Money-making Secrets
WITH THE Farm Journal

Is this cock properly held? "Poultry Secrets" tells how to carry fowls, and other secrets far more important.

FARM JOURNAL ("cream, not skim milk") is the great little paper published for 36 years in Philadelphia by Wilmer Atkinson. It is taken and read by more families than any other farm paper in the WORLD. Its four million readers (known as "Our Folks") are the most intelligent and prosperous country people that grow, and they always say the Farm Journal helped to make them so. Their potatoes are larger, their milk tests higher, their hogs weigh more, their fruit brings higher prices, because they read the Farm Journal.

Do you know Peter Tumbledown, the old fellow who won't take the Farm Journal? By showing how NOT to run a farm, Peter makes many prosperous. Nobody can go on reading the Farm Journal and being a Tumbledown too. Many have tried, but all have to quit one or the other.

The Farm Journal is bright, brief, "boiled down," practical, full of gumption, cheer and sunshine. It is strong on housekeeping and home-making, a favorite with busy women, full of life and fun for boys and girls. It sparkles with wit, and a happy, sunny spirit. Practical as a plow, readable as a novel. Clean and pure, not a line of fraudulent or nasty advertising. All its advertisers are guaranteed trustworthy.

The Farm Journal gives more for the money and puts it in fewer words than any other farm paper. 32 to 80 pages monthly, illustrated. FIVE years (60 issues) for $1.00 only. Less than 2 cents a month. No one-year, two-year or three-year subscriptions taken at any price.

The Farm Journal Booklets

have sold by hundreds of thousands, and have made a sensation by revealing the SECRETS OF MONEY-MAKING in home industry. People all over the country are making money by their methods.

POULTRY SECRETS is a collection of discoveries and methods of successful poultrymen. It gives Felch's famous mating chart, the Curtiss method of getting one-half more pullets than cockerels, Boyer's method of insuring fertility, and priceless secrets of breeding, feeding, how to produce winter eggs, etc.

HORSE SECRETS exposes all the methods of "bishoping," "plugging," cocaine and gasoline doping, and other tricks of "gyps" and swindlers, and enables any one to tell an unsound horse. Gives many valuable training secrets.

CORN SECRETS, the great NEW hand-book of Prof. Holden, the "Corn King," shows how to get ten to twenty bushels more per acre of corn, rich in protein and the best stock-feeding elements. Pictures make every process plain.

EGG SECRETS tells how a family of six can make hens turn its table scraps into a daily supply of fresh eggs. If you have a back-yard, get this booklet, learn how to use up every scrap of the kitchen waste, and live better at less cost.

THE "BUTTER BOOK" tells how seven cows were made to produce half a ton of butter each yer year. (140 pounds is the average). An eye-opener. Get it, weed out your poor cows, and turn the good ones into record-breakers.

STRAWBERRY SECRETS is a revelation of the discoveries and methods of L. J. Farmer, the famous expert, in growing luscious fall strawberries almost until snow flies. How and when to plant, how to fertilize, how to remove the blossoms, how to get three crops in two years, etc.

GARDEN GOLD shows how to make your backyard supply fresh vegetables and fruit, how to cut down your grocery bills, keep a better table, and get cash for your surplus. How to plant, cultivate, harvest and market.

DUCK DOLLARS tells how the great Weber duck-farm near Boston makes every year 50 cents each on 40,000 ducklings. Tells why ducks pay them better than chickens, and just HOW they do everything.

TURKEY SECRETS discloses fully the methods of Horace Vose, the famous Rhode Island "turkey-man," who supplies the White House Thanksgiving turkeys. It tells how to mate, to set eggs, to hatch, to feed and care for the young, to prevent sickness, to fatten, and how to make a turkey-ranch PAY.

The MILLION EGG-FARM gives the methods by which J. M. Foster made over $18,000 a year, mainly from eggs. All chicken-raisers should learn about the "Rancocas Unit," and how Foster FEEDS hens to produce such quantities of eggs, especially in winter.

DRESSMAKING SELF-TAUGHT shows how any intelligent woman can design and make her own clothes, in the height of fashion. The author has done it since she was a girl. She now has a successful dressmaking establishment and a school of dressmaking. Illustrated with diagrams.

SHALL I FARM? is a clear, impartial statement of both advantages and drawbacks of farming, to help those who have to decide this important question. It warns you of dangers, swindles, and mistakes, tells how to start, equipment needed, its cost, chances of success, how to get government aid, etc.

These booklets are 6 x 9 inches, and profusely illustrated.

What Our Folks Say About F. J.

"I have had more help, encouragement and enjoyment out of it in one year than I did out of my other papers in ten years," says C. M. Persons.

"It is a queer little paper. I have sometimes read it through and thought I was done with it, then pick it up again and find something new to interest me," says Alfred Krogh.

"Farm Journal is like a bit of sunshine in our home. It is making a better class of people out of farmers. It was first sent me as a Christmas present, and I think it the choicest present I ever received," says P. R. LeValley.

"We have read your dear little paper for nearly 40 years. Now we don't live on the farm any more, yet I still have a hankering for the old paper. I feel that I belong to the family, and every page is as dear and familiar as the faces of old friends," says Mrs. B. W. Edwards.

"I fear I neglect my business to read it. I wish it could be in the hands of every farmer in Virginia," says W. S. Cline.

"I live in a town where the yard is only 15 x 18 feet, but I could not do without the Farm Journal," says Miss Sara Carpenter.

"I get lots of books and papers, and put them aside for future reading. The only paper I seem to have in my hands all the time is Farm Journal. I can't finish reading it. Can't you make it less interesting, so I can have a chance at my other papers?" writes John Swail.

"If I am lonesome, down-hearted, or tired, I go to Farm Journal for comfort, next to the Bible," says Mabel Dewitt.

"Farm Journal has a cheerful vein running through it that makes it a splendid cure for the "blues." When coming home tired in mind and body, I sit down and read it, and it seems to give me new inspiration for life," writes G. E. Halderman.

"We have a brother-in-law who loves a joke. We live in Greater New York, and consider ourselves quite citified, so when he sent us the Farm Journal as a New Year's gift we nearly died laughing. 'How to raise hogs'—we who only use bacon in glass jars! 'How to keep cows clean'—when we use condensed milk even for rice pudding! 'How to plant onions'—when we never plant anything more fragrant than lilies of the valley. I accepted the gift with thanks, for we are too well-bred to look a gift horse in the mouth. Soon my eye was caught by a beautiful poem. I began to read it, then when I wanted the Farm Journal I found my husband deeply interested in an article. Then my oldest son began to ask, 'Has the Farm Journal come yet?' He is a jeweler, and hasn't much time for literature; but we find so much interest and uplift in this fine paper that we appreciate our New Year's gift more and more," writes Ella B. Burkman.

"I received 'Corn Secrets' and 'Poultry Secrets,' and consider them worth their weight in gold," says W. G. Newall.

"What your Egg Book tells would take a beginner years to learn," says Roy Chaney.

"Duck Dollars is the best book I ever had on duck-raising," says F. M. Warnock.

"If your other booklets contain as much valuable information as the Egg-Book, I would consider them cheap at double the price," says F. W. Mansfield.

"I think your Egg-Book is a wonder," says C. P. Shirey.

"The Farm Journal beats them all. Every issue has reminders and ideas worth a year's subscription," writes T. H. Potter.

"One year ago I took another agricultural paper, and it took a whole column to tell what Farm Journal tells in one paragraph," says N. M. Gladwin.

"It ought to be in every home where there is a chick, a child, a cow, a cherry, or a cucumber," says I. D. Bordus.

SOME EXTRACTS FROM MR. MARBURY'S SPEECH.

We wish we had the space in which to reproduce the great speech of Mr. Marbury, delivered at Centreville on Tuesday. It was one of the greatest pronouncements of recent years on the hustings of Maryland, and it has no doubt created a profound impression from one end of the State to the other. We must be content with clipping the following striking paragraphs:

MAN WHO STANDS FOR PROTECTIVE TARIFF SYSTEM TO-DAY IS NOT A DEMOCRAT.

But that Senator Smith is not and never has been a Democrat, but a Republican on this vital issue between the two parties, ought not to be open to dispute, because we have his own word for it that he is a protectionist.

In an interview which appeared in the Baltimore Sun of April 10, 1909, and which I cannot find has ever been denied, Senator Smith says: "I see no reason why a Southerner should be ashamed to be a protectionist in a great many things. A tariff for protection seems inevitable." And as we have already shown, this statement was simply in accordance with his votes and arguments in the Senate.

I say that a man who stands for the protective tariff system in this country to-day is not a Democrat; he belongs in the Republican party; that there is no difference between Senator Smith and Senator Jackson on the subject; that with all respect to Senator Smith, I say that it would be a shame for the Democrats of Maryland to send a man, Republican in principle, to the United States Senate at the beginning of the first Democratic administration which we have had for 16 years.

MEN WHO LEAD REAL DEMOCRATIC THOUGHT IN BALTIMORE IN YEARS PAST.

If you could only know the character of the Democrats whom I followed in those old fights in Baltimore, you could realize that I mean exactly what I say when I tell you that there never was a moment of that time when the idea of changing my political faith ever entered my thoughts. George William Brown, who stood up for the Democratic party during the dark days of the Know Nothing rule, who took his life in his hands at every election, when the Bloodtubs and Pluguglies were driving Democrats from the polls at every precinct in Baltimore city, and none but the men of the highest courage could be found to lead the Democratic fight, a man who lay in a Federal prison for 18 months during the Civil War because of his refusal to abandon his Democratic principles and his devotion to the Southern cause.

Severn Teackle Wallis, who did the same thing; Charles Marshall, the devoted personal friend of Robert Edward Lee, his military secretary and at one time his chief of staff.

When I hear the little picayune politicians talk about these men not having been real Democrats, I confess that it arouses in me a feeling of contempt for which I can find no adequate expression.

But there are some facts which are more pertinent to the question at issue which are shut off from your view by these newspaper articles. Now, the fact is that for the last 12 years, although I have never been a candidate for any office and never had any idea of becoming a candidate, I have interested myself in the success of almost every Democratic ticket, State and city, by exerting myself to the utmost to bring back into the ranks of the party that element of Democrats which had been driven out of it by the mismanagement and bad practices of former days, and I have been relied on more than any other man in Baltimore city by the party leaders for that purpose. I think that I may say further that most men familiar with political conditions in Baltimore will agree with me when I say that in all human probability there would not be a Democratic officeholder in the City Hall today but for the support I gave to the last Democratic nominee for the Mayoralty, notwithstanding the fact that I was personally very much opposed to him.

FIGHT TO DETERMINE WHETHER MEN OR MONEY SHALL RULE IN THE STATE.

It was at Senator Smith't own personal solicitation that I aided in drafting the last Democratic platform in this State, the platform which constituted the creed of the Democratic party. Would the leaders of the Democratic party ask anybody but a man they believed to be thoroughly imbued with Democratic principles, would they ask anybody whom they suspected of any taint of Republicanism, to do such a thing as that?

My fellow-countrymen, this is your fight more than mine. This is a fight to determine in this State now and perhaps forever the question as to wether it shall be ruled by men or ruled by money. I am frank to say that years ago when I used to hear William Jennings Bryan talk about the "special interests" in politics, I did not understand what he meant. I was of those who thought it was a mere bugaboo which he was conjuring up, a mere cry to alarm the people, I confess, but I am also of those who know better now. In fact, I could hardly deny it, because I am right up against the power of the special interests at this time, the tremendous power which a man who stands as Senator Smith does for the idea that political power may be legitimately used for the purpose of promoting pecuniary interests of private persons or corporations and can bring to bear for the purpose of crushing out all opposition to his re-election.

"MY APPEAL MUST BE TO THE PEOPLE; I AM FIGHTING THEIR BATTLE."

My appeal must be to the people of the State, the great masses of the Democratic party, the people whom Senator Smith has taxed for the benefit of the great lumber interests of this country so long, to stand by me in this fight. I am fighting their battle.

Attention has been called to the fact that in the political battles of years ago I was opposed to Mr. Bryan. It is true, I was. So were thousands of other Democrats. Included among these Democrats were two distinguished Marylanders, the Hon. William Pinkney Whyte and the Hon. Isador Rayner, both of whom have since gone to join the great majority. Both of these gentlemen were not only opposed to Mr. Bryan, but took the stump against him.

Both of these gentlemen were, nevertheless, afterward sent to the United States Senate as Democrats from this State. Mr. Rayner, prior to his election to the Senate and after his campaign against Mr. Bryan, was nominated by the regular Democratic organization and elected the Attorney-General of the State. The fact is that the vast majority of Democrats in the Eastern States, including Senator Smith, were hostile to Mr. Bryan; so much so that he had to refer to the East as the "enemy's country."

But the truth is this—and I must speak the truth as I see it, no matter how much I may be in danger of criticism from those gentlemen, most of them friends and backers of Senator Smith in this State and especially in the city of Baltimore, who with him, still maintain an attitude of hostility to Mr. Bryan and the principles of government for which he now stands.

HAS FOLLOWED MEN LIKE CROTHERS AND LEE SINCE PROGRESSIVE MOVEMENT BEGAN.

Men who, when the party has pledged itself to free lumber, will not upon any ground or any excuse vote with the Republican protectionist leaders to put exorbitant duties upon the same, whether personally interested in the lumber business or acting for others who are. That is the kind of men whose leadership I have been following ever since the progressive movement began in this State—men like Austin L. Crothers and Blair Lee, men who have not only always stood for progressive measures, but who stood for the enforcement of party pledges and the carrying out of party platforms as sacred obligations binding upon every party man.

This is certainly not my personal fight. I have never had any longings for public place. The honors of my profession have been the object of my life's desire. But if by the exertions which I expect to make in this campaign I shall materially aid in taking this good State of ours out of the ranks of the reactionaries and Republicans and bringing her into true accord with the progressive Democracy of the nation, as represented by the Wilson administration, I feel that a result will have been achieved worthy of any man's ambitions.

Care of Teeth.

Betterton school devoted the morning exercises, Friday March 14th, to the care of the teeth. Parents were invited but, because of the down-pour of rain, few were able to be present

At the beginning of the exercises Miss Brinsfield gave a talk to the primary pupils to arouse the interest of the little tots in the subject.

The sixth and seventh grades read essays which they had written on "Teeth" and prizes were awarded. All the essays were so good that it was difficult to tell which was the best but after careful consideration, Dr. Nurkin, who was the judge, decided in favor of the following: Seventh Grade—Burton Pentz; sixth grade, boys—Howard Robinson; sixth grade, girls—Ethel Wilmer.

A sample tube of Colgate's Dental Cream was given each pupil present. Dr. Nurkin delivered an interesting and instructive address which was enjoyed by all present.
