Police sit by at settle-up of Portia Perry production

PHILADELPHIA — A uniformed policeman sat outside the office door of the Idle Acres Personalized Writers Service in the Ivy Hall Apartments, Friday night. Inside, the principal figures were thrashing out "who owed who money" from the Portia Perry spectacular production at the Met Theatre the previous Monday which starred Mahalia Jackson.

Miss Jackson herself had remained in town until the day before the significant "closed door" discussion.

UNTIL THE wee hours the business discussion went on. The tickets, expenses, disbursements, collections, were checked and rechecked.

Some 200 advanced sale tickets of the 3,500 printed were unaccounted for, but there was no evidence of any dishonesty.

The discussion pointed up that some unfortunate business transactions had taken place at Miss Perry's home in the absence of and without the knowledge of some of the most important principals connected with the affair.

Miss Perry apologized for this situation and promised that the still unpaid workers would receive the money due them this week.

To show their confidence and good faith in her, the gathering voted as gift to her an appreciation party this month.

The program in commemoration of Miss Perry's second anniversary in the field of radio gospel song presentations, was jointly sponsored by her and Otis Jackson, a veteran promoter.

Their contract stipulated that all receipts for expenses were to be handled through Miss Dorothy Battle who operates the Idle Acres Services.

Miss Battle had handled financial transactions, some promotional work and script writing for the show.

In addition to Mahalia Jackson, the program featured the Soul Stirrers, the Tomlin Choir, the North Philadelphia Juniors, the Norfolk Four and little Sandra Peyton.

IMMEDIATELY following the musical production, Miss Battle was told that a meeting would be held at her office to settle up the business matters.

Miss Perry had the cash box with her. A friend of hers had the tickets. Miss Perry asked Miss Battle to ride over with Mr. Jackson. Mr. Jackson said that his car was loaded.

So, having the tax, theatre rent, and other operating expense receipts in her possession, Miss Battle walked over to her office. With her were some of the performers and one of the box office ticket sellers.

The group waited in the office until 3 a.m., three hours after the performance ended, but got no word from Miss Perry or Mr. Jackson.

Miss Battle heard nothing from Miss Perry for the next four days, trying repeatedly in the meantime to reach her by phone, she said. She also sent messages to Miss Perry thru Mr. Jackson and other persons who had contact with Miss Perry.

On Thursday night, Miss Battle decided to force a meeting between the two. She wrote Miss Perry a letter declaring:

"I deeply resent and am extremely hurt by the erroneous reports resulting from Monday night's business transactions and your deliberate failure to give me the common courtesy of a phone call since that time.

"I am also resentful of your attempt to cover up the mistakes made by you and others involved.

"NOW, I must demand that you contact me so that this unfortunate situation can be cleared. If my demand is not adhered to, I see no alternative than to notify the legal authorities."

A copy of the letter was sent to Miss Pehlly's radio station employer.

On Friday morning, the radio executive invited Miss Battle and other persons concerned with the show to come to the station. Both Miss Perry and Mr. Jackson were present.

This discussion set the stage for the meeting Friday night at Miss Battle's office, when all the participating groups and workers were asked to send a representative.

The meeting was set for 9:30 p.m. At 10:30, they were all outside on Stiles St. with the uniformed policeman asking that "you all try to get together."

Miss Perry sat on a nearby fire hydrant with the box of tickets at her feet. She declined to go inside the office, but changed her mind when told that a photographer was being called to make a picture of the street meeting.

In attendance when the "closed door" meeting got underway were Miss Perry, Mr. Jackson, Miss Battle, Mrs. Mildred O'Neill and Miss Marilyn Zeigler, who had handled box office sales and some clerical duties.

Also Alexander Eddy, manager of the Norfolk Four; Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson who had made a substantial loan to Miss Perry to help launch the show; Mrs. Marie Barton who had made a loan to Mr. Jackson; his secretary, Miss Marian Whitehead; and two members of the North Philadelphia Juniors.

CHECKING OF the figures revealed that certain cash payments had been made on the night of the concert at a meeting held in Miss Perry's home while Miss Battle and other associates were waiting at Miss Battle's office.

These included repayment of the loan from the Robinsons and partial repayment to Mr. Jackson for Mrs. Barton.

Previously, some monies had been paid to some of the performers and partial payment had been made of the $2,000 due Miss Mahalia Jackson. Also, several operating expenses had been paid.

Miss Battle contended that the money borrowed by Miss Perry and Mr. Jackson were personal loans, and should have been repaid from their personal profits, only after total receipts and expenses had been checked.

But with the business transactions having been handled otherwise, some of the performers, Miss Battle, the box office ticket sellers, and some operating expenses were left unpaid.

Even after the "mutual understanding" meeting, Miss Battle says she is not wholly satisfied.

She said, "It was just fortuitate that the situation backfired, and upon my demand dor a showdown, was brought into the open."

TOURIN' TURNERS STATION

By E. S. McDANIEL

THE AFRO — AMERICAN Clean Block Campaign will be extended to Turner Station this year.

A public meeting was held at the Sollers Point High School on Monday.

It is a wonderful thing to have your block judged the most beautiful block of the community! Will your block win a flag? It can happen if you make up your mind to have the most attractive block and the cleanest block.

If is going to take the combined work of everyone in a block for the block to win. Have you picked up all the trash that is scattered around your property? Have you cut the grass in your yard? Have you thought of doing a little painting about your home? Did you planted a few flowers? Did you think to plant a few grass seeds on that bare spot in your yard so that the grass will cover the entire yard and will look pretty when you cut it?

Are all of the blinds, shades and curtains at the windows hanging evenly?

You might be interested to know that Day Village has started already to get this place in the competition for the best of the contest. Those of us who have just started had better "play catch up and get busy." Turner Sta. will have fun together this summer. Let's make our community a place we can be proud to have people come from Baltimore and from other places to see it. They will no doubt ask us, "Did you know that there will be judges coming to the community and we want to show them that we are improving our community?"

Did you also know that children will get in contains for block? Won't it be fun for our children to get out in the yard and have a ball picking among the flowers? It will be very enjoyable for the young people to work together on this interesting activity.

Do you remember how the gardens of Baltimore City looked? Wouldn't you like to see Turner Sta. work that they do? Would you like to have your picture in the paper so that many people may see you? It is up to you.

THE REV. E. L. BRODIE of Lewisburg, W. Va., was the speaker at the New Shiloh Baptist Church — on Sunday morning. He is pastor of Mitchell Baptist Church, Sunday School at the Shiloh Baptist Church of Arcola, N.C.

The Rev. Mr. Brodie is a graduate of the Theological Division of Shaw University. Presently, he is married and two children are visiting his wife's sister, Mrs. Willie Evans of 1731 Darley Ave., in Baltimore.

The Rev. James A. Everett, pastor of New Shiloh Baptist Church, has conducted services for the Rev. Mr. Brodie in North Carolina.

THE SECOND Annual Community Church Association Field Day under the auspices of the Turner Station Recreational Council and the YMCA will be held Saturday, June 21, at 1:30 p.m. at the Sollers Point High School on the well equipped track.

The affair is open to all churches of the Patapsco area. There will be dashes and relay races. Each contestant may enter two events and one relay. The special feature of the day will be a 30 yd. dash for ministers only.

Last year, the Rev. David D. Banks pastor of the Greater St. John Baptist Church won the race with the greatest of ease. He fairly left all of the other contestants trailing in the rear.

Who will win the contest this year? I overheard a certain minister say that he is a pretty good man on the track and he is able to show some people just how to travel on a track.

Wouldn't you like to see some of these ministers running? They can do a pretty good job of exercising their limbs according to what I saw last year. I enjoyed seeing them complete with each other. Don't miss the fun that is in store for you.

Sunday was "Men's Day" at the New Shiloh Baptist Church. James Smith is chairman and Deacon Andrew Wynn is co-chairman for the day.

WILLIE ROULHAC, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Roulhac of 2 Hendricks Court, is now at the Johns Hopkins Hospital. Willie is on Halstead 2. I am sure that he will appreciate hearing from his friends. He has asked to be remembered in prayer, please don't forget him.

Willie became a victim of rheumatic fever in early childhood and missed the school like most of the other children, but had to be taught at home by a home teacher for a number of years.

Mrs. Lillie Simon is able to be out after being at a cheerful spell of illness at the Hopkins Hospital.

THE FIRST alumni class reunion was held at the Sollers Point High School. All classes from 1949 through 1957 were represented.

The class of 1950 presented the school a Hebrew-point of lecture. Bible with a plaque bearing the signatures of the officers of the class engraved in it.

The officers of the class were: Norman C. Driver, president; Eddie L. Barber, vice president; Mrs. Ethel C. Williams, recording secretary; Shirley M. Strong, corresponding secretary; Clarence Davis, treasurer; Beth Ezell, assistant treasurer; John H. Brown, sergeant-at-arms; John J. Martin, business manager; Mildred Neal, assistant business manager.

The Alumni Association conducted an interesting program after which the class assembled for a social hour. Among the guests at the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop Yeon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Fletcher, is principal.

THE FAMILY LIFE Discussion Group of the Turner Elementary School presented a program for the PTA on Monday night. Original skits were given to show how energy out put plays a very important role in the behavior of children. Mrs. Ruth Ruddix is chairman of the group.

Commencement at Carver High School, Towson was impressive as is indicated by the theme: — A Tribute to Carver — The School and the Man. The students did a very fine job of rendering their respective parts of the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Blackwell and son of 139 Carver Rd. were in Nashville, Tenn. to greet Mrs. Blackwell's sister, Miss DeBorah Covington, upon her graduation from Tennessee State A. and I. University on June 2.

The Blackwells joined other members of their family, in N.C. then motored on to Nashville where they spent a pleasant week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. West and other friends of Miss Covington.

Miss Covington received her B.S. degree in business education.

The Charleteers of Turner Station went to Crownsville State Hospital on Saturday, carrying gifts and treats to the patients. Cars left from the home of Mrs. Alston, 820 N. Avondale Rd., Mrs. Izetta Allen, secretary, Mrs. Lillian Lawrence, treasurer.

MRS. GRACE SCALES, Jubber, Jasper and George, Mr. Daniel of New York, City visiting the parents and other relatives of their brother, Harold Mc. Daniel of Walnut Avenue to be with their mother, Mrs. Mary Eliza McDaniel, Appomattox, Va.

Miss Mary Schuyler of 102 East Street has returned to her home after spending some time at the Johns Hopkins Hospital. We hope for her a speedy recovery.
