200 hail Mattie White Ashton, retired teacher, at testimonial

An enthusiastic group of 200 former pupils, co-workers and friends honored Mrs. Mattie White Ashton, last night (Thursday).

The testimonial in her honor was held at St. Mary's Church auditorium.

Mrs. Ashton retired last month after 47 years as a Baltimore teacher—30 of them as physical education instructor at Booker T. Washington Junior High No. 139.

The testimonial was sponsored by a committee headed by a former pupil — Miss Charlotte E. Williams, now a library assistant at Morgan State College.

Mrs. Mary West Jones, Douglass High School teacher, presided.

TRIBUTES were paid by Dr. Elmon Vinier, director of health and physical education in the schools; Raynor Parker, principal of Booker T. Washington Junior High.

Also, Mrs. Irma G. Dixon, civic worker and businesswoman, representing the community; the Rev. Marcus G. Wood, pastor of Providence Baptist Church, where Mrs. Ashton has been active for many years;

And, Mrs. Bettye M. Phillips, AFRO executive, who first suggested such a testimonial in her column, "If You Ask Me;" and Mrs. Zelma Cole Brown, representing her former pupils.

DINNER music was supplied by W. Meredith Birche Jr., teacher of music in the schools, and a trio called the Baltimore Cubanoes.

They were: William Land, Richard Richardson and Charles Stith.

Additional music included special solos by Irvin Bryan, teacher at School No. 160 and Miss Jacqueline Johnson, teacher at School No. 116. They also gave a touching duet "We Love You Truly."

There were also harp and violin numbers by two teen-age cousins of the honoree, Egbert Lawrence, 15, and Sarah Lawrence, 14, of New York.

A HIGHLIGHT of the program was a series of dance dedrations to Mrs. Ashton pantomimed, by Miss Gwendolyn Biddle, well-known dance instructor; and by Mrs. Estelena Birche Showes and Mrs. Margaret Byrd Mallory, both Douglass teachers, all of whom wore appropriate dance costumes.

For the numbers, by Mrs. Showes and Mrs. Mallory, both former pupils of Mrs. Ashton's, music was by Mr. Birche, who gave suitable comment.

The numbers they did were those they first learned in the honoree's dance classes. Mr. Birche was the accompanist then.

The committee presented Mrs. Ashton with a polaroid land camera and there were talks from the David Lee Over Service Club by Mrs. Frederick I. Scott; the Tuesday Library Art and Craft Club, by Mrs. M. Young.

IN HER response, Mrs. Ashton said in part: "Thank you seems so small . . . but I am deeply grateful . . . .

"I didn't know I had done so much to merit all of this . . . It has been a most pleasant occasion . . . . I am deeply grateful . . . ."

Greetings were acknowledged from former students, including Helen Thomas of Evansville, Ind. and Yvonne Thomas Thompson of Los Angeles; State Senator Harry A. Cole; Dr. John H. Fischer, superintendent; and Dr. Houston R. Jackson, assistant superintendent of schools.

THERE WERE special poetry readings by the toastmistress Mrs. Jones. The invocation was by the Rev. Mr. Wood and the benediction by the Rev. William Tapscott, pastor, Morning Star Baptist Church, Catonsville.

In addition to Miss Williams, Mr. Birche, and Mrs. Phillips, other members of the testimonial committee were:

Mesdames Elizabeth A. Edmonds, Gertrude Norris, Barbara Bennett, Dazee C. Rawlings, Myrtle Cole, Marzia K. Stokes and Milford E. Jefferson, the caterer.—B.M.P.

music and a gaily decorated foyer, set aside for dancing.

The dining room was set up with tables, each table presided over by a hostess. Assortments of hors d'oeuvres and a punch chip dip was on each table—along with sippables.

The dip had been prepared by Mae Chamberlain, who is keeping her recipe a strict secret. Umm-delicious!

Gladys Flarks Parker looked oh too cute in a black chiffon chemise, knee length, black pointed, oh so pointed, shoes. On each shoe there was a huge red rose. Mable Byrd was charming in a print sheath. Carrie Staten looked wonderful in a green chiffon number tight in the waist and very full skirted.

Bernita Fuller was sophisticated in a black chemise, the skirt having fringes from the hips down. The fringes gave the dress the look of the Charleston era.

The climax of the affair was the breakfast the next morning or the same morning where all gathered — yes, they all got up. Prizes were awarded to guests by Mae Chamberlain for certain happenings as Elbe Bettis of Washington, who received a mink lined car opener for being the last one in to breakfast and the Staten received a gift for being such good sports.

Fortunes, which had been placed by each table, were read and commented on, much to the amusement of all.

Lillian Slater, who was chairman of the affair, presented gifts to Imogene Douglass, president of the Big Sisters and Mr. and Mrs. Vause, owners of the Rosedale Beach Club.

Hostesses for this affair included Lucille Brown, Frankie Hinchen, Imogene Douglass, Gladys Parker, Lillian Slater, Esther Blake, Bernita Fuller and Mae Chamberlain.

Guests included:

Webster Hinchen, Pink Douglass, H. Calvin Parker, Edward Slater, Sidney Brown, John Fuller Jr., Malcolm Chamberlain and Hayward Strothers.

Messrs. and Mesdames Robert Holt, William Day, Milburn Woodson, Edward Fisher, Isaiah White, Iglehart Keets, Charles Anderson, Irvin Lockerman, James Woodson, Cornelius Griffin.

Messrs. and Mesdames Albert James, Donald Parker, George Carroll, Joseph Felton, John Staten, Clifton Gattis, Fletcher Green, James Parker.

The Elbe Bettises and Norman Griffins of Washington, D.C.

TALKING ABOUT parties, leaves us not leave out that which Mr. and Mrs. John H. Murphy Jr. gave for their poodle, Sonny Boy.

The gentleman is likely to take a bunk right out of my good right leg for labeling him a poodle, what with his yard long pedigree.

Garnered his pals Peggy (a spaniel) and Scooie Boots (chihuahua). Served them frowned top-grade sirloin, no less.

The party over, Mrs. Murphy, along with Mrs. Mildred Carr and Robert Wallace, motored off to a golf tournament in Allentown.

Sonny Boy was eight years old.

Janice Roberson, 14, off to a running start

Getting off to a good start in a school career makes all the difference in the world.

Fourteen-year-old Janice Roberson knew this to be a fact of life, so she jumped off to a running start and she's been ahead ever since.

Janice lives at 1308 E. Chase St. with her mother, Mrs. Amilia R. Hall, and her twin brother, James.

Since she began elementary school at No. 139, Central Ave. and Lexington St., she never made a grade less than "E" and earned her honor standing through the Robert F. Lee Junior High School, 49 Cathedral St. between Preston and Biddle Sts.

She graduated in June and plans to attend Eastern High School in the fall where she will take an academic course.

JANICE also hopes she will be able to enroll in the accelerated class at Eastern.

"My favorite subject is Latin of course (my former) Latin teacher, Miss Mildred Arnold, was nice, too, but I just like the subject," says Janice.

That should be a great help for the young lady wants to be a doctor.

"Young Janice likes to spend her spare time reading mostly African adventure stories, swimming at the Chick Webb Recreation Center, crocheting. I've made a couple of coffee—and taking walks, just about any place.

This summer she plans to visit Durham, N.C. for a couple of weeks with a girl friend.

A job? Janice says "I just gave up any hopes I had of finding a job because my girl friends, 16—even 17 years old—can't find them, and I can't even get a social security card. I'm just 14!"

However, Janice says she is pretty happy about being 14 and wouldn't have it any other way right now.

ONE OF the nicest things Janice feels is being born a twin. She and brother, James, were born on Mothers' Day too.

At this point, since college is so closer than four years away, Janice has not decided which she would like to attend. However, she has been thinking about it and says "I would like to go to a college in New York, or maybe in another country—as long as it is one of the larger ones."

For someone who has kept her nose to the academic grindstone so long, we certainly hope Janice's dreams come true.

Libby Julian is 5 years old

Guests enjoyed movies, ice cream and all the trimmings. Present were: Landra French, Jeannie Murray, Vonnie Wilkens, Sadie Lottier, Patricia Davidson, Ellen Parks, Stephanie and Sydney Burney.

Also: Lisa Randolph, Borearl, Denise and Emerson Julian Jr., Mark French, Benjamin Philipp, Jimmy Parr, Herber and Berndt Lighston and Lester Hudgins Jr.

Hi-Fi Chatter

By JOHNNY BRENT

Allan Jones recently hosted a party at his home on Lanvale Street.

Present were Marjorie Jennings, Leon Armor, Sheila Chapman, Leroy Carroll, Carolyn Stubbs, Glenn McGill, Maxine Johnson.

Ronald Smith, Norman Brailey, Hilda Roberts, Gary Bartz, Janis Smith, James Gibson and guest, Anita Brisoe and yours truly.

The grapevine has it that Glenn McGill is spending the whole summer, in Maine. We are hoping that he has a fine time.

George Barfield, recently entertained at his Coldspring Lane home.

Those Sharp Street MYT'ers hopped to D.C. by autos recently. They visited the Mosque, the Mosleim temple.

Speaking of fellowshippers, that same group is swinging a huge semi-formal today (June 27).

Those continental Yardbirds will supply the music. Local young artists have worked out exquisite decorations for the ballroom.

Milvadean Jones of Towson State recently was given a beach party at Columbia Beach, Maryland.

Word has it that the Arnette Palmer of Catonsville is posing for a portrait to be done by a talented internationally-known artist. Miss Palmer is a graduate of the St. Francis Academy for girls and is also a Yardbird.

The Royal House of Commons, flung a closed crab feast last Friday at the home of Patricia Dorsey of Baltimore Junior College.

Having a good time were Daniel Weaver, David Bailey, Gilda Jones, Robert Ettiene, Pat Dorsey and Johnny Brett.

A "Yardbird" recently told me that her club would soon be retreating to Boston for a weekend to close out their fiscal year. From several affairs that they have held, the treasurer, Bob Edwards, has reported their annual net income to be somewhere around the $600 mark. $200 is to be given to charities.
