely yours.
