Wife Gets $6,196 in Mate's Death

Contending that a job injury served to aggravate a condition which caused her husband's death, Mrs. Clarie Burns of 100 Bond St., won a $6,196 settlement this week before the State Industrial Accident Commission.

Through Amos I. Meyers, attorney, Mrs. Burns placed compensatory action against the chemical company for which her husband, Daniel, worked on Mar. 25, 1947. It was then that he fell and broke his hip and injured his chest.

The chest injury aggravated an old condition which led to Mr. Burns's death on Jan. 30 at City Hospitals, the SIAC decided.

Tense Gun-Talk in 'Panhandle'

Rod Cameron beats Reed Hadley to the draw, while Anne Gwynne watches intently in "Panhandle," thrill-packed western, currently playing at the New Albert Theatre.

'Panhandle,' a Westerner, Diz Gillespie at the Albert

"Panhandle," one of the most brilliant outdoor dramas of the season, is currently playing the New Albert screen, starring Rod Cameron, Cathy Downs, Reed Hadley and Anne Gwynne.

The story is that of a one-time Texas marshal, played by Cameron, whose uncanny talent with six-shooters puts him on the wrong side of the law.

"On the dodge" in Mexico, he comes back across the line and into the Panhandle despite a price on his head, when he learns that his brother, a crusading newspaperman, has been mysteriously murdered. The news has been brought him by the brother's fiancee, portrayed by Cathy Downs.

One exciting event after another takes places as Cameron seeks out the killers, whom he suspects are led by a gambler, Reed Hadley.

The eventual denouement brings law and order to the Panhandle.

The supporting film, "Jivin' in Be-Bop," stars Dizzy Gillespie and his orchestra, plus Helen Humes, Sahji, Ray Sneed, the Hubba Hubba girls and a big cast of stars.

Now Playing the Regent Theatre

Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn in a scene from "State of the Union" currently playing the Regent.

Spencer Tracy Tops Cast in 'State of the Union'

Katherine Hepburn and Angela Lansbury make a battle of wits and hearts over Spencer Tracy in "State of the Union," now showing at the Regent Theatre, and the contest, referred by such equally stellar performers as Van Johnson and Adolphe Menjou, results in one of the most deftly acted and amusing connections of the year.

The picture is an adaptation of the Pulitzer Prize play which won loud kisses on Broadway.

Tracy plays the genial American picked by Publisher Angela to run for President. Starting out with uncompromising convictions about the welfare of his constituents, he is subsequently engulfed in the two-faced manipulations of his shrewd political boss, Menjou, but after running a gamut of emotional and dramatic barrages from all sides, is brought back into line by Miss Hepburn, playing the wife who comes out the winner.

Every performance in "State of the Union" is an acting gem, with Tracy playing the homespun presidential candidate to the life, and Miss Hepburn offering a winning portrayal of the wife who uses both her feminine wiles and a sense of humor to win him over to her side.

Also excellent are Miss Lansbury as the "petticoat power" who proves that beauty and brains can go hand in hand, Menjou in an er of his apoplectic portraits, Van Johnson as the fast-talking troubleshooter, and Lewis Stone as a ruthless newspaper czar.

Quartet at New Bali

WASHINGTON

Four thousand dollars worth of talent. That's exactly what the quartet of Sidney Catlett, Louis Armstrong, Barney Bigard and Earl Hines represent when they open at Benny Le Caldwell's New Bali Restaurant here, Friday, June 18. Fresh from a European tour that saw them establish all sorts of box office records, the quartet will make their first Eastern appearance at the Bali at a cost of $4,000 per week.

Gwynn to Bow Tonight as Conductor of Park Band

Charles E. Gwynn, the newly-appointed conductor of Park Band No. 2, will make his bow to the musical audience of Baltimore in the first concert to be given by this band today (Friday) at the Edgar Allan Poe Project.

The concert begins at 8 p.m. Mr. Gwynn has selected a very fine program for the occasion. Included will be the overture, "Gala Days"; a trumpet solo by Harry Campbell, "The Lost Chord"; the stirring march, "First Regiment Band"; and several popular selections. The complete program is as follows:

Baltimore, Our Baltimore ..... Hemberger
Emerelda-March ..... Born
Gala Days-Overture ..... Laurens
Water Lilies-Waltz ..... King
The Lost Chord (trumpet solo by Harry Campbell) ..... Sullivan
Gettysburg-March ..... Stambaugh
Love Is now Why (popular selection) ..... Ahlert
Homestretch Galop ..... King
INTERMISSION
Mignonnette-Overture
Facile ..... Baumann
Stilly Night-Serenade ..... Huff
Quality Quick-March ..... Jewell
Dance Waltz ..... Laurens
Good Night Sweetheart ..... Livingston
First Regiment Band-March ..... Atkinson
The Star-Spangled Banner ..... Smith

Mr. Gwynn, who is well-known in musical circles, received his education at Hampton Institute and was an instructor in music for a number of years.

These concerts, presented by the Bureau of Music of the Department of Recreation and Parks, are open to the public.

Edmunds to Direct Fla. Arts Institute

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—The first institute of creative and practical arts scheduled this year for a four weeks period, June 21 - July 17, at the Florida A. and M. College, will bring to the State some of the most outstanding national characters in the field of play writing, drama and the creative arts, S. Randolph Edmunds, professor of drama and fine arts at the college, announces.

Etta Moten, dramatist and lecturer, will be a member of the Arts Institute faculty for the summer workshop. Miss Moten will serve as guest professor in vocal pedagogy, give one or two formal recitals and possibly appear as guest actress in a play which is scheduled for the summer theatre festival.

Another nationally-known playwright, actor, director and producer who will assist Mr. Edmunds during the institute will be Powell Lindsay, formerly of the Yale University's school of drama, who has in recent years concentrated on his colored drama group.

He will teach playwriting, direct at least one play and appear as guest actor in two dramatic productions.
