ANCIENT SHREWSBURY.

BY PERCY G. SKIRVEN, IN SUNDAY SUN.

On the country road that leads to Galena from the village of Kennedyville, in the upper part of Kent county, stands Shrewsbury Church, the one reminder to the passerby of the struggles of the early settlers, who were "Protestants according to the Church of England." Associated with this old church, built in 1832, are most interesting events of the early history of this part of the Province of Maryland.

WHEN JOHN SMITH SAILED DOWN.

Long before George Calvert, the first Lord Baltimore, received (1632) from his friend, the King of England, the charter to the Province of Maryland; long before Capt. William Claiborne, the stanch Episcopalian, received (1627) his "commission" for establishing a settlement on Kent Island, which commission gave him the right to trade with the Indians for the fur of beaver, Wolves and otter; 19 years before Captain Claiborne came up the Chesapeake from Jamestown, Capt. John Smith (he of the Pocahontas story known to every school child), after discovering the Susquehanna river (1608) sailed down from the mouth of that river along the eastern side of the bay. Upon reaching the river now known as the Sassafras he gave it the name of "Tockwogh" in honor of the tribe of Indians of that name he found living on its southern banks. In his report of his voyage up the bay he states: "On the eastern side of the bay is the river Tockwogh, and upon it a people that can make one hundred men (warriors) seated some seven myles within the river, where they have a fort very well pallizadoed and mantelled with barks of trees. Entering the river Tockwogh, the salvages all armed in a fleete of boats, after their barbarous manner, round invironed us; so it chanced one of them could speake the language of Powhatan, who persuaded the rest to a friendly parley—they conducted us their pallizandoed towne mantelled with the barkes of trees, with scaffold like mounts brested about with brests very formally." (See Bozman's History of Maryland.)

For nearly five years after the erection of Shrewsbury parish there was no regular minister in charge. In 1697 the Rev. Richard Sewell was sent by Gov. Francis Nicholson with the following letter to the vestrymen:

Gentlemen:

The Bearer hereof is the Reverend Mr. Richard Sewell, who is sent by the Rt. Hon'ble & Rt. Reverend Father in God, Henry, Lord Bishop of London, in order to officiate as a clergyman of the Church of England in this his Majesty's Province of Maryland. I do therefore in his Majesty's name appoint the Sd Mr. Rich'd Sewell to officiate as Clergyman of the Church of England in the two parishes of Cecil county, called North & South Sassafras parishes by reason that there are but few Taxables in both Parishes & not Clergymen enough to supply each of them.

Given under my hand and seal at the Port of Annapolis the 23d Day of June in the nineth year of the Reign of our Soverign Lord William the Third by the Grace of God of England, Scottland, France & Ireland King defender of the Faith & Ca., Annoq. Domini 1697.

Sign:d) FR. NICHOLSON.

To the vestrymen of North & South Sassafras Parishes in Cecil county.

While the Rev. Mr. Sewell was the first rector sent by the Governor to these parishes, there had been services held in Shrewsbury parish by the Rev. Mr. Lawrence Vanderbush, then rector of St. Paul's parish in Kent. Mr. Vanderbush went to St. Paul's in September, 1693-4, and he had held service at least once a month in Shrewsbury parish during the last year of his life, 1696, and very probably from the first year that he went to St. Paul's.

TOO MUCH WORK FOR ONE MAN.

It was shortly after the death of Mr. Vanderbush that Mr. Sewell went to Shrewsbury, and, as the work was hard and the two parishes so large, he found it more than he could do alone. In the church records of St. Paul's parish there appear items showing that the Rev. Mr. Stephen Bordley, who was sent as rector of that (St. Paul's) parish in 1697, assisted the Rev. Mr. Sewell in the work by holding services at Shrewsbury church on the first Sunday in each month during the years of 1699 and 1606. It is very probable that this arrangement lasted from the time of Mr. Bordley going to St. Paul's.

From the two mother parishes of St. Paul's and Shrewsbury in the year 1765 Chester parish was erected and a church built for that parish at the present site of Christ Church, "I. U." Its "Chapel of Ease" was built at Chestertown where the present Emmanuel Church now stands. It is authoritatively stated that the chapel at Chestertown was made the "church" of Chester parish about the year 1809,-"I. U." becoming the "Chapel of Ease."

Within the churchyard at Shrewsbury, now inclosed with a handsome and substantial iron fence, are to be seen the graves of many distinguished colonists, of rectors who have laid down here to rest when their work on earth was finished and of the sturdy settlers who were none the less valuable as citizens as well as churchmen. To-day their descendats point with pride to these mute evidences of their ancestors, who, through courage and energy, carved out of the wilderness both fortune and fame to be handed down to succeeding generations.

In looking through the old records of the parish the following names are to be seen prior to 1780: Angier, Blackiston, Burgan, Blay, Browning, Boyer, Brooks, Bellikin, Baird, Black, Briscoe, Comegys, Christian, Campbell, Cole, Chandler, Cadwalader, Clark, Crew, Cosden, Clayton, Cooper, Dinning, Day, De Brewster, Dunnington, Donaldson, Davis, Eccleston, Evans, Fisher, French, Freeman, Forrester, Gale, Gleaves, Hall, Hopkins, Hynson, Holdman, Hudson, Hepbron, Howard, Hailes, Hicks, Hull, Hanson, Haley, Hatchison, Hazel, Hurtt, Ireland, Jones, Jobson, Johnson, Knock, Kenton, Keating, Lowe, Latham, Middleton, Medford, Merritt, Milborn, Massey, Mansfield, Maffitt, Norris, Pearce, Perkins, Page, Piner, Redgrave, Ridson, Rasin, Reed, Reyner, Rogers, Riley, Sewell, Smothers, Skeggs, Spencer, Stoops, Sutton, Smith, Symonds, Tillton, Tilden, Truelock, Wallis, Wilson, Waite, Wilmer, Woodland, Wethered, Wright and Yeates.

The first vestry was composed of the following "freeholders": William Harris, Edward Blay, William Pearce, William Elmes, Edward Skidmore and George Skirten.

The present vestrymen of the parish are: E. B. Pennington, John M. Comegys, William R. Crow, E. B. Pennington, Jr., A. T. Dushane, J. Herman Ireland, William Janvier and Harry Todd.

Rev. H. W. Robinson, is the rector and Mr. William Janvier is the registrar.

CHOLERA LOSS $350,000.

Hog Disease Cost Farmers That Much Yearly, Says Board.

An investigation of hog cholera by the State Live Stock Sanitary Board and by Dr. Louis Hickman, State Veterinarian, shows that the annual loss to the farmers of Maryland from this disease is about $350,000 a year.

The report was prepared by Mr. Harry P. Skipper, president of the board, who has made an exhaustive study of hog cholrea for several years.

In discussing the disease and hog raising in the State Mr. Skipper states that according to the Government census there were on the farms in this State on January 1, 1912, 345,000 hogs having a farm value of $2,760,000.

Because of the heavy loss from the disease the board has issued a bullentin informing the farmers of methods for the eradication, control and treatment of cholrea. In part, it is as follows:

"To prevent hog cholrea it is necessary to keep the germ of the disease away from hogs. This germ is transported from farm to farm mechanically in the bodies of sick hogs, on the feet of persons and also by horses, cows, sheep, birds and poultry. Hogs should be protected from these sources of infection.

"If there is any cholera in a section, hogs should not be turned out on fields along public roads, or in fields which have streams or branches running through infected farms until all the danger of infection has passed. In case of an outbreak the farmer or owner should separate the sick from the healthy and at once use the serum treatment. Hogs that die of cholera should be buried deep and all litter and bedding collected and burned.

"Sheds and hog pens should be whitewashed and a strong disinfectant used. Slop and feed troughs should be scalded and disinfected. Lime should be scattered liberally about the premises."

The State law makes it unlawful for any person to expose or place in contact hogs infected with a contagious disease with healthy hogs.
