Our Merchants.

Mr. Arlington W. Carmine is one of our largest and most highly esteemed grocery and provision merchants. Mr. Carmine came to Chestertown in 1905 and accepted a position as head salesman with Mr. H. F. Jefferson. To this position he gave his best energies, and enjoyed a large clientage, until July 1909, when he purchased the grocery, provision and notion business formerly conducted by Mr. Jacob F. Thompson. Mr. Carmire was just getting a good start for a successful business career in Chestertown when the great fire of September following claimed Mr. Carmine as one of it's victims, and his valuable stock of goods became a prey to the flames. With that indomitable push and energy which characterize his business activity, he purchased the store property belonging to the estate of the late J. K. Aldridge, and began anew, in one of the best locations in Chestertown, to recuperate his loss, occasioned by the fire. Mr. Carmine "laid in" a completely new stock of groceries, provisions and general merchandise, and has always employed the most careful and consistant business methods in the building up of a splendid trade. He has the reputation of being one of our most courteous and obliging grocerymen, and enjoys consequently a large and valuable trade. Mr. Carmine is ably assisted in his business by Mr. W. O. B. Knight, both of whom attend to business with promptness and care. Mr. Carmine is one of the TRANSCRIPT's esteemed patrons, and we wish him [illegible] in his business.

MUST TELL TO VOTE.

Voters in Coming Primary Who Decline to State Party Affiliation May Not be Permitted to Vote.

The names of all the qualified voters of Kent county will be copied in new registration books, which the Board of Supervisors of Elections have prepared for the purpose. The primary election will be held on May 6th, and the new books will be used in that election.

As required by law, the new books have spaces for use at both the primary and general elections, and also a column in which the voter's party affiliation shall be marked. The affiliation clause provides that the voter shall be questioned on the day of the primary and the party to which he belongs will be entered into the registry at that time. He, of course, has the option to decline to state his party, in which case he is entered as having declined, and, according to the opinion of most of the prominent attorneys of the county, when the voter declines to state his party affiliation he cannot be permitted to vote. The law reads:

MUST BE ONE THING OR THE OTHER.

"Whenever a voter declines to state his party affiliations, the word 'Declined' shall be written opposite his name in such column so that there shall be written in such column opposite the name of every registered voter, either his party affiliations or the word 'Declined,' Each and every voter as he appears at the first primary election at which he votes subsequent to the passage of this act shall, before he is permitted to vote at said primary, state to which party he is inclined and to which party he desires to have himself recorded as affiliated, and the Board of Registers, then sitting as Judges of Election, shall thereupon and at once enter in the column provided for affiliations the name of the political party to which the voter is inclined and with which he desires to affiliate and in said primary and all primary elections thereafter held any person so registered as affiliated with a given political party shall have the right to vote the official ballot of that party and of no other."

The closing sentence of the section is the one responsible for the uncertainty in the matter.

PRIMARY WILL BE UNUSUAL.

The primary this year will be unusual, from the fact that it will be necessary to vote direct on candidates for chief judge to succeed Judge James Alfred Pearce, candidates for Congress, and delegates to the national conventions. Both parties will be required to enter the primary on the same day, separate ballot boxes and separate ballots of different colors to be provided for each party with official envelopes to correspond.

The new law provided for a sitting of the registration officers throughout the county five days before the primary election for the purpose of revising the registration books by adding new voters, giving transfers, etc., so that fair and full opportunity may be afforded to all voters duly qualified to take part in the primary election.

SUICIDE BY DROWNING

Mind Unbalanced by Worry and Trouble the Cause of Mail Clerk McCracken's Sad Fate

The body of William S. McCracken, mail clerk on the Pennsylvania Railroad, between Chestertown and Townsend, Del., was found in Chester river Saturday morning tied by the arm to a pile on the end of the Chestertown Light and Power Company's wharf. The body was discovered by a colored deck hand on a barge at the wharf, who says that he heard a splash in the water between 2 and 6 o'clock Saturday morning. The colored man notified Charles Johnson, keeper of the wharf, and he notified the authorities and Coroner John H. Greenwood. An inquest, with Harry R. Graham as foreman of the jury, was held and a verdict of suicide by drowning was rendered. The deceased was about 65 years of age and was a native of North East, Cecil county. For some weeks past Mr. McCracken had been much worried by the critical condition of his daughter. He and his daughter had resided here for sometime, and to her he was devotedly attached. Her condition of mind is believed to have unnerved the old gentleman and while in this condition he planned to take his life. He took great care to tie his arm to the wharf piling in order to prevent his body being washed down stream by the tide. The remains were taken in charge by Undertaker Hicks and they were shipped to his former home in North East on Sunday afternoon for burial. The deceased is survived by a daughter, at present in a sanitarium, and a son living in California. He also leaves a brother living in North East. The deceased has left a comfortable estate.

Armand R. Valliere, left end man in Guy Brothers' Minstrels, was arrested March 9th and sentenced to 11 days in jail Wednesday for sending an improper letter through the mails to a young woman in Milford, Del. The case was worked up by Postoffice Inspector M. S. Plummer.

It is reporte that Mr. Wm. J. Rutter has disposed of his hotel business to a Virginia hotel man, who will take charge April 1.

THEY CAN TAKE THE GLORY.

Two hundred and ninety-four taxpayers, eighty-four of whom live in Chestertown, out of a total of some 2,000 tax-payers is stated by the Organization forces to be a sufficient excuse for refusing to reppeal a law, which forces upon the people of this county the most incompetent kind of road supervision. Scarcely a single provision of the law has been put in force by the Road Engineer. The only thing that has been done is to raise the daily wage from $1 a day under the old system to $1.50 a day under Gibbs, and this provision of the law has forced the farmers to pay their labor $1.50, and in some instances $2. The condition of the county roads is becoming worse every day, and the longer the present road supervision continues the heavier the tax-payers' burdens become, and there is coming a time in the not very distant future when the people of this county will be forced to pay thousands of dollars to repair the damage to our roads which the present management under this law has created. Mr. Beck can't hide himself behind a paltry 294 tax-payers, eight-ninths of whom are Organization adherents and the balance Republicans, with several exceptions. He knows the sentiment in this county is overwhelmingly against the retention of the present road management, and he is not catering to the vast majority of the tax-payers, when he refuses to pass a bill to relieve the people of incompetent service. He is catering to an Organization that squandered $43,000 of the tax-payers money on the roads in one year, and the very minute the people drove them from power in the commissioners' office, they made their plans to override the will of the people by the passage of a law through the Legislature that would enable them to retain control of the roads, and to spend $30,721.99 of the tax-payers money in the 18 months in which their law has been in force. Mr. Beck must take the responsibility for refusing to pass the bill. He knows how the people feel about this matter. He knows they don't want such service as they are getting, and he knows that in justice to the tax-payers this iniquitious law should be repealed. But no, the vision of a powerful influence, which would slip away from his Organization if he obeyed the demands of the people is haunting their dreams, and rather than lose that influence they are making a strong bid for it, and letting the vital interests of the people go. But lest we forget, Mr. Beck, the road patronage will not save you. Your Organization has paid the penalty of refusing to accede to the demands of the people before, and it will do it again. See if what we tell you doesn't come true.

Mr. Hudson Likes Western Life

Mr. Wm. J. Hudson, who, with his wife, recently removed to Plano, Ill., writes to a friend thus interestingly under date of March 17th: "My wife and I are both well. This is a great country out here. Sleighing all winter, two snows the past week, making sleighing splendid. We still have another week of ground-hog, after this I hope for good weather. I am on a farm, and have 80 head of cattle to feed. Hogs follow the cattle and get fat. We feed the cattle all winter, sell them in the spring, do not keep any cattle in summer, but raise corn, oats, hay. We buy more cattle in the fall, feed them grain and hay. They make the manure, which is used on the land, we do not use any fertilizer out here. The land is as black as it can be. I like it better every day. Hope soon to get a start in life. This is the place for a poor man. A young man can come here, get good wages and soon get a good start. Give my best regards to all who ask for me. Tell them if ever they come to Illinois to come to see me, and if there is a young man that wants to get a start, tell him to come west, go to work, save his money, and he can clear $200 a year easy working on a farm. I have not seen a negro out here. With best wishes.

WM. J. HUDSON,
Millington, R. R. 1.,
Kendell, Co., Ill."
