SMITH BLOCKS GRAIN BILL

Federal Inspection Objectionable to Maryland Senator.

Senator John Walter Smith, of Maryland, stood in the way of the passage Saturday through the Senate of the House bill authorizing the Federal government to inspect and grade all grain handled at the port of Baltimore or elsewhere, if moved in inter-State commerce, according to a Sun Bureau dispatch. This measure had been bitterly opposed for two years by the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce and other grain interests.

When the House bill came up, unanimous consent was asked for its passage. The Maryland Senator jumped to his feet and interposed a vigorous objection. He let his associates understand that the inspection bill would never become a law with his consent. By this act the measure goes over until December and may not be again taken up until a new Congress is elected.

"This bill," said Senator Smith, "is most iniquitous. It places our grain business under Federal control without the remotest reason. It intrudes upon the right of a State or a trading community to inspect and grade its own grain. It is paternalism of the worst form and I shall lose no opportunity of obstructing its passage."

The passage of this bill is directly in the interest of the farmers of the State who have been complaining in the bitterest terms about the methods of inspecting grain in Baltimore. Senator Smith's objection is in the interest of the Baltimore Chamber of Commerce, which is responsible in a great measure for the method of grain inspection in Baltimore, which has been proven by experience to be detrimental to the farmers' interest. This is legislation in the interest of the masses against the classes, and Senator Smith is as usual with the classes against the masses.

BETTERTON.

The season is at its height and Kent's popular resort, at the head of the Chesapeake, continues to be a favorite abode for city folk, who occupy every available room at the hotels and cottages.

The delightful weather of the past week has made the conditions ideal for the thorough enjoyment of Betterton's pleasure.

The camping parties along the beautiful shores of the Sassafras and Chesapeake are enjoying an ideal life. The weather is perfect, and the waters are delightful for bathing, boating and fishny.

The Amity Camping Club, of Philadelphia, has just broken camp after having pitched camp one mile below here for the thirty-first time. This club visited Betterton when there were only six homes and a store.

The Lowrie Hunting and Fishing Club, of Pittsburgh, have their full quota of members in camp now. There are 80 members in this club, and they are having a jolly time. They have their brass band and orchestra and a dance floor for the use of the members.

Fishing has been fine the past week. Captain William Alven has had Honorable George Uhler, of Washington, out for several days and they caught lots of fish.

Misses Harmon and Warfield, of Harmans, Md., were out last Friday with Captain Crew and caught three baskets of perch.

Captain Clarence Crew had Messrs. Israel and Goody Rosenfeld, of Baltimore, out on Thursday and caught 24 fine rock and some perch.

Hon. George Uhler, supervising inspector of steam vessels, and son, of Washington, D. C., have been guests during the week at Hotel Chesapeake.

Miss Ellora Pardis, of Stockton, Md., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Owens, at Cliffholme.

Mr. Henry Braun, of Baltimore, has been a guest at Hotel Betterton, the past week.

Col. A. L. Ainscow, of Wilmington, has been stopping at Hotel Chesapeake. The Colonel has his special boat along and is ready to meet all comers in the Chesapeake.

GOV. WILSON ON LOCAL OPTION.

Takes a Sound View on the Liquor Question in a Letter to a Friend.

In the campaign so far there have been constant rumors that Governor Wilson wished to avoid going to Maine on account of his fear that a decision to take firm ground on the liquor question, which is one of the chief issues there, would tangle him up in a general "wet" and "dry" imbroglio throughout the country.

Here is the letter in which Governor Wilson removed all doubts as to his exact standing on the question:

"I am in favor of local option. I am a thorough believer in local self-government and believe that every self-governing community which constitutes a social unit should have the right to control the matter of regulation or the withholding of licenses. But the questions involved are social and moral, and are not susceptile of being made part of a party program. Whenever they have been made the subject matter of party contests they have cut the lines of party organization and party action athwart, to the utter confusion of political action in every other field. They have thrown every other question, however important, into the background and have made constructive party action impossible for long years together.

"So far as I myself am concerned, therefore, I can never consent to have the question of local option made an issue between political parties in this State.

"My judgment is very clear in this matter. I do not believe party programs of the highest consequence to the political life of the State and of the nation ought to be thrust on one side and hopelessly embarrassed for long periods together by making a political issue of a great question which is essentially non-political, non-partisan, moral and social in its nature."

Samuel Jones, an aged colored man, living near Middletown, Del., died at his home on Monday, after a lingering illness of several months. Jones was about 72 years of age and leaves a large family of sons and daughters. His wife died several years ago. Jones was one of the best known colored men in New Castle county and was always highly respected. He was very industrious and saving, owning several nice farms.

How Wilson Regards Politics.

In a masterly address to the farmers of New Jersey in particular and to those of the whole country in general last Thursday, Governor Wilson made this striking statement. Every farmer in the State should read it:

"I am interested in politics, not as a search for office, but as a great contest devoted to something very definite and practical indeed. Politics ought not to be considered as a mere occasion for oratory. Politics ought to be considered as a branch of the national business, and a man who talks politics ought to tell his fellow citizens very distinctly what he thinks about their affairs and what his own attitude toward them is.

"Here we are at a farmers' picnic, and on this day I suppose we might say that the farmers occupy the centre of the stage. When did the farmers ever occupy the centre of the stage in our politics? I don't remember any time. I have seen the interests of a great many classes specially regarded in legislation, but I must frankly say that I have seldom seen the interests of the farmer regarded in legislation. And one of the greatest impositions upon the farmer of this country that has ever been devised is the present tariff legislation of the United States.

GETS OFF A NEW EPIGRAM.

"I have not heard of farmers waiting for a hearing before the Committee on Ways and Means of the House and the Finance Committee of the Senate in order to take part in determining what the tariff schedules should be. While you were feeding the world Congress was feeding the trusts. Nobody doubts what the process of tariff has been, because everybody who has been curious enough to inquire knows what the process of tariff legislation has been.

"It is a long time since tariffs were made by men who even supposed that they were seeking to serve the general interest, because tariffs are not made by the general body of members of either house of Congress. They have in the past been made by very small groups of individuals in certain committees of those houses, who even refused information to their fellow members as to the basis upon which they had acted in framing the schedules.

CHANGES IN THE FOOTBALL RULES.

Some Important Innovations Will go Into Effect Next Fall.

Several changes have been made in the football rules for this season, summarized as follows:

First—The playing field, now 110 yards in length, will be shortened to an even 100 yards. The change in itself is not vital, but it is made in order to make possible on small grounds an extension of territory in which the forward pass may be used.

Second—A zone of 10 yards width beyond the goal lines is established. A purpose of this is to provide ample space for the execution of the forward pass, and scoring on a pass made across the goal line into this one is permitted.

Third—The number of downs to gain 10 yards is increased from three to four.

Fourth—The on-side kick is eliminated.

Fifth—The value of a touchdown is increased from five to six] points, the goal from touchdown and other scores standing as at present.

Sixth—The 20 yards zone, in which the present rules now provide restrictions to interfere with the forward pass, is eliminated so that the restrictions will apply to any part of the field.

Seventh—After a touchdown the ball will be put in play from the 20 yard line instead of the 25 yard line.

Eighth—On a kick-off the ball, instead of being put in play in the centre of the field will be put in play from the 40 yard line of the team kicking off. Taking into consideration the shortening of the field and this change in the rules the kick-off is lengthened by five yards.

Ninth—The field judge is eliminated. The head linesman hereafter will keep time and be the judge of off-side plays in the line of scrimmage.

Tenth—The number of men allowed on the side lines, now three, will be reduced to one for each team.

Eleventh—Provisions will be made that a bounding ball cannot score a legitimate goal.

Twelfth—The interval between the first and the second and the third and the fourth periods is reduced from two minutes to one minute.

Mr. James T. Hurlock Makes Good.

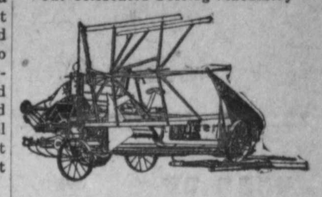

Mr. James T. Hurlock and wife, formally of this locality, but now of Wilmington, Delaware, are here for a week's visit with his sisters, Mrs. J. L. Price and Mrs. John Archibald. Mr. Hurlock is a self-made man, and by his own indomitable energy and strict integrity has arisen to a leading position with the Home Health Society of Philadelphia, Baltimore and New York, with whom he is connected. Mr. Hurlock started with this house at the foot of the ladder, a few years ago, but he now occupies a position as their head field manager. It is needless to add that he is accumulating property, both real estate and personal, at a rapid rate. Mr. Hurlock handles thousands of dollars of the funds of the society, without a line of written agreement, or any bond or security, so great is their confidence in his honesty and absolute uprightness in dealing with his fellow man. The hundreds, yes, thousands of people, who have met and done business with Mr. Hurlock are his friends, everywhere, and they are all boosting for his continued increase of success and advancement.
