My dear Sir

I wrote you on Monday. I had that I should be back from Canada on Tuesday. – I find that that will be impossible – as I have been detained by snow storms & have only reached this place in four days instead of one, the usual time, for Twenty six hours we were imbedded in snow drifts from five to ten feet deep & without food or water, but plenty of snow, of course to answer for the latter.

I expect to reach Toronto to-morrow & shall endeavour to get back by Thursday or Friday. I write this to let you know of my detention & to prevent disappointment if you have written to me for any information. Any letters which I may find on my return will be
