Harry Bartlett, a former superintendent, and Mrs. W. W. Baynes, one of the charter members, made addresses, and Miss Grace Harrison read an original historical poem. Rev. H. P. Jester, the new pastor of St. James and Lynch, and Rev. F. S. Cain, the new pastor of Kennedyville, are making friends rapidly in their new fields of labor and both congregations are beginning to know and love their pastors.

The subject for the sermon in the Presbyterian Churches of Georgetown, Kennedyville and Worton for next Sunday is: "The Making of a Real Man." A Sabbath school was organized last Sunday at Kennedyville. At the outset there is reason for much encouragement. Mr. Wm. Krusen was elected superintendent and Mr. Clews assistant. All are welcome, both young and old. Just now the Sunday school lessons treat of a very interesting period of history. Next Sunday the lesson is: Joseph Revealing Himself to His Brethren." Old Reed Rifles are Passing Away.

The diary records kept by Mr. James W. Chapman, of Chestertown, show that there are now living only nine members of the famous old "Reed Rifles" military company, once the pride and glory of all loyal Kent countians. The "Reed Rifles" company was organized about 1856, with the late Major Eben F. Perkins as captain. The original enrollment was 60 members, and included the most prominent citizens of the town and county in that day. Mr. Chapman's records show that in 1900 there were still 31 of the original members living. But in the past few years the line has thinned rapidly, until at the present time as far as known only nine remain, as follows: Jas. W. Chapman, Jas. W. Lambert, John W. Duyer, Milton Baker, Daniel Cox, Alfred L. Benjamin, Freeman, Fiddis, Benj. H. Gardner, William W. Copper. The first seven named are all residents of Chestertown. Mr. Gardner resides in Baltimore and Mr. Copper at the National Soldier's Home.

Mr. Chapman, at the solicitation of the TRANSCRIPT, replied to Mr. Hemmell's inquiry published last week. Mr. Hemmell was at one time drummer boy in the "Reed Rifles." Mr. Chapman has the dress parade cap and helmet which he wore 55 years ago, and it is in a well preserved condition.

Not of Sufficient Importance.

In commenting upon the eight page advertisement of Isaac Lobe Straus attacking the President of the United States last Saturday, a dispatch from Washington to the Baltimore City News on Saturday afternoon says:

"The White House to-day refused to answer charges of former Attorney-General Isaac Lobe Straus, one of the three candidates for the United States Senate from Maryland, that President Wilson is attempting to interfere in the Senatorial campaign in that State. The matter was not considered of sufficient importance to warrant a reply from the White House."
