FOOD VALUE OF MILK.

Below find an extract from a paper prepared and read by Dr. James E. Russell, Dean of Columbia College, before the Eastern Guernsey Breeder's Association at their annual meeting held at the Continental Hotel, Philadelphia, February 24, 1912.

No one complains of the percentage of fat in Guernsey milk: the trouble is to get enough milk. Surely nothing is gained by setting up a 10,000 lb. standard hidden away in a set of rules and then publishing to the world the fact that 8,000 lbs. is the average production of the best Guernsey cows. If a man wants thin, white milk let him stick to the Holsteins; it may be interesting to feed three or four thousand pounds of water into a cow's milk yield, but it is less economical than to use the town pump. The latter method may be illegal, but in my state Guernseys are in demand to keep Holstein milk up to the legal requirements. No, the man that wants good yellow milk that can be produced economically is going to pin his faith to the Guernsey, and he will do it quite regardless of whether our standard for a mature cow is 10,000 lbs. of 3.6 per cent. milk; or 7,200 lbs. of 5 per cent. milk. In fact he wants 5 per cent. milk and that is what he gets when he gets Guernseys. We are shortsighted when we deny the facts and we are very foolish when we try for a higher percentage of fat at the sacrifice of the amount of milk. We stand or fall on 5 per cent. milk of the true Guernsey quality.

From the farmer's standpoint the production of milk is a commercial proposition. Success or failure depends on his market. If he sells milk, the more milk he has to sell the better, provided the cost of production does not outrun the quantity produced, if he sells butter fat the richer the milk the better, provided he can make no use of the skim milk. But milk is a food and from the consumer's point-of-view the value of milk should be determined by its food value. Custom, individual habit and personal taste all play a part in fixing the price that consumers will pay for any food product, but despite all bias the selling price of a food will be controlled by its value as a food, provided the supply and demand are normal. This is all the more true of those foods which are regarded as necessities, like flour, milk, eggs, meat and sugar.

The relative value of milk as a food is not generally appreciated at its true worth. It is popularly regarded as necessary for infants and desirable for children, but I fear it is not generally known that it is one of the cheapest foods for adults. As a people we spend our money for things that are not bread; we waste our substance on foods which do not do their share in sustaining life. The following table shows the equivalent of one quart of 4 per cent. milk in terms of the ordinary Protein Foods. Table showing relative values of important Protein Foods:

Material.	Amount.	Av. Cost in New York.
Chicken, canned	6.744 oz.	$0.21
Ham, smoked	8.95	0.159
Leg of lamb, lean	16.8	0.189
Round steak, lean	25.2	0.315
Halibut	23.68	0.37
Salmon steak	10.29	0.18
Eggs (eight)	16.77	0.247
Cheese, American	5.4	0 074
Milk, 4 per cent. fat	34.4	0.06

In addition to the above comparison, milk as it is used largely in its raw state, should be given credit for the expense of preparing the other materials, which will make still a greater difference in their compared food values.

The cheapness of milk as a food is still more marked if we consider the value of skim milk. Few people, whether producers or consumers, realize that when the cream is taken from the milk half of the food value remains behind. Pound for pound of skim milk is worth half as much as ordinary whole milk; to the consumer the solids-not-fat have the same value as the butter fat in 4 per cent. milk.

Cecil County's Sheriff Murdered.

Sheriff Myron Miller, of Cecil county, was shot down in cold blood on Saturday afternoon last at 2 15 o'clock by Tony Duke, a demented Italian, whom the sheriff employed as a laborer at the jail. The Sheriff ordered Duke to put some sawdust in the stable and Duke replied that he would not do so unless he got his money first. Sheriff Miller saw that Duke had a pistol, and he commanded Duke to give it up. Whereupon Duke shouted "I'll shoot you," and whipped the pistol from his pocket. Sheriff Miller grabbed Duke's arm, but in the scuffle Duke managed to pull the trigger. The ball entered the sheriff's body and lodged just below the heart. He died 15 minutes afterwards from internal hemorrhages. The shooting took place in the jail yard directly in front of the sheriff's wife who was standing in the door. She was prostrated by the terrible murder. The wounded man was hurried to Union Hospital in Elkton, but he died almost instantly. Duke was hurried to Baltimore on the five o'clock train to prevent possible lynching. Sheriff Miller was extremely popular in Cecil, and the people are justly incensed at his ruthless murder.

Prizes Offered.—Three prizes are offered by the Just Government League of Maryland for the best essays written on the subject of "Woman's Suffrage." A prize of $3 goes to the college student living in Kent county who hands in the best paper; one of $2, to the High School student whose home is in the same county, and $1 to the primary school pupil writing the best essay. Three good judges have been appointed and the contest will close about the middle of May. At that time Dr. Anna Shaw will address a meeting held in Chestertown and at that meeting the winners will be announced.

Young's old pier at Atlantic City, one of the most familiar sights of the Boardwalk, was completely destroyed by fire at midnight on Friday. The fire started in the dressing room of the auditorium, and four firemen were badly hurt during the fire.
