WOMAN AND MAN LOSE LIVES FLYING

Miss Quimby and Manager of Meet Fall 1000 Feet.

BODIES DEEP IN THE MUD

Monoplane Is Upset by Gusty Wind and Famous Aviatress and Passenger Plunge Into Bay.

Miss Harriet Quimby, of New York, the first woman to win an aviator's license in America, and the first woman to cross the English channel in an aeroplane, was instantly killed with her passenger, W. A. P. Willard, manager of the Boston aviation meet, at Atlantic, near Boston, when her Berliot monoplane fell into Dorchester bay from a height of 1000 feet.

The accident happened when Miss Quimby and Willard were returning from a trip over the Boston harbor to Boston light, a distance of twenty miles. The flight was made in twenty minutes.

The Berliot, one of the latest models of military monoplanes, circled the aviation field and soared out over the Savin Hill Yacht club, just outside the aviation grounds.

Heading back into the eight mile gusty wind, Miss Quimby started to volplane. The angle was too sharp and one of the gusts caught the tail of the monoplane, throwing the machine up perpendicular.

For an instant it poised there. Then, sharply outlined against the setting sun, Willard was thrown or jumped clear of the chassis, followed almost immediately by Miss Quimby. Hurling over and over, the two figures shot downward, striking the water twenty feet from shore.

They splashed out of sight a second before the monoplane plunged down fifteen feet away.

It was low tide and the water was only five feet deep. Men from the yacht club in motor boats were on the spot quickly and, leaping overboard, dragged the bodies out of the mud, into which they had sunk deeply. Death probably was instantaneous.

Both bodies were badly crushed. Several of Miss Quimby's bones were broken and there were many large bruises. Willard, who weighed 190 pounds, hit the water face first and over one eye there was a gash from which the blood was flowing. He, too, sustained several fractures and bruises. The cothing of both was torn and the bodies were covered with mud.

Flying high overhead at the time of the fall was Miss Blanche Stuart Scott, another aviatress, taking part in the meet, which had entered upon its second day.

From her high altitude Miss Scott had watched Miss Quimby's splendied flight and was nearby when the gust upset the monoplane. In the excitement of the moment no one noticed the lone aviatrice, but when Miss Quimby's body was brought ashore all eyes were directed aloft and Miss Scott was seen making sweeping circles over the field at a height of about 500 feet.

Twice she started to descend, but each time she was seen to falter. In another moment, summoning all her nerve, she turned the nose of her machine downward and landed safely, collapsing in her seat before anyone could reach her.

Girl Swallows Poison After Quarrel.

A young woman named Harding, a resident of Wilmington, Del., after a quarrel with her sweetheart, swallowed poison and was found unconscious at her boarding house. She was taken to the Delaware hospital, where it is feared she cannot recover.

A Religious Innovation.

A certain well brought up little girl who lives in the near vicinity of Rittenhouse square yawned at the breakfast table last Sunday morning and ventured a polite proposition to her mother.

"I really don't feel at all like going to church this morning," she remarked. "Can't we just send cards?"—Philadelphia Times.

Humility is a virtue all preach, none practice and yet everybody is content to hear.—Selden.

The Telephone in Planting Time

In the early Spring, when the plowing, the cultivating and the sowing are going on, telephone on the farm will work wonders for you.

If there are hands to hire, fertilizers or seeds to buy, new parts for the farm machinery to order—the telephone will get them for you in double-quick time. It will serve a hundred purposes with tremendous savings in energy, time and trouble.

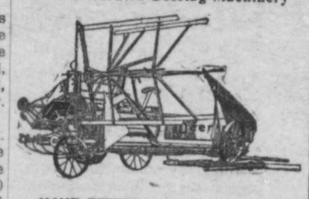

If you're not convinced, write this very evening for our new booklet "What Uncle Sam Says about the Rural Telephone." It's free and it's mighty interesting.
