IN OUR CHURCHES

By LOUISE K. HINES

St. James Episcopal Church, Arlington and Lafayette Aves. will mark its 124th anniversary on Sunday with a special morning service with the rector, the Rev. Cedric E. Mills, preaching.

Preceeding the service, will be a procession from the parish house to the church sanctuary, led by the vestry and including all parish organizations, senior and church school choirs, guilds and their members.

St. James Has $2,500 Goal

Paul S. Henderson is chairman of the anniversary committee which is seeking to raise through voluntary contributions, of $5 per member, $2,500 to be used for renovations of the church property. St. James on last Sunday, completed a series of five radio broadcasts under the sponsorship of the Maryland-Delaware Council of Churches.

Mrs. Gray, Women's Day Speaker

The Men's Club of Grace Presbyterian Church, Etting and Dolphin Sts., held its monthly dinner meeting on Tuesday. Plans are being completed for the Annual Women's Day on Sunday when Mrs. Edna O. Gray will speak.

Free vocal training is being offered to members of the mixed choir now being formed at Emmanual C.C. Church, Lanvale St. and Carrollton Ave., under the direction of Vernon Thornton.

The Emmanuel Church Advisory Council is seeking to protect its members from exploitation by real estate dealers. An editorial in the current copy of its "Messenger" urges against signing any papers without a thorough understanding of their content.

Gratitude Shows Through Praise

In his "Capsule Sermon," the Rev. Wilbur W. Waters scores man's vanity. He said, "If the Almighty in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to bestow His blessing on us we should show our gratitude by praising God."

The Antioch Baptist Church was organized on Monday with the Rev. Prince E. Eason as moderator; and the Rev. R. D. Lyles, pastor.

All gospel choruses, young people's choirs and gospel singers are invited to the Youth Day services on Sunday at 3:30 p.m. at the Brown's Memorial Baptist Church, Fulton and Walbrook Aves. The Rev. G. E. Vanderford is pastor.

Reproduced in "The Broadcaster" of Payne Memorial AME Church, was the letter sent by the pastor, the Rev. C. Baker Pearle to Dr. D. O. W. Holmes, retiring president of Morgan State College.

Continue Fight For Schooling

"It is our profound hope that the genius of your leadership is so enmeshed in the spiritual fiber of the people of this community that they will not relinquish their determination to pray and work for complete victory in equal education opportunities for all peoples of our commonwealth," the letter reads in part.

The Rev. Mr. Pearle also reviewed important legislation accomplished at the AME General Conference despite the other chaotic happenings that were widely publicized.

Baptists Oppose Gambling

Miss Marian Seay of Enon Baptist Church, who emerged winner of the oratorical contest of the Ushers Union held recently, is now eligible to compete for a $100 scholarship at the final contest to be held in Detroit.

Last week the Baptist Ministers Conference went on record as opposing further liberalization of Maryland's gambling laws by the special session of the legislature.

The action followed a discussion of the issue by Mrs. Vera G. Scott of the Council of Churches.

The Rev. A. H. Bailey was appointed to represent the conference at the legislature presenting a document prepared by the civic committee.

St. Francis Has 200 Converts

Two hundred of the 270 persons confirmed recently by the Most Rev. Francis P. Keogh in St. Francis Xavier Church, were converts to the faith, according to the Catholic Review.

This church, located at Caroline and Eager Sts., is noted as a convert-making institution, possibly one of the best in the Archdiocese, averaging over 100 persons yearly.

The Rev. Ignatius Smith, OP of the Catholic University of America, warns of seven deadly sins in the United States which could wreck our democracy from within.

Sins Against Home, Freedom

They are: Collapse of the American home, economic injustice, bigotry, indifference to the processes of democracy, lawlessness, indifference to God, and abuse of freedom.

Considerable interest is being shown in the series of sermons on "Love," by the Rev. G. Oliver Wing, pastor of the Star of Bethlehem AME Church in Mount Winans. On Sunday Morning, his subject is "Love For Our Friends." Concerning rifles will follow.

Class meeting is set for 10:30 a.m.; Sunday School at 2 p.m., and at 5:30 p.m. the Allen Christian Endeavor League.

Sponsored by the Missionary of which Mrs. Evelyn Clayton is president, the annual Women's Day services will be held on Sunday at Macedonia Baptist Church, Lafayette and Fremont Aves.

Gospel Choir Feted

Mrs. Estelle Dawson is director of the play, "Ruth and Naomi," which will be a feature of the evening service.

The annual sermon to the gospel chorus will be preached on Sunday at 3 p.m. by the Rev. Simon Williamson, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, 1601 Ashland Ave.

Guest speaker on Sunday morning at the Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church, Bond and Jefferson Sts., will be the Rev. F. R. Foote of Rockhill, S.C.

Perkins Square Baptist Church will observe the 68th anniversary of the church located at George and Ogston Sts., and the 18th anniversary of the pastor, the Rev. Ward D. Yearby.

AME Guests

He will preach on Sunday morning and evening, while at 3 p.m. guest speaker will be the Rev. W. F. Foster of Ebenezer AME Church, his choir and congregation.

MINISTERS CONFERENCE

At the invitation of the Rev. Dennis Barrow, the Baptist Ministers Conference met this week at Fountain Baptist Church, Gay and Monument Sts.

The Sunday School lesson, "Courage to Put God First," was discussed by the Rev. I. C. Reddie, while the sermon was offered by the Rev. James L. Moore, pastor, Sharon Baptist Church.

Among the guests was Mrs. M. Smothers, founder and director of the St. Paul Independent School in Texas, which is aiding displaced children.

Masons Welcome 300th Va. Lodge

RICHMOND — Pride of St. James Lodge of Masons, the 300th Masonic lodge in Virginia, was consecrated May 23 during services in St. James Baptist Church by E. A. Norrell, grand master of Virginia Masons, with Deputy Louis Robinson presiding.

The charge was given to the newly consecrated officers by Grand Master Norrell and C. V. Wilson of Lynchburg, grand secretary, presented the consecration scroll.

The Rev. George Smith, pastor of the host church, conducted devotionals, assisted by the Rev. W. L. Jennings.

Other Speakers

The welcome address was given by Mrs. Alice Atkins; Martin Lewis offered a solo, and selections were given by the Sabbath Glee Club and the Sons of Melody Quartet.

Brief talks were made by District Deputy E. W. Greenhill, Eastern Star Deputy Addie Johnson and Dr. J. H. Blackwell Jr., past grand master.

The offertory was conducted by Robert C. Smith, Fred McLaurin, William Fleming and Pleasant Miles. Others taking part in the program were Samuel O. Braxton, Robert D. Crawley and John Clark.

Following the church services, refreshments were served on the lawn and then the Masonic party repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Holmes, where a banquet was served, with Grand Master Norrell and his wife and two children as honor guests.

Va. Baptists to Hold 50th Yearly Meet in Portsmouth

RICHMOND

The 50th anniversary session of the Baptist General Association of Virginia and the 46th annual session of the Baptist Women's Missionary and Educational Association will be held in Portsmouth June 15-18, the Rev. C. L. Evans, executive secretary, announced Friday.

According to the Rev. Mr. Evans, co-ordinator of the activities of the association and allied bodies, with headquarters here, host churches will be Zion Baptist, Dr. U. G. Wilson, pastor, and Ebenezer, Dr Harvey N. Johnson, minister.

Dr. H. N. Johnson, past president of the body, will be honored on opening night, with services held in Ebenezer Church, with Dr. W. L. Ransome of Richmond as principal speaker, while Dr. G. W. Goode, also a past president, will deliver the jubilee sermon at the men's session.

Dr. Goode will be heard Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Zion. The doctrinal sermon will be preached by Dr. S. L. Parham, pastor of Mosby Memorial Church, Richmond; the Rev. Charles S. Burke of Cherition will offer the evangelical sermon and the closing address will be by the Rev. S. L. Scott of Portsmouth.

"Union University Night, an innovation this year, will be held Wednesday with the following persons participating: Miss Elaine Morris, the Rev. J. E. Jones, respective 1948 college and seminary graduates; George Crawley, student, and Dr. John M. Ellison, president.

Following the Union Night program, a special offering will be lifted for the school, the Rev. J. Dett Marshburn delivering the appeal. Next morning, (Thursday), a panel discussion on "Christian Stewardship" is scheduled to be the order of the day.

Dr. Smith Among Orators

Slated speakers and their topics are: Dr. E. E. Smith, Richmond—"The Old Testament Background"; the Rev. C. E. Griffin, Norfolk—"The New Testament Basis"; the the Rev. C. E. Griffin, Norfolk—"Stewardship and Money"; The Rev. S. R. Williams, Smithfield—"Stewardship and Life"; the Rev. T. B. Davis, Kilmarnock—"Stewardship and the Gospel." Dr. B. H. Hester of Fredericksburg, will serve as publicity officer and co-ordinator.

Highlights of the women's convention will include an address by Mrs. Vivian C. Mason of Norfolk on Thursday evening, the annual address of Mrs. Ethel J. Dandridge, Fredericksburg, president, and daily workshops.

Oratorical Victor Competes in Detroit

As winner of the oratorical contest of the educational department of the Usher's Union, last Friday, Miss Marian Seay of Enon Baptist Church will compete in Detroit next month against winners from 14 states.

Other participants in the contest held at Union Baptist Church were:

Misses Jacqueline Shaw, Ames Methodist Church; James A. Brady, Emanuel Christian; Alice Jones, Mt. Olivet Christian; Elaine Minnis, Morning Star Baptist; James Peters, Freeland Memorial, Mark Bowers, New Metropolitan Baptist Church.

Mr. Marion Harris is president of the Ushers Union, and Mrs. Elizabeth Lane, chairman of the contest committee.

GETS 50-MINUTE BATH AFTER TAR VAT PLUNGE

FLORENCE—Nurses and attendants at St. Francis Hospital in Trenton last week gave John Jones, 36, of 450 St. Mary St., Burlington, a 90-minute bath with ether, acetone and benzine after he fell into a vat of warm tar at a local plant where pipes are coated with tar.

Soldier Who Died in Korea Buried

Pfc. Decator P. Cave, 21, of 3329 Salem St., who died a little while awaiting transportation home from Korea, November 1945, was buried in National Cemetery Wednesday with full military rites.

Pfc. Cave, a native of Baltimore, attended local schools and was working as a jockey in Florida when drafted in January, 1941. The only child of Mrs. Grace Cave, this city, he was assigned to the 63rd Division.

Along with others of the outfit, he had boarded a transport which was to have returned him home, where he was to be discharged, but because the vessel was overloaded he was sent back to await another troop ship.

It was while working at an ammunitions dump that he was killed in an explosion. While in Baltimore, he attended Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Dixie Presbyterians Urged to Uplift Race Voluntarily

ATLANTA—"Our consciences should know no peace and our hearts should hurt until we have accorded the colored man freely his opportunities for freedom, justice, citizenship, health, decent homes, education, and, in short, a chance to be somebody."

These things should be done for the colored man in the "voluntary, Christian spirit," and not "attempted by law," Dr. John R. Cunningham, retiring moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the USA (Southern Unit), told 400 delegates at the General Assembly here last Thursday.

Warning that unless the nations agreed on some form of world government "there would be war and the end of civilized humanity," Dr. Cunningham urged "deepened understanding and appreciation of our colored brethren in our homes, our communities, and throughout the area of our church."

Men at Work Building a New Tunnel

By PEYTON GRAY

CREWS of sandhogs are literally "digging and blasting" their way through life to our tribute just about as much toward the future welfare of Baltimoreans as are any other group.

Working some 300 feet into the very bowels of the earth, they are the men who are building the new Montebello Filtration plant near Morgan State College to the Patapsco River some few miles the city limits.

The men, most of whom follow the trade from job to job, are employed by contractors, who are covered by workmen's compensation insurance. Soft earth some times caves in, causing cave-ins in remote sections of the tunnels, ground passage way.

Hands Must Be Steady

Not being professional hogs, an AFRO reporter and photographer had to sign a "waiver and release" by which they agreed to take all risks of dangers and rules, and relieved the City of Baltimore, owner of the job, of responsibility in the event of a tragedy or accident.

The work of a sandhog is laborious and dangerous. The men are strong up and follow the trade for the pay, not for pleasure.

The workers wear steel helmets as a protection against falling rocks, and rubber boots against seeping through crevices in the rock overhead and big boots in the muck underfoot. Rubber gloves are generally made a good protection against cuts and bruises. Laborers generally make a good celebration when crews working from both ends of the tunnel meet, on the proper directional meet, on the line and grade, underground.

Though salaries paid were close by guesses by officials of the local union, the men underground range from $14 a week for plain laborers, to $18 a week for plain sandhogs, to $21 a week for operators of the muucking machine. The average wage is earned (?) in a 40 hour week, working 5 days a week.

Electric lines for light, fresh water pipes and compressed air lines are strung up and follow the men as they move into the job.

This mucker shovels blasted rock into dump cars to be carried to the surface.

A miniature train carries crushed rock to the tunnel shaft where it is lifted to the surface.

A shift of workers loads onto a lift which will take them 300 ft. down to the tunnel level.

A pneumatically operated drill cuts a pattern prior to blasting the path of a tunnel through solid rock. Minutes round out the opening with picks and iron bars. They work 8-hour shifts.

Purpose of the Job

A PROXIMATELY 650 men, are now at work building on the Montebello Tunnel, covering seven miles across the city, from the Patapsco River, to the Jones Falls, stretching toward the Potomac River; an additional 10-mile tunnel is planned for Northwest Baltimoreans will be free of dirty spent water.

The purpose is to build a passage way through which water can flow from the Susquehanna River, to irrigate plant at Lake Montebello in Northeast Baltimore.

The greatly increased population of the city must and is surrounding the lake, which is now the main draw on the local water supply, and the many new household and industrial units which will make use of water are drawing heavily on the city's supply.

Under construction since 1937 and by the Samuel Rosoff Company, J. E. Greiner, the 13 million dollar job, was begun in the time in 1950.

Over Your Hurdle

With a huge birthday cake decorated with three candles and their birthday wishes, Evans triplets celebrated their first birthday on Sunday. Eager to dig into the icing they are left to right, Wilbur, Wallace and Warren.

HARDEST LAP OVER:

Evans Triplets Chalk Up First Birthday

By LOUISE HINES

Three are one! That goes for the Evans triplets, cunning, active Wilbert, Warren and Wallace, who observed their first birthday on Sunday, which was really a "memorable day for their mother.

It was a day of mixed emotions, ways excited my admiration for her unruffled and calm disposition. At 17 months of age, she gave birth to the triplets.

The boys are not spoiled, and with his strength and buoyancy which is the envy of his brothers, young mother is assuming her share of the load.

Babies Have Teeth, Active

It's hard to believe that Wilbert, who weighed 3 pounds, is No. 1 baby, Wilbur, who weighed 3 pounds 4 ounces, now weighs 20 pounds and 14 ounces. He has 11 teeth. Wallace, who weighed 3 pounds 7 ounces, whose birth weight was the envy of his brothers, now scales now at 20 pounds and 12 ounces. He's mischievous, a cutup, and he's proud of his 18 teeth.

Warren, of the trio who cut his teeth, babble constantly and talks. When he chooses, he is a baby, even in weight, with 20 pounds and 8 ounces. He has a mop of curls of hair, but has a more quiet disposition.

He weighed 6 pounds, 2 ounces at birth.

Surprising Birthday Cake

Mother Evans had planned no special birthday celebration for her three. Her surprise was the birthday cake. Scores of cards found their way to the home of the Evans, 1217 N. Washington St.

"How do you manage, three babies at one time?" Mrs. Evans was asked. In reply Mrs. Evans said that she gives the baby a bottle after which the baby sleeps until 6 o'clock, giving the mother time to get the father, Johnnie off to work.

Assembly Style

Then comes the bathing and dressing of the babies, which is about an hour, and breakfast. Assembly line style, Mrs. Evans feeds the first bottle, then feeds the first restless or fretful one first. And the system works!

The triplets are blessed with a mother who cleans up, starts dinner and cleans up after dinner is served. Then after a periodic bottle, it's back to bed.

Mrs. Evans, for her marketing, cleaning and something find time for her hobby, of embroidering. This routine doesn't sound easy, but it is.

But a Vet, is School

No sir, not a happy family, moral! Day when the father had to go to work, Mrs. Evans attends a G.I tailoring school from 9 to 3 o'clock, returns home for dinner, and is off at 5 o'clock for an eight-hour shift in a copper mill.

Far from poor, and happy family, moral! Day when the father had to go to work, Mrs. Evans attends a G.I tailoring school from 9 to 3 o'clock, returns home for dinner, and is off at 5 o'clock for an eight-hour shift in a copper mill.

Far from poor, and happy family, moral! Day when the father had to go to work, Mrs. Evans attends a G.I tailoring school from 9 to 3 o'clock, returns home for dinner, and is off at 5 o'clock

Mrs. Peggy Wood of 807 N. Stricker St. is shown with one of the triplets she does in her spare moments. She is enrolled in a correspondence course in dressmaking. Upon completion, she hopes to enter the field of advertising.

a word to the wise--

ONE sure way of increasing personal savings is to make longer and better use of what you have. Making a beginning with your family leather goods — shoes, luggage, pocketbooks, gloves, belts, etc.

Basic care of leather needs the same kind of attention needed in skin cleaning and oiling. Maintenance is the key to safety and long life.

Treat Like Skin

1. Overuse of water. Castile soap will do the cleaning job—and a minimum of water.

2. Dry cleaning. The raw silk is warping and cracking. Leather should be cleaned in the shade, not in the sun. Sudden exposure to heat is not by placing near a radiator or in the oven. Turn the shoes inside, and reverse them as one would a glove.

Oil Keeps Shoes Elastic

3. Lack of lubrication. Leather is a skin, and must be kept elastic and pliable. Cleaning with soap and water should be followed with an application of neatsfoot oil. Many shoe stores carry it. It works like a thick oil, and should be used in preference of neatsfoot oil. Many shoe stores carry it.

4. Overlubrication. Shoes are lubricated, not saturated. Use a soft cloth or sponge. Wipe off excess oil.

5. Improper polishing. Glossy leather should always be polished with a soft cloth. For the kind of polishing a shoe shine boy does, use a stiff brush, but don't bear down too hard. Use a soft cloth for the final polish. The biggest leather shoes are lubricants.
