class go cautiously into them; but if their real Estates are thrown into the Hands; and if all classes freely indulge in their intoxicating facilities where shall we find safety to the home of health?

I will not enlarge on this subject. I have already extended the letter beyond my original purpose, but as I wrote only for your own inspection, your judgment and reflection will supply what I have omitted and correct the errors into which I may have fallen.

I pray you to give my best respects to your neighbour, my good friend Lee, when you see him; and be assured of the sentiments of esteem and regard entertained for yourself by

Your ob. Serv.

H. Clay

C. Worsley Esq