Stop Me If You've Heard This One

Judging from the expressions on the faces of her listeners, it must have been a pretty good joke that Miss Elise Clemons (second from right) told Friday night at the annual Spring Frolic sponsored by Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity at Town Hall in Philadelphia. From left are Mrs. Grace Gross, Miss Oretta Johnson, Miss Clemons, and Mrs. Audrey Myers of Baltimore.

White Boys Beat, Rob Carrier, 14, of $1.25

Residents in the vicinity of Greenmount Ave. and Biddle St. became alarmed late Friday over the beating of a 14-year-old news boy, Robert Parker, 420 E. Federal St., by a group of white ruffians.

He told Central district police that while walking east on Biddle St., approaching Greenmount Ave., he was surprised by a group of six or eight white boys who jumped out of a small alley.

Beaten, Robbed

Cursing and threatening, "You'll never sell any more papers around here," beat Parker with sticks and clubs and robbed him of $1.25 from newspaper sales before running away. After returning home, Parker was taken to Mercy Hospital for treatment.

Central district police said they were handicapped in conducting an investigation because the only description of the assailants was that they were white and between the ages of 14 and 18.

MOTOR VEHICLES OFFICE NOW ON DAYLIGHT TIME

Youth Gets 6 Yrs. for Manslaughter

Pleading guilty to manslaughter in a shooting which killed one youth and wounded another, 19-year-old William Yancey Jr. was sentenced, Monday, to six years in the house of correction.

Judge Emory Niles imposed the sentence, specifying that Yancey is to serve four years for the gun slaying of 20-year-old William Chase, and two years for the shooting of James Jones of 1735 Maryland Ave.

Said Trio Crowded Him

"Don't crowd me," the youth said he warned before he fired into a trio of youngsters including Chase who was shot in the chest and stomach, and Jones who caught a bullet in his thigh.

According to Harold Brady, prosecutor, the argument was touched off when Jones asked Yancey's girl friend to dance with him in a clubhouse at 2110 N. Howard St. on March 6.

The two young men had fought the week before, and according to Yancey, Jones and Chase were backing him to the door with a knife and baseball bat when he fired a pistol which someone handed to him.

Committee Probes Gold Coast Riots

ACCRA, Gold Coast (ANP)—A committee of investigators from England, led by a member of Parliament, has arrived here to investigate the riots which gripped this city and several interior sections a month ago. The riots started when some ex-soldiers sought to march on the Governor's headquarters.

The demonstration led to defiance of police orders, and several marchers were shot and killed. Rioting spread with 25 killed and 299 wounded. Crowds looted stores, burning, and pillaged. Merchants losses are estimated at $12,000,000.

Six Leaders Accused

Six leaders of the United Gold Coast convention, a political party, accused of formenting the riots, were arrested and later released. They are Dr. J. B. Danquah, president; Dr. Kwama Nkrumah, secretary; William Ofors Atta, F. O. Lamptey, E. Akufo Addo and F. Ako Adejei.

Dr. Danquah said that the charge that the leaders of the convention were Communists was untrue and silly. Authorities said, however, that they found Communist party membership card in the effects of Secy. Nkrumah. Troops from Nigeria are still on duty.

Cheltenham Improvement Effected by Reidt Listed

Facilities Built Up, Morale Strengthened by Criminal Justice Commission Director

Improvements at Cheltenham School for Boys, as the result of work with the institution's board of managers by Wallace Reidt, associate managing director of the Criminal Justice Commission, are listed in the commission's 25th annual report.

Mr. Reidt's recommendations, as executive secretary to the school for six months, included the appointment of an all-colored board of managers. This recommendation was recently carried out by Governor Lane.

Says School Is Cleaner

The Criminal Justice Commission official also listed as improvements, a cleaner campus at Cheltenham, cleaner cottages, repairs to cottages, application of a book of rules, perpetual inventory of storeroom supplies, better vocational and recreational programs.

Improved dining service, organization of a cadet corps and school paper, fewer escapes and the institution of a parole and home visiting program, were also listed.

In noting a decrease in the percentage of serious crimes involving juvenile delinquents during 1947, the commission report pledges "continued interest in Cheltenham" and "subscribes wholeheartedly to the belief that there should be uniform practices in the four (training) schools of the State."

Crimes On Increase

At the same time, the report notes an increase in serious crimes involving adults to 5,690 in 1947 from 5,238 the previous year.

Contributing 597 cases in that category, instances of larceny and gaining money under false pretenses more than accounted for the total increase, the report reasons. These cases included prosecution for fraud against the Unemployment Compensation Board.

It also points out that in 1924, a criminal's chances of being arrested in Baltimore for commission of a serious crime were only one to three. Today, the chances are better than 50-50.

In addition, although the personnel of the Police Department has grown from 1659 men to 4941, for every 100,000 additional persons of the city's population, only 141 policemen have been added.

Same Amount of Murders

During 1947, burglary cases were reduced from 2,167 to 2,150. Murders totaled 96, the same as the previous year.

Of 2,983 adult arrests, 2,241 resulted in convictions. A total of 2,476 offenders were not caught.

The report also discussed the commission's activities regarding the bail bond system. A special study of the system in 1946 resulted in the conviction of six bondsmen on perjury charges and one attorney on charges of subordination of perjury.

Since then, the commission recommended to the Supreme Bench changes in the bail bond system, including the setting up of a check system in the Criminal Court clerk's office by which each piece of property pledged by a professional bondsman is compared to a ledger card which contains the exact property listings.

Change In Parole System

Regarding parole, the report holds that its effectiveness cannot be truly appreciated until the granting of parole is placed by law into the hands other than those of the Governor.

It contends that such a responsibility places undue hardship on the Governor and should, therefore, be related to a special board rather than to a single commissioner or director.

In its conclusion, the report insists that there is a tremendous need to educate, mold and direct public opinion in the United States in the treatment of crime and criminals and in the prevention of juvenile delinquency."

For 1948, the commission includes among its legislative aims the following:

To bring about a better administration of criminal justice and to foster all means for the prevention of crime and the treatment of criminals;

To inform the public of the extent and effects of crime and methods for its reduction and control; to aid in co-ordinating the machinery dealing with crime and detection, prosecution and treatment of the criminal;

To aid the courts, police, prosecutors, institutions and all others in combatting crime; and to undertake such research as may be necessary to carry out its objectives.

Dr. Gilkes Heads Y's Emblem Club

Dr. Evan A. Gilkes, local physician, was elected president of the Emblem Club during a meeting Tuesday night, at the Druid Hill YMCA.

Dr. A. U. Forte was chosen as vice-president for the 1948-49 term; while David Grooms was re-elected secretary; James Miller, chosen as treasurer again; and Charles Lawson renamed chaplain.

The new officers will be formally installed at an October meeting of the club. Dr. Gilkes will take the post now being filled by Milton A. Dugger; and Dr. Forte will replace Randolph Tucker as vice-president.

Mrs. Sadie T. Alexander, a member of Truman's Civil Rights Committee, will speak at the installation meeting.
