The Mail of this morning brought me your kind letter of the 17 – the good Mr. Malone was with me when it came to hand – the favorable change of weather, which took place yesterday, if it continue, a few days longer, will give me the pleasure of a visit from you – the Roads must be impassible at present but they will soon mend I am persuaded – I would advise you to come by the way of the Mouth of Monocacy, as the road lest turned & some less Catoctin – I shall be glad to see Mr Chew with you – William wrote me by the Mail of this day that he had offered to attend you also, I should be glad to see him also – I have not lately heard from John – the information you give of his being chosen one of the directors of the New Bank gives me pleasure I hope it will lead to good consequences –
I do not comprehend your meaning as to giving the New Bank on my property – it has not been
