imagine how excited Father is.
How is Aunt Horsey? She must have been very lonesome while you were all away. I expect she was delighted when you made your appearance yesterday on Monday. My cold, I am glad to say, is almost entirely well. I hope you will not worry yourself about the plans for enjoyment after the wedding. I shall be quite contented to go from Baltimore to Redwood. I daresay it would be better to speak to Mr Sourin instead of Father Tipper, but of course you ought to consult your own wishes about it — I dont think the priest makes much difference, if you will only go to one of them.
Poor Carrie! her engagement was broken off forever on Saturday, by her Father, & she was taken to Washington in a state of insensibility on Monday. I heard that on Sunday she was very ill — she will not return to Balt. for three months. I think it was very cruel in Mr Jenkins to break her heart by making them separate, after he had allowed her to remain engaged to Mr O'Donnell for so long a time. That is all the news I can find to tell you. Do write on Friday as you promised, and say you will be here on Saturday. With my best love to dear Aunt Horsey, Cousin Ella & Eliza —

I am as ever yours most devotedly
Anna.
