CIRCUIT COURT.

SATURDAY'S SESSION.

The grand jury finished its labors submitted its report and was discharged. The morning session was consumed in the hearing of two cases for violation of local option law, and one case for common assault. Martha Harris was acquitted on the charge of violating the local option law. Grover Greenwood was declared guilty for same offense and sentenced to 10 months in the House Correction. Court adjourned shortly after noon until 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

MONDAY'S SESSION.

The court room was filled to hear the case of State vs. Andrew W. Vansant. Much interest centered in the case on account of the prominence of the accused as well as because of the connection of a large number of business men of the First District with the notes alleged to be forgeries. There were 12 indictments. The first case tried was upon a note for $100, payable at the People's Bank, of Chestertown, upon which the names of C. S. Hurlock and Thomas C. Roe appeared as indorsers. Trial by jury. The testimony of these two gentlemen was interesting. Mr. Hurlock testified that he had no recollection of having signed the note in question, but that as he was on quite a great deal of paper it was a possible thing that he might have signed the note, though he had no recollection of ever having done so. Mr. Roe was more emphatic in his evidence. He stated that he never in all his life signed but one note for Mr. Vansant and that was a note for $125 on the Third National Bank and which was admitted as a part of the evidence. Mr. Roe stated that he knows he never signed a note on the People's Bank, and that he never saw the People's Bank note until it was shown him in the grand jury room. Mr. Vansant testified that both Mr Hurlock and Mr. Roe signed the note, and the defense sought to prove a similarity between the handwriting of Messrs. Hurlock and Roe on the note in question and on other notes that they admitted having signed. The case consumed the entire session and after argument it was given to the jury at 4 o'clock, and at 5.15 the jury returned to court with a verdict of not guilty.

TUESDAY'S SESSION.

Andrew W. Vansant was placed on trial again, charged with forging the name of E. L. Spear on note for $65, drawn on the Millington Bank. Mr. Spear testified that he had never signed a note of any kind for Mr. Vansant. He stated that the signature was not his on the note in question, and denied positively any knowledge of the note. Mr. John P. Ahern, president of the Millington Bank testified that he did not believe the signature was Mr. Spear's and that he believed the name to be a forgery. Mr. Ahern's testimony was corroborated by Mr. Joseph Mallalieu, cashier of the Millington Bank. Mrs. Vansant, wife of the accused, testified that Mr. Spear signed the note in question in her house in the presence of her and Mr. Vansant, and Mr. Vansant gave other testimony purporting to connect Mr. Spear with the fact. Spirited arguments were made by counsel on both sides. The jury rendered a verdict of not guilty. Mr. Vansant was finally released on his own recognizance. The original panel of petit jurors was exhausted in each trial, and the defense challenged a large number of talesmen before a jury in either case was selected.

MILLINERY

Easter week was a great week in millinery. We were all prepared, and hence could accommodate the trade. Many stylish novelties were entirely disposed of, but Miss Wheatley was in Philadelphia the first of this week, and really it looks like the season has just started---such is the splendid variety of the fill-ins. And, too, millinery was somewhat lower in price at wholesale houses, and of course you get your hat at a lower price on account of this large after-Easter purchase. Come and see for yourself.
