Downeses' Marital Tiffs Enter Concluding Round

The divorce action of the James the wife, Mrs. Mary A. Downes, on E. Downeses' cross bill on the grounds of desertion, in a hard complainant, and one to go on fought court action.

each side, as the two awarded a Mr. Downes, at the time, moved division of their commonly-held into court with a suit case filled property, this week with liquor bottles, which he

In February, a decree went to sought to have entered as evidence that it was not his neglect, but his wife's drinking, which brought about the separation.

Hubby Takes Next Trick

Mrs. Downes won the suit, but before she could properly celebrate her victory, Mr. Downes had got one up on her by moving out all the furniture from their home at 1097 W. Fayette St.

She then filed a suit to ask that he be compelled to return the furniture, which Mr. Downes countered with a suit to have the home sold and the proceeds divided.

Both New Vulnerable

As a result of the latter action, the property went on sale Wednesday on the premises.

Mr. Downes is being represented by J. Howard Payne, who is one of the trustees named by the court to sell the property.

Balked at Cooking, Man Says

Also obtaining a divorce was Paul A. Hill, from Mrs. Alease E. Hill of 1210 Nolan Court.

Mr. Hill told the court that he and Mrs. Hill had an argument because dinner was not prepared when he reached home. She left, he said.

Married in 1936, the couple lived together until 1945. Gregory Hawkins was attorney for Mr. Hill, who lives at 329 McMechen St.

Unfaithfulness Charged

Mrs. Hazel Smith of 511 Robert St., not only won a divorce from Llewellyn E. Smith, but $7 per week permanent alimony and $50 attorney's fee.

The wife said that she and Mr. Smith were married in Lancaster, Va. in 1939 and lived together until Sept. 15, 1947, when her husband began treating her with harshness and another woman with great consideration.

Mr. Smith, she said, constantly transported "a certain woman around in his car, stayed out until late hours, and, occasionally all night, and refused to contribute to the upkeep of their home.

Roy S. Bond, attorney, filed petitions seeking divorces for two complainants. They were Mrs. Annie Thomas vs. John, and George vs. Mrs. Georgetta Mitchell.

Scenes at Regional Teachers Meeting

$2,000 Given Before Drive for Blind School Begins

Some $2,000 in contributions have been made to the drive for funds for the Maryland School for the Blind, in Overlea, according to Mrs. Emma J. Swann, chairman.

Although the $5,000 campaign does not get under way officially until Monday, with a program at St. Matthews Church on Greenmount Ave. near 23rd St., Mrs. Swann expressed great satisfaction to the response that has been made.

The school trains the white blind, colored blind and deaf children of the State.

The institution is urgently in need of a separate administration and school building containing an auditorium, gymnasium and vocational quarters with adequate equipment, according to its biennial report published January, 1947.

Other Programs Scheduled

Other programs planned in conjunction with the drive are as follows:

April 20—Union Temple Baptist Church, Pennsylvania Ave. and Cumberland St., the Rev. R. W. Lewis, pastor.

April 21—White Stone Baptist Church, Franklin St. near Arlington Ave., the Rev. W. H. Thompson, pastor; and April 23 — Mt. Sinai Baptist Church, Preston and Wilcox St., the Rev. J. R. Butler, pastor.

Soprano Recital Planned

A program and all day exhibition of work done by the colored children at the Overlea School will be held next Thursday at the Madison Avenue YWCA, with Francis Andrews, principal, in attendance.

The culminating activity will be presentation of Mrs. Grace B. Stokes, dramatic soprano in a recital on April 25 at Enon Baptist Church, Edmondson Ave. near Schroeder St.

Other committee members include the Revs. Ward D. Yerby, Arthur J. Payne, George J. Garnett, Mrs. Evelyn Harding, Mr. Andrews and Alfred Davenport.

Police Force Applicants Being Sought

Applications for vacancies as patrolmen in the police department are immediately available in the office of the City Service Commission, Room 107, City Hall.

Thomas L. Miller, personnel director, listed among the chief qualifications the fact that an applicant must be from 21 to 30 years of age, a registered voter of Maryland, a resident of Baltimore, weigh not less than 140 pounds and be at least five feet eight inches tall.

A written examination will count 50 points and 50 for a personal interview with the director. Veterans will be given a 10-point preference.

At present only 12 men are on the eligible list from an examination given last October. Of the 347 men who were examined, 1214 became eligible and 202 were named.

Cherry Hill Picks Healthiest Youth

The health king and queen were crowned last week at the Cherry Hill School No. 159 in colorful ceremonies on the playground that culminated the observance of Health Week.

Thomas Jackson and Yvonne Thomas represented the primary grades, while the intermediate grades honored William Fowlkes.

A gala parade with floats and posters to stress health rules followed the coronation. Walter Shields was health week program chairman.

Morgan Men Plan to Present Musicale

Residents of Baldwin Hall, men's dormitory at Morgan State College, will present a musicale, Sunday afternoon, featuring William Chalmers, baritone, and John Travers, pianist.

The affair will be held in the Morgan Christian Center at 5 p.m. It is being sponsored by the Baltimore Music Club, of which Mrs. George Balek is president.

Following the program, the dormitory residents will hold "open house."

Mrs. Sara Zierler, former director of music in the public schools and a member of the faculty of the Peabody Preparatory Department, will accompany Mr. Chalmers who recently completed a series of concerts.
