Money-making Secrets
WITH THE Farm Journal

Is this cock properly held? "Poultry Secrets" tells how to carry fowls, and other secrets far more important.

FARM JOURNAL ("cream, not skim milk") is the great little paper published for 36 years in Philadelphia by Wilmer Atkinson. It is taken and read by more families than any other farm paper in the WORLD. Its four million readers (known as "Our Folks") are the most intelligent and prosperous country people that grow, and they always say the Farm Journal helped to make them so. Their potatoes are larger, their milk tests higher, their hogs weigh more, their fruit brings higher prices, because they read the Farm Journal.

Do you know Peter Tumbledown, the old fellow who won't take the Farm Journal? By showing how NOT to run a farm, Peter makes many prosperous. Nobody can go on reading the Farm Journal and being a Tumbledown too. Many have tried, but all have to quit one or the other.

The Farm Journal is bright, brief, "boiled down," practical, full of gumption, cheer and sunshine. It is strong on housekeeping and home-making, a favorite with busy women, full of life and fun for boys and girls. It sparkles with wit, and a happy, sunny spirit. Practical as a plow, readable as a novel. Clean and pure, not a line of fraudulent or nasty advertising. All its advertisers are guaranteed trustworthy.

The Farm Journal gives more for the money and puts it in fewer words than any other farm paper. 32 to 80 pages monthly, illustrated. FIVE years (60 issues) for $1.00 only. Less than 2 cents a month. No one-year, two-year or three-year subscriptions taken at any price.

The Farm Journal Booklets

have sold by hundreds of thousands, and have made a sensation by revealing the SECRETS OF MONEY-MAKING in home industry. People all over the country are making money by their methods.

POULTRY SECRETS is a collection of discoveries and methods of successful poultrymen. It gives Felch's famous mating chart, the Curtiss method of getting one-half more pullets than cockerels, Boyer's method of insuring fertility, and priceless secrets of breeding, feeding, how to produce winter eggs, etc.

HORSE SECRETS exposes all the methods of "bishoping," "plugging," cocaine and gasoline doping, and other tricks of "gyps" and swindlers, and enables any one to tell an unsound horse. Gives many valuable training secrets.

CORN SECRETS, the great NEW hand-book of Prof. Holden, the "Corn King," shows how to get ten to twenty bushels more per acre of corn, rich in protein and the best stock-feeding elements. Pictures make every process plain.

EGG SECRETS tells how a family of six can make hens turn its table scraps into a daily supply of fresh eggs. If you have a back-yard, get this booklet, learn how to use up every scrap of the kitchen waste, and live better at less cost.

THE "BUTTER BOOK" tells how seven cows were made to produce half a ton of butter each yer year. (140 pounds is the average). An eye-opener. Get it, weed out your poor cows, and turn the good ones into record-breakers.

STRAWBERRY SECRETS is a revelation of the discoveries and methods of L. J. Farmer, the famous expert, in growing luscious fall strawberries almost until snow flies. How and when to plant, how to fertilize, how to remove the blossoms, how to get three crops in two years, etc.

GARDEN GOLD shows how to make your backyard supply fresh vegetables and fruit, how to cut down your grocery bills, keep a better table, and get cash for your surplus. How to plant, cultivate, harvest and market.

DUCK DOLLARS tells how the great Weber duck-farm near Boston makes every year 50 cents each on 40,000 ducklings. Tells why ducks pay them better than chickens, and just HOW they do everything.

TURKEY SECRETS discloses fully the methods of Horace Vose, the famous Rhode Island "turkey-man," who supplies the White House Thanksgiving turkeys. It tells how to mate, to set eggs, to hatch, to feed and care for the young, to prevent sickness, to fatten, and how to make a turkey-ranch PAY.

The MILLION EGG-FARM gives the methods by which J. M. Foster made over $18,000 a year, mainly from eggs. All chicken-raisers should learn about the "Rancocas Unit," and how Foster FEEDS hens to produce such quantities of eggs, especially in winter.

DRESSMAKING SELF-TAUGHT shows how any intelligent woman can design and make her own clothes, in the height of fashion. The author has done it since she was a girl. She now has a successful dressmaking establishment and a school of dressmaking. Illustrated with diagrams.

SHALL I FARM? is a clear, impartial statement of both advantages and drawbacks of farming, to help those who have to decide this important question. It warns you of dangers, swindles, and mistakes, tells how to start, equipment needed, its cost, chances of success, how to get government aid, etc.

What Our Folks Say About F. J.

"I have had more help, encouragement and enjoyment out of it in one year than I did out of my other papers in ten years," says C. M. Persons.

"It is a queer little paper. I have sometimes read it through and thought I was done with it, then pick it up again and find something new to interest me," says Alfred Krogh.

"Farm Journal is like a bit of sunshine in our home. It is making a better class of people out of farmers. It was first sent me as a Christmas present, and I think it the choicest present I ever received," says P. K. LeValley.

"We have read your dear little paper for nearly 40 years. Now we don't live on the farm any more, yet I still have a hankering for the old paper. I feel that I belong to the family, and every page is as dear and familiar as the faces of old friends," says Mrs. B. W. Edwards.

"I fear I neglect my business to read it. I wish it could be in the hands of every farmer in Virginia," says W. S. Cline.

"I live in a town where the yard is only 15 x 18 feet, but I could not do without the Farm Journal," says Miss Sara Carpenter.

"I get lots of books and papers, and put them aside for future reading. The only paper I seem to have in my hands all the time is Farm Journal. I can't finish reading it. Can't you make it less interesting, so I can have a chance at my other papers?" writes John Swail.

"If I am lonesome, down-hearted, or tired, I go to Farm Journal for comfort, next to the Bible," says Mabel Dewitt.

"Farm Journal has a cheerful vein running through it that makes it a splendid cure for the "blues." When coming home tired in mind and body, I sit down and read it, and it seems to give me new inspiration for life," writes G. E. Halderman.

"We have a brother-in-law who loves a joke. We live in Greater New York, and consider ourselves quite citified, so when he sent us the Farm Journal as a New Year's gift we nearly died laughing. 'How to raise hogs'—we who only use bacon in glass jars! 'How to keep cows clean'—when we use condensed milk even for rice pudding! 'How to plant onions'—when we never plant anything more fragrant than lilies of the valley. I accepted the gift with thanks, for we are too well-bred to look a gift horse in the mouth. Soon my eye was caught by a beautiful poem. I began to read it, then when I wanted the Farm Journal I found my husband deeply interested in an article. Then my oldest son began to ask, 'Has the Farm Journal come yet?' He is a jeweler, and hasn't much time for literature; but we find so much interest and uplift in this fine paper that we appreciate our New Year's gift more and more," writes Ella B. Burkman.

"I received 'Corn Secrets' and 'Poultry Secrets,' and consider them worth their weight in gold," says W. G. Newall.

"What your Egg Book tells would take a beginner years to learn," says Roy Chaney.

"Duck Dollars is the best book I ever had on duck-raising," says F. M. Warnock.

"If your other booklets contain as much valuable information as the Egg-Book, I would consider them cheap at double the price," says F. W. Mansfield.

"I think your Egg-Book is a wonder," says C. P. Shirey.

"The Farm Journal beats them all. Every issue has reminders and ideas worth a year's subscription," writes T. H. Potter.

"One year ago I took another agricultural paper, and it took a whole column to tell what Farm Journal tells in one paragraph," says N. M. Gladwin.

"It ought to be in every home where there is a chick, a child, a cow, a cherry, or a cucumber," says I. D. Bordus.

MR. MARBURY TO SENATOR SMITH.

Challenge For a Debate On Party Loyalty.

AT CENTREVILLE TUESDAY MARCH 18th.

Progressive Democratic Candidate for Senate Ready to Meet His Opponent on Question of Which is the Better Democrat—S. K. Dennis Denies That He Signed Articles Reflecting on Mr. Marybury's Democracy.

W. L. Marbury, Progressive Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, Monday challenged Senator John Walter Smith to a joint debate on the question: Which is the better Democrat—himself or Senator Smith. Mr. Marbury advised the Senator that he speaks in Centreville Tuesday and would be glad to meet him on the platform in that town.

Senator Smith said Monday night that he had not yet received Mr. Marbury's communication, which was addressed to him in Washington. He said he could not discuss the communication until he shall have read it.

In his letter Mr. Marbury said that advertisements published in city and county newspapers and circulars reflecting on his record as a Democrat were signed by S. K. Dennis, who is Senator Smith's secretary. Mr. Dennis denied Monday evening that he had signed such advertisements and circulars, and was at a loss to know who had used his name without his consent.

Senator Smith said that he was not responsible for the publication and circulation of statements regarding Mr. Marbury's Democratic record. He said, furthermore, that he had no knowledge of the source of the advertisements or who was paying for them. He added that he was not paying for them, and he said further that if his friends were authorizing and paying for the advertisements they were acting without his knowledge or consent.

MR. MARBURY'S LETTER.

Mr. Marbury's letter to Senator Smith follows:

March 10, 1913.

Honorable John Walter Smith,
United States Senate, Washington, D.C.

Dear Sir: Since the announcement of my candidacy for the United States Senate in opposition to yourself a number of articles have appeared in the advertising columns of all the Baltimore newspapers and in a number of the county papers, attacking my political record of years ago and attempting to show that I am not a Democrat.

Some of these articles appear to have been published by authority of your secretary, and, presumably, therefore, with your sanction; but none of them bear your signature.

I understand, also, that these articles will be, or are being, circulated through the mails to the Democratic voters through the state.

The cost of publishing replies to these attacks in so many newspapers and of circulating them among the voters would amount to many thousands of dollars, and therefore, being prohibitory to a man of my limited means, or any other man who is not, like yourself, possessed of a fortune, and therefore compelled to work for a living.

Under these circumstances your great wealth gives you an advantage over me in any controversy conducted in the manner just described, which I cannot believe you will be willing to insist upon.

WHICH IS BETTER DEMOCRAT?

I recognize, however, the fact that when a man becomes a candidate for the United States Senate the question of his democracy is a question of vital interest to all Democrats. No man who is not a genuine Democrat and in thorough accord with the principles of his party ought to expect to receive the votes of Democrats for such an office.

I have been considered by the managers of the Democratic party of this state for a great number of years to be a pretty good Democrat. There has not been an election for more than 10 years that I have not been called upon by the chairman of the Democratic state central committee, Hon. Murray Vandiver, to come to the aid of the party and take the hustings in support of the ticket, and I have done so on a great many occasions, although I was asking no favors at all from the Democratic party and had no personal interest of any sort involved.

Not only so, but you yourself have considered me so good a Democrat as to call on me for advice and assistance in the critical situation in which the party found itself a year and a half ago, prior to the gubernatorial election.

These facts, taken together with the further fact that the only two presidents whom the Democratic party has elected within 50 years, have each considered me good enough Democrat to receive special marks of their favor, might seem sufficient to relieve me of the necessity of defending my Democracy, but, as I said before, the question is a perfectly legitimate one to raise and as long as you have raised it, I think you ought to come out in the open and discuss it with me, man fashion, before the Democratic voters of this state.

I am not going to engage in a controversy with irresponsible and unimportant individuals who sign their names to newspaper articles attacking me, but I am ready and willing to debate with you at such times and places as we may mutually agree upon—and the more the better—the question as to which of us is the better exponent of the Democracy of this state, and which of us is, therefore, the better suited to cooperate with President Wilson in carrying out the pledges of the Democratic platform and making that administration a success.

I feel reasonably certain that between us we would draw audiences of Democrats in the city of Baltimore and in the various counties of this state who would be worth talking to, and who would enjoy the discussion.

NOT A BLUFF.

I beg to assure you that this proposition is not made in any spirit of mere bluff or bravado on my part, but with sincere desire to secure a public discussion of the issue in this campaign, in a manner which will enable the Democratic voters of our good old state to judge fairly between us.

Your parliamentary experience and my experience in the courts should qualify each of us to conduct this discussion in entire accordance with those rules of courtesy which should always govern the conduct of gentlemen. Ours will not be a personal controversy, but a "gentle and joyous passage at arms" upon the issues joined between us at this time. It will be a splendid fight; I am sure you will enjoy it, and in that spirit I challenge you to combat.

I expect to speak at Centreville on Tuesday next, the 18th instant, and will be delighted to have you meet me there and divide the time.

WM. L. MARBURY.

Kennedyville Items.

There is not much news afloat with us. People in our village seem to be in good health.

Mr. W. M. Clendaniel spent Sunday and Monday with his family, returning to the Baltimore hospital Tuesday morning for further treatment.

The roads, since the fine weather of the past week, have very much improved for travel.

Many of our people were very much alarmed last week, the day and hour of the explosion near Baltimore. Frame houses shook and rattled to such an extent that it seemed a steam engine had left the road and run up along side of them. Not a few surmised that it was an earthquake.

The entertainment in Weer's Hall on Saturday night drew the largest gathering of people, it is reported, by good authority, which ever assembled at one time in said building. Home talent always draws. The weather was auspicious and in every particular the three most interesting, entertaining and humorous plays, with a good supply of both instrumental and vocal music seemed to delight every one of a packed house to the hearts content. We cannot specialize any of the characters of this splendid troupe, all of which took their parts so successfully, but feel that too much praise cannot be given Mrs. Joseph H. Weer for her zealous training of the company of actors as also those who were her assistants. The success was so great that there is a move on foot to take the plays to the town of Crumpton in the near future. It would do credit to any town or city. We think there are very many of the audience of Saturday night, like the writer, who would be delighted to go again, and still again. This entertainment will be repeated by special request in Harper's Hall, Still Pond, this Saturday evening. The full program will be repeated in full. So don't miss it.

The Farmers' Institute of Monday, both forenoon and afternoon, held in our village hall, was well attended, especially in the afternoon, when quite a number of ladies were present. The speakers were the following: Mr. F. M. Soper, who gave a most interesting and practical talk on orcharding, telling how to grow the best fruit; Mr. J. R. Haswell spoke on drainage, illustrating by many views thrown on canvass; Mr. J. T. Anthony, well known by Kent county people, gave us the benefit of his experience in dairying, the best breeds of stock, and how to secure greatest results. Mr. C. L. Apperman was in charge. Home talent furnished appreciated instrumental and vocal music.

WHY don't the trustees of the Maryland Agricultural College get together and elect Prof. J. H. Patterson president of the college? We know Prof. Patterson personally. We know him to be a man not only of profound knowledge, but a gentleman of pronounced executive ability. His connection with the Maryland Agricultural College has been sufficiently long and intimate as to make him eminently qualified to fill the position with distinction. Prof. Patterson is a granger and is in close and intimate touch with the farmers interests and we know of no man in the country who would make a more competent or a more acceptable head of the college than Prof. H. J. Patterson.
