3 Local Girls Receive White Veil of Oblate Sisters; 7 Novices Take Vows

13 Young Women from 8 States Renounce the World; Two Make Final Professions

Thirteen postulants, three of them Baltimoreans, renounced the world, received the white veil of the Oblate Sisters of Providence, and began their two years' training in the religious life during impressive ceremonies Tuesday afternoon in the convent chapel, Chase St. and Brentwood Ave.

Relatives and friends who witnessed the ceremony heard Father Adrian, C.P. praise the young women who had been "singled out by Jesus to be His special daughters to help spread His doctrines and virtues."

He cautioned the parents and friends not to be saddened because they had entered a convent but to be as happy had their daughters been picked by a Hollywood scout.

To the postulants, he said: "God is showing His special love for you by extending this invitation to be His bride. Give your hearts to Him, do not hold back anything . . . ."

"Brides of God"

The 13 young women who received the white veil, the home towns, and the names by which they will be known in religious life are as follows:

My Faith

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles by persons representing various religious faiths, the following commenting on the subject, "My Faith." Dr. Bernard Harris, noted physician and surgeon of East Baltimore, has been asked to open the series. His discussion follows:

By DR. BERNARD HARRIS

Ever since man first began to heal other men from their ills, those in the medical profession have fortified their arsenal of knowledge with simple Faith.

Very early in the history of healing, this Faith consisted of prayers to "good spirits" and incantations and ceremonies against "evil spirits" which, it was supposed, caused man bodily anguish.

Links Prayer With Skill

Today, it is the physician who sits by the bed and waits and hopes when his art can go farther; it is the physician who has as a constant companion in his armoire, the prayer that his skill will be sufficient for the man he has just left.

It is the surgeon with Faith who believes that his patient will recover after he has racked every recess of his brain for something further to do.

"Nearly all of us "sweat it out," so to speak, but always with an ever abiding courage which carries us to the next bedside.

An Almighty Designer

This Faith arises from the deep inner conviction that there must be some great scheme of things, planned by an all-powerful designer who watches the stars and mountains against the seas, just as carefully as He watched the sparrow in its flight.

Four-Leaf Clover Souvenirs Given Agents for Luck
WASHINGTON
Four-leaf clover letter openers have been distributed to the agents of the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Company as symbols of good luck.
For centuries the mystic appeal of the four-leaf clover has endeared it as a charm of good fortune, but the scarcity of them prevented wide distribution of them. Millions sought the elusive four-leafers but seldom found them.
Supreme Liberty, however, located a horticulturist, C. T. Dazian, in Balboa Heights, Canal Zone, who has found Mother Nature's secret of productivity of the four-leafers, so now each of its agents now has a genuine four-leaf clover sealed in the plastic dome of his letter opener.
